Madras.—For week ending 5th May.—Showers in all districts, good in parts of the Circars, the Central, and the Deccan districts. Ploughing and sowing commencing in parts for next season's crop. Standing crops generally fair. Some harvest is still proceeding with moderate outturn. Pasturage scarce, but fodder abundant, and cattle generally in good condition. Prices almost stationary, but slightly easier in the Carnatic and Central districts, and rather dearer in the Southern districts.

Bombay.—For week ending 9th May.—Slight rain in parts of five districts. Standing crops damaged by rust, blight, or winds in parts of two districts; otherwise good, except cotton in Surat. Reaping of late crops progressing in four and cotton picking in three districts. Preparations for next season general. Agricultural stock healthy and fodder sufficient, except in one district. Prices steady, except in two districts. Numbers on relief works: Baroda, 1,080.

Bengal.—For week ending 5th May.—There was fairly general rain in the Presidency, Rajshahi, and Bhagalpur divisions during the week; in other divisions the falls were local in character. Ploughing and early sowings are in progress. In East Bengal early rice and jute are already sown, but the young seedlings are in need of rain. Sugarcane, indigo, and millets are doing well. The spring rice harvest is nearly finished, and, except in Howrah and the 24-Pergunnahs, the outturn is reported to be good. Opium weighments are over. Fodder and water-supply are generally sufficient, and cattle are reported in good condition. Prices of common rice continue almost stationary.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 9th May.—Slight rain has fallen in eight districts. Threshing and winnowing approaching completion. Sugarcane and extra summer crops being irrigated. Markets well supplied. Fodder and water adequate. Prices fairly steady, but have slightly fallen in a few districts.

Punjab.—For week ending 9th May.—Slight rain has fallen in two districts only. Harvesting and threshing of spring crops in progress, and sowings of extra spring crops nearly completed. Weedings of sugarcane and cotton commenced. The outturn of the spring crops and the prospects of the extra spring crops are said to be good. The condition of cattle is generally good, and fodder is sufficient throughout the province. Prices fluctuating in one district, falling in one, rising in three others, and stationary elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 9th May.—Usual hot weather conditions prevail, nights being cooler than usual. The people are occupied in winnowing and manuring. No material change in circumstances. Prices falling in Jabalpur, also in two tahsils of Saugor; stationary in the other two tahsils. Grain is being imported into Saugor and Damoh, but Saugor is not receiving in large quantities. The total grain imports into Saugor during April under 35,000 maunds; imports during the week 11,140 maunds. Damoh is reported to have received 37,494 maunds by road during the week. No gratuitous relief in either district. Number of persons on relief works in two tahsils of Saugor 3,691; figures for the other two tahsils have not been furnished. In Damoh only 990 persons are on relief works. The labouring classes are reported to be distressed in parts of the Chanda district.

Burma.—For week ending 5th May.—Rain has fallen over the whole province, and heavily on the coast of Lower Burma. In Upper Burma agricultural operations in connection with dry-weather paddy are progressing favourably, and reaping continues in several districts. Ploughing and sowing for early wet-weather paddy continue in a few places, and cultivation on hill clearings is progressing. Crop prospects good. Fodder and water-supply sufficient. The price of paddy in Lower Burma has varied slightly in four districts. In Upper Burma, except for a rise of 10 per cent. in the Lower Chindwin and Thayetmyo, the variations in other districts are unimportant.

Assam.—For week ending 8th May.—Weather warm. Early rice sowing and sugarcane planting continue. Condition of cattle good. Fodder and water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 9th May.—MYSORE: Rainfall good in the Mysore district. Crops and prospects good. No material change in prices.

COORG: Rainfall moderate. Sowing of rice begun in one taluk. Ploughing of rice fields in progress in some parts. Sowing of ragi (Eleusine coracana) commenced. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient. Prices stationary.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 9th May.—BERAR: Weather warm. Threshing of wheat and linseed not yet completed in the Melghat taluka. Land is being prepared for the ensuing rain-crop. The price of fodder has risen in one taluka, and fodder is reported insufficient in three other talukas. Water-supply inadequate in the Melghat taluka only. Prices fluctuating in two districts; otherwise stationary.

HYDERABAD: No rain during the week. Cutting of hot-weather crops continues. Prices steady.

Central India.—For week ending 9th May.—No rain during the week. Harvesting operations completed throughout Central India. The outturn has been fairly good in Baghelkhand, Western Malwa, and Bhopawar. There is likely to be scarcity in parts of Gwalior owing to the destruction of wheat by rust, and the outturn of this crop in Bhopal, Bundelkhand, and Goona will probably be below average. The cattle in parts of Gwalior are in indifferent condition. Pasturage good and sufficient generally, except in parts of Gwalior. Prices of food-grains have slightly fallen in the Bhopal and Goona Agencies, but are steady in other Agencies.

Rajputana.—For week ending 9th May.—Agricultural operations and cattle generally satisfactory. Reaping of crops completed; prospects generally good. Pasturage or fodder sufficient, except in Karauli and Dholpur, where it is reported failing. Prices rising in three States, falling in one, fluctuating in two others, and steady elsewhere.

Kashmir.—KASHMIR VALLEY.—For week ending 8th May.—Weather fine. Water for irrigation ample Spring crops in good condition. Rice sowings in progress. Prices stationary.

JAMMU PROVINCE.—For week ending 7th May.—No rain. Weather clear. Threshing of spring crops in progress Standing crops in fair condition. Fodder scarce in Ladakh; sufficient elsewhere. Prices tending to rise.

Nepal.—For week ending 5th May—Weather cloudy with occasional thunderstorms. Prospects favourable.

History does not consist merely of facts and dates; These are but dry bones and history is a most fascinating study if properly written. Moreover to condense a period extending over 800 years into 30 or 40 pages and to call the pamphlet a History is most misleading. There is no doubt, however, that as a help, a mere help, to the memory of the student who has carefully studied a real History, this little work would be of some use The general get-up is bad and there are "errors of commission and of omission."

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume ; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year, but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

Weather Review of India for the Week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, May 12th, 1894.

General Summary.—Showery weather has prevailed during the greater part of the week in Burma, Bengal, and Southern India, and a few showers of rain fell towards its close in the Punjab and Upper India Hill districts. In North-Western India, the Deccan, and Central India generally fine dry weather has prevailed. But the chief feature of the week has been the abnormally strong winds, especially on the Sind, Cutch, and Kathiawar Coasts, caused by very steep barometric gradients, brought about by an extraordinarily large fall of pressure on the 8th over the whole of Northern India. These abnormal conditions were accentuated by a further fall next day in Upper India and Baluchistan. The range of pressure over India on that day was nearly five-tenths of an inch (nearly three-tenths above the normal), and thus the average gradients were almost as large as during the height of the south-west monsoon. At Mooltan and Dera Ismail Khan, where pressure was at its lowest, it was nearly three-tenths of an inch below the normal. This unusually large fall of the barometer was doubtless due to high temperature causing an expansional vertical movement of the air, and is the largest fall brought about by this cause that has occurred for several years. The only fall of recent years at all approaching it was one that took place on the 7th May 1890; but the fall was not as large as the present one, and the conditions of its occurrence were besides complicated by a storm forming at the time in the Bay. In the present instance no disturbance in the weather followed: the only effect the fall of pressure had being the strengthening of winds all over India, especially in the Sind, Kathiawar, and Cutch coast districts, where the average wind velocity for the previous twenty-four hours increased at Bhuj to 31 miles per hour, and at Hyderabad (Sind) and Deesa to 26 and 24 miles per hour respectively. In Bengal strong easterly winds prevailed, which by the morning of the 10th extended along the foot of the hills up as far as the North-East Punjab, and caused a large increase of humidity in the North-Western Provinces. Pressure rose again almost as rapidly as it had fallen, and by the morning of the 11th pressure was approximately normal all over India. But it had not regained its equilibrium, for another oscillation took place the next day, the barometer falling briskly to rapidly in Burma and Northern India. Gradients were again steep, but the fall was comparatively small, and the gradients were not as steep as they had been before.

Temperature has been generally in excess during the week in Northern India and the Central Provinces. For the whole of India the mean temperature of the week was 1° in excess of the normal, while last week it was 0·1° in defect. There has hence been a considerable abnormal increase of temperature during the past week.

The abnormally high temperatures registered at several of the Madras coast stations during the prevalence of strong westerly land winds from the higher plateau area in the interior afford interesting examples of the increase of temperature accompanying descending currents of air. Thus at Madras on the 8th the maximum temperature of the previous day was only 96·5 with a southerly breeze, but with a shift of wind to the west it rose next day to 106·5, or 11° above the normal. The same cause produced an increase of temperature at Peshawar from 101° on the 6th to 108·5° on the 8th.

Daily Summary.—Sunday.—A general fall of pressure had taken place, the changes being small, but irregular, especially in North-Western and Central India. Small shallow depressions lay over the South-West Punjab and Central India. Easterly winds prevailed over the whole Gangetic plain and the South-East Punjab. Cloudy, showery weather continued in Burma, and thunderstorms were reported from some stations in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, and at Simla. Burdwan received 1·47 inches, Simla ·91 inch, and Roorkee ·87 inch.

Monday.—Pressure had again given way over a large part of India by small and very irregular amounts, and pressure was very uniform in Northern and Central India. Easterly winds prevailed as far west as Bihar, and winds were increasing rapidly in strength on the Sind Coast. Temperature was largely in excess in Assam and North Bengal and in considerable defect in Burma. Rain continued in Burma, and thunderstorms had given local showers in Malabar, Mysore, the North-Western Provinces, and Bengal. Kindat registered 2·61 inches, Minbu 1·22 inches, and Calicut 1·43 inches.

Tuesday.—Unusually large changes of pressure had taken place. Pressure had fallen over the whole of India, and with unusual rapidity in Northern India, where the fall exceeded a tenth of an inch at every station. In the North Punjab the fall amounted to nearly a quarter of an inch. Pressure was largely in defect in Northern India, the defect varying from ·14 inch on the Bengal Coast to ·22 inch in the North Punjab. The barometric gradients were unusually steep. Northerly winds were blowing at the Upper India Hill stations, and easterly winds prevailed over the whole of the Gangetic plain. Winds were strong on the Sind, Cutch, and Kathiawar Coasts, and also at the Bengal coast stations. Temperature had fallen considerably in Bengal, and continued largely in defect in Burma. Showers of rain were reported from all the Burma stations, and from stations in Bengal and Southern India. Kindat received 3·09 inches, Bhamo 2·25 inches, and Bogra 1·76 inches.

Wednesday.—A further brisk fall of the barometer had taken place in Baluchistan and Upper India, thus intensifying the abnormally low pressure conditions established there the day before. Pressure changes were very irregular in North-Eastern India, where pressure had risen briskly in Assam and fallen briskly in Chota Nagpur, and very steep gradients for easterly winds hence obtained in Bengal and Bihar. Pressure was nearly three-tenths of an inch below the normal at Mooltan and Dera Ismail Khan, and the range of pressure over India was nearly five-tenths, giving gradients almost as steep as in the height of the south-west monsoon. Winds were stronger at the head of the Bay and in Bengal, and very strong westerly winds were blowing in Lower Sind, Cutch, Kathiawar, Gujarat, and Rajputana. Rain continued in Burma, and numerous thunderstorms were reported from Bengal. Light showers of rain also fell in Southern India and at Colombo. Sibsagar received 2·34 inches, Lashio 1·46 inches, Darjeeling 1·34 inches, Bogra 1·27 inches, and Moulmein 1·3 inches.

Thursday.—Pressure had risen rapidly in Northern India and slightly to briskly in the Peninsula, but was still largely in defect in Upper India. Strong southerly winds continued in Bengal, and abnormally strong westerly winds in Western and Central India and the Deccan. The average velocity per hour of winds at Bhuj was 31 miles, at Hyderabad (Sind) 26 miles, and at Deesa 24 miles. Easterly winds had extended over the North-Western Provinces, causing an increasing humidity in that area. Temperature had increased rapidly in the Punjab, where the mean temperature was 7° above the normal. The maximum temperature of the previous day was 118·1° at Jacobabad and 115·4° at Sirsa. Rain continued in Bengal and at a few stations in Burma. Falls of one inch or above were recorded at Jessore (1·79 inches), Akyab (1·38 inches), Tavoy (1·3 inches), Chittagong (1·0 inch), and Jalpaiguri (·98 inch).

Friday.—A further rise of pressure, rapid in North-Western India, had restored the pressure distribution to approximately the normal. Winds were unusually strong in the Punjab and at the Upper India Hill stations, but had fallen off slightly in strength elsewhere. Humidity had decreased in the North-Western Provinces, but had increased in the Punjab and Central Provinces; and the contrast between the humidity on the coast and in the interior was much less striking than it had been. Thunderstorms were again reported from Bengal, and a large number of duststorms occurred in the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces, in some cases accompanied by rain. Calcutta received 1·51 inches, Jessore 1·18 inches, and Berhampore ·84 inch.

Saturday.—Pressure had risen slightly in Southern India, but had fallen briskly to rapidly in Burma and Northern India. It was in moderate defect in depressions lying over the Central Punjab and Central Burma, and was in slight excess on the West Coast, the barometric gradients hence being again steeper than usual in North-Western India and the Peninsula. Winds had a feeble but well marked cyclonic circulation in the Central Punjab depression. Duststorms occurred in the South Punjab and thunderstorms in the North Punjab, Bengal, Tenasserim, and Southern India. Calicut registered 3·49 inches of rain, Dinajpur 1·45 inches, and Tavoy 1·38 inches.

Temperature.—The following table gives the variations of the mean temperature from the normal on each day of the week for the different provinces of India ·

The mean temperature for the whole of India was in excess of the normal on every day of the week. The excess was greatest on the 6th, 9th, and 10th. For the week it was 1° in excess, showing an abnormal increase of nearly a degree over the mean temperature of the previous week. In Burma temperature was in slight to considerable defect, due to the showery weather which prevailed there during the week; but in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, the Central Provinces, Sind, and Rajputana temperature was generally in slight to considerable excess on every day of the week. The strong westerly sea winds obtaining during the greater part of the week reduced the temperature in Bombay, Central India, and Gujarat to below the normal; but, as noticed above, they had the opposite effect in Madras. Except in Burma, the week has been marked by unusually high temperature over nearly the whole of India.

Rainfall.—Rain has been much more general this week, and showers have been reported from forty of the fifty-two rainfall divisions. But, except in Burma, Assam, and Bengal, the falls have not been large in amount. In eleven divisions of Burma, Bengal, and Assam the average rainfall of the week has exceeded an inch. The largest average falls are those of Assam (Brahmaputra), 3·21 inches, Tenasserim, 3·20 inches, and East Bengal and Assam (Surma), 3·13 inches each. In all the divisions of these provinces, excepting Assam (Surma), Orissa, and North and South Bihar, the fall has been in excess of the average for the week; but for the period 4th March to 12th May the majority of divisions continue to show a defect, only Tenasserim, Lower and Central Burma, and North Bengal having received rain in excess of the normal amount for this period. Of the remaining provinces, only in three divisions has the average rainfall of the week exceeded one inch, and in seventeen others it did not exceed a quarter inch. It has been in excess of the normal fall of the week only in North-Western Provinces (West), Malabar, Madras (South Central), and East Coast (North).

The last three columns of the table at the close show that the rainfall of the period 4th March to 12th May has been in excess of the normal in Burma and the Peninsula generally. In Northern India it has been in excess only in North Bengal and the north-west and west districts of the Punjab. The defect continues to be greatest in amount in Assam.

The largest amounts of rain received during the week are the following:

Laksham (Tipperah), 23·0 inches.

Magok (Upper Burma), 9·36 inches.

Ponani (Calicut), 8·0 inches.

Namotha (Cachar), 6·30 inches.

Commilla (Tipperah), 6·07 inches.

The price of paddy has risen slightly in Rangoon; fluctuations in other places are unimportant. The price of rice has risen slightly in Rangoon and fallen largely in Bhamo.

Assam.—For week ending 15th May—The rainfall has been less than usual, and the drought has done some damage to tea; but rain has now fallen, and prospects are again good. Weather unsettled. Tea suffering from want of rain in Sibsagar. Sowing of rice seedlings in progress. Condition of cattle fair. Fodder and water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 16th May.—MYSORE: Rain throughout the State. Standing crops in good condition. Prices fallen in parts.

COORG: Rainfall good. Ploughing commenced. Prospects of coffee and cardamom fair. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient. Prices stationary.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular and European names, habitat or source, history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial), trade statistics, markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages, Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year, but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

No. 1693-G., dated 23rd May, 1894.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department.

Conditions of promotion of Honorary Commissioned Officers to the Provincial Engineer Service of the Public Works Department.

Read—

Government of India, Public Works Department, Resolution No. 1664-G., dated 26th June 1893.

Despatch to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 331 Financial, dated 11th October 1893.

Despatch from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 4 Public Works, dated 11th January 1894.

RESOLUTION.—In the orders on question VI referred to in the Resolution cited in the preamble regarding promotions to the Provincial Service of the Engineer Establishment of the Public Works Department, it was stated that orders would issue hereafter regarding the promotion of Honorary Commissioned officers to that service.

Under present rules such officers are on promotion to honorary rank in the army graded as Assistant Engineers in the Public Works Department (vide Public Works Code, Vol. I, Chap. II, paragraph 58), but are counted against the Upper Subordinate Scale, and their pay is regulated by the rules applicable to military men (Public Works Code, Vol. I, Chap. I, paragraph 13, note 1, and Chap. V, paragraph 41).

The Governor General in Council is hereby pleased, with the concurrence of Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, to order that Honorary Commissioned officers holding the rank of Deputy Commissary, Assistant Commissary, and Deputy Assistant Commissary shall be eligible for promotion to the Provincial Engineer Establishment, but that on being so promoted at their option, they shall, like Warrant and Non-Commissioned officers below the rank of Deputy Assistant Commissary, be required to resign their military rank under clause (3) of Article 388 of the Civil Service Regulations, and then be permitted to count their departmental service for a civil pension.

No. 2112-G., dated the 19th July 1892
No. 1664 G, dated the 20th June 1893

On being so promoted, they will be subject to the rules laid down in the Resolutions quoted in the margin, so far as they are applicable, and will draw the difference between the pay of the grade to which they are promoted and the staff pay and military allowances previously drawn by them as a personal allowance.

2. It should, however, be clearly pointed out to each officer who may accept promotion on these conditions that his non-departmental army service will not count for pension, and that he forfeits his right to a sterling pension under military rules, and also to a possible pension for his widow.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be communicated to the Local Governments, Administrations, and Officers noted on the margin for information and guidance, and that it be published in Part I of the Gazette of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Weather Review of India for the Week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, May 19th, 1894.

General Summary.—The pressure conditions of the week vary but little from those prevailing during the greater part of the previous week. Abnormally steep gradients favouring strong westerly winds in North-Western India and the Peninsula have continued to be a marked feature of the pressure distribution The defect of pressure in Upper India has, however, not been so great, but a trough of low pressure lying along the hills, and extending from the Punjab to Bengal, has been the prevailing feature of the week, with pressure lowest at its two extremities in the Punjab and in West Bengal and Chota Nagpur. Hence westerly winds have prevailed for the most part in the Gangetic plain and have extended into Bihar, causing a reduction of humidity and an increase of temperature. Temperature has been most excessive in Bihar, West Bengal, and Chota Nagpur, where unusually high maximum day temperatures have been recorded. At Patna and Gaya on the 18th the thermometer rose to 110°. Temperature has also been excessive on the Madras Coast caused by a continuance of westerly land winds. There has been heavy rain in Tenasserim, Tavoy on two occasions registering falls exceeding 6 inches in the twenty-four hours, and showery weather has continued in Burma generally Thunderstorms occurred in Assam, North and East Bengal, and Southern India, but they have been neither numerous nor severe. A few thunderstorms were also reported from the Upper India hill districts, in some cases accompanied with hail. Light to moderate rain fell at stations in Central Rajputana

Daily Summary.—Sunday.—Pressure had given way everywhere, except in Southern India, where it had risen slightly, and unusually steep gradients favouring westerly winds prevailed in North-Western India and the Peninsula. Winds were strong in Sind, Cutch, Kathiawar, Rajputana, and the Deccan, and their average velocity during the past twenty-four hours amounted to 33 miles per hour at Hyderabad (Sind) and 23 miles at Bhuj. Rain had fallen in the Punjab hills, North and East Bengal, Assam, Upper Burma, Malabar, and West Ceylon. Dinajpur received 3·06 inches, Gnatong 1·82 inches, Mymensing 1·25 inches, and Burdwan 1 inch.

Monday.—The pressure changes were irregular and small in amount, emphasizing the conditions of the previous day. Steep gradients and strong westerly winds continued. Temperature had risen rapidly in the Punjab, where it was 4·8° above the normal. Rain had fallen in Bengal, Assam, Burma, and Southern India. Tavoy registered 2·19 inches, and Fort Stedman, Sibsagar, Gnatong, Barisal, Jalpaiguri, and Chitaldroog amounts exceeding one inch.

Tuesday.—The barometer had risen over the whole of India, but no important change in the pressure distribution had taken place. Temperature had increased in Bengal and Burma, and was most excessive in South-West Bengal, Chota Nagpur, and South Bihar, where it was 5° to 7° above the normal. Heavy rain had fallen in Tenasserim and Assam, and light to moderate showers in North Bengal and the Upper India hill districts. The largest falls were the following: Tavoy, 6·42 inches; Dhubri, 3·8 inches; and Jalpaiguri, 1·15 inches.

Wednesday.—The distribution of pressure continued practically the same. The trough of low pressure lying along the foot of the hills, which had been a persistent feature for some days past, had moved considerably further north than usual. Steep gradients continued with strong westerly winds—strongest in Sind, Cutch, Kathiawar, Rajputana, Central India, and the Deccan. Temperature had decreased considerably in the Punjab and Burma, but was still largely above the normal in West Bengal, Central and South Bihar, and Chota Nagpur. Tavoy had received 2·65 inches of rain, Moulmein 1·47 inches, and Diamond Island 1 inch. Thunderstorms had occurred in Assam, North Bengal, and the Upper India hill districts, where they were in some cases accompanied with hail.

Thursday.—Barometric gradients in Western India were not so steep, but the general features of the pressure distribution were unchanged. Winds in the Deccan, Rajputana, and Central and Western India had fallen off slightly in strength, but were still considerably above their normal strength. Heavy rain had again fallen in Tenasserim, Tavoy reporting a fall of 6·08 inches. A few light showers were reported from other districts.

Friday.—Pressure had increased at most stations, but generally by small amounts, and the principal features of its distribution remained unchanged. Barometric gradients were steeper in the south-east and east of the Bay. Winds continued considerably above their normal strength, and at many stations were from 50 to 100 per cent. above their mean strength in May. Moderate to heavy general rain had fallen in Lower Burma, and local showers elsewhere, chiefly in Bengal and Southern India The following were the largest falls reported: Moulmein, 4·52 inches; Gnatong, 2 62 inches, Tavoy, 2·05 inches, Madura, 1·18 inches, and Toungoo, ·90 inch.

Saturday.—Pressure had increased briskly in Burma, but elsewhere had changed by only small amounts which had not affected its distribution. Steep gradients continued and strong westerly winds considerably above their normal strength. Owing to the action of increasing sea winds in Bengal, the area of greatest excess of temperature had been transferred slightly northwards into Central Bengal. Patna, Gaya, and Chaibassa had the day before registered maximum temperatures exceeding 110°. Light to moderate rain was reported from stations in Burma, Bengal, Assam, Southern India, and Central Rajputana. The heaviest falls were:—Rangoon, 1·68 inches; Bassein, 1·40 inches; Silchar, 1·27 inches; Sambhar, 1·26 inches, Thayetmyo, 1·15 inches; and Dhubri, 1·06 inches.

Except in Burma, where the temperature was chiefly affected by the rainfall, the abnormally strong westerly winds prevailing during the past week showed their influence on the temperature in a marked degree. In the provinces of Bombay, Gujarat, Sind, Rajputana, and Central India, where these winds were still to a great extent sea winds, temperature was reduced to slightly below the normal; but further in the interior in the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, and Bengal, and on the Madras Coast, where an increase of temperature accompanied the descent of the winds from the higher plateau area of the interior, temperature was considerably in excess. As might be expected, the excess of temperature was greatest in Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and the parts of Western Bengal unaffected by the southerly sea winds from the Bay; and the excess at stations in this area varied from 4° to 8°.

The mean temperature of the week was normal in Burma, Bombay, the Central Provinces, Berar, Sind, and Rajputana; slightly in defect in Central India and Gujarat, and in moderate excess in Madras, the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, and Bengal. The mean temperature of the whole of India was in excess on every day of the week. For the whole week it was 0·9° above the normal.

Rainfall.—Moderate to heavy rain has fallen in Tenasserim, Lower Burma, Assam, and North and East Bengal. The rainfall in other parts of the country has been very small in amount, and in most cases in defect of the normal fall for the week The divisions that have received the heaviest average falls are:—Tenasserim, 11·26 inches, Assam (Surma), 5·47 inches; North Bengal, 3·52 inches; Lower Burma, 3·06 inches, and Assam (Brahmaputra), 2·90 inches. Forty of the fifty-two rainfall divisions have received rain, but in only the following seven has the rainfall been in excess of the average normal fall of the week: Tenasserim, Assam (Surma and Brahmaputra), North and East Bengal, and the North-West and Hill districts of the Punjab.

For the period 4th March to 19th May, the normal amount of rainfall has been received in the Punjab hill districts and in Coorg. The rainfall has been in excess in Tenasserim, Central Burma, North Bengal, the North-West and West districts of the Punjab, the Konkan, Khandesh, the Bombay Deccan, Berar, Central Provinces (West), and in most of the divisions of Southern India. The largest excess is in Tenasserim, where the rainfall of the period has amounted to 27·26 inches as against the normal fall of 12·05 inches. Rainfall continues in greatest absolute defect in Assam.

The largest amounts of rain received at individual rain gauge stations during the week are the following: Thaton (Tenasserim), 14·38 inches; Kyaikto (Central Burma), 10·56 inches; Cherra (Khasia and Jaintia Hills), 8·78 inches; and Moulmein, 8·13 inches.

Snowfall.—The Agency Surgeon, Gilgit, states that the snowfall on the neighbouring hills was below the average in November and December and above it in January, February, and March. The total snowfall for the whole winter was heavier than usual, and the inhabitants of the district are in consequence expecting an unusually good harvest.

Madras.—For week ending 19th May.—Showers in most districts. Good rain in the Central, Nilgiris, and parts of the Circars, the West Coast, and the Southern districts. Ploughing and sowing in places. Standing crops good. Harvest still continues in places; outturn average. Pasture scarce, but fodder sufficient. Condition of cattle good. Prices practically stationary.

Bombay.—For week ending 23rd May.—Rain generally slight in parts of fourteen districts. Standing crops damaged by rust or insects in parts of two districts; otherwise good. Preparation of lands for next season in general progress. Sowing commenced in parts of four districts. Agricultural stock poor and fodder insufficient in parts of one district. Numbers on relief works: Baroda, 949.

Bengal.—For week ending 19th May.—There was general rain during the week in North and East Bengal, and light showers occurred in South-West Bengal, while in Behar, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur little or no rain fell. Ploughing and early sowings are in progress, but rain is required over the greater part of the province. In North and East Bengal, where sufficient rain has fallen, the young early rice and jute crops are coming on well. Prospects of sugarcane, indigo, and millets are generally good. Cattle are in good condition. The supply of fodder and water generally sufficient. Prices of common rice continue normal, except in the Eastern districts, where they are still high.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 23rd May.—Weather hot. Slight rain has fallen in two districts. Threshing and winnowing nearing completion. Irrigation of summer crops continues; extra crops doing well. Supplies and fodder sufficient. Prices normal.

Punjab.—For week ending 23rd May.—Rain has fallen in all but five districts. Threshing of spring crops going on and weeding of cotton in progress. Land is being prepared for the coming autumn. Extra spring crops are said to be in good condition and sugarcane average. Cattle are generally reported to be in good condition and fodder sufficient throughout the province. Prices rising in four districts and falling in one; stationary elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 23rd May.—The weather has been very hot and oppressive. Storms have occurred in places, and Seoni has registered half an inch of rain. Prospects generally unchanged. In Saugor the week's imports of grain reached 15,600 maunds, and Damoh received 8,000 maunds by road from Jabalpur. The average daily number of persons on relief works has risen to 2,395 in Saugor and to 1,615 in Damoh. No gratuitous relief. The price of wheat is 12 seers at Saugor, 13¾ seers at Damoh, 15 seers at Jabalpur, 13 seers at Narsinghpur, and 16 seers at Hoshangabad. Gram is still cheap, selling at 18 seers in Saugor and Damoh, at 24 seers in Jabalpur and Narsinghpur, and at 22 seers in Hoshangabad; common rice at 10½ seers in Damoh.

Burma.—For week ending 19th May.—The rainfall up to date is general and sufficient It is less than that of last two years in the Northern and Western divisions, but in excess in the Central and Southern divisions. In one district of Lower Burma ploughing for the main paddy crop has commenced. In Upper Burma reaping of dry-weather paddy and sowing of early wet-weather paddy in plains and on hill clearings progressing favourably. Sowing of cotton has commenced in Sagaing. Standing crops are looking well. The price of paddy has risen in Yeu, fluctuations in prices elsewhere are unimportant. Fodder and water-supply sufficient.

Assam.—For week ending 22nd May.—Weather seasonable. Sowing of early rice nearly finished and ploughing for late rice commenced. Condition of cattle fair. Fodder and water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 23rd May.—MYSORE: Slight rain throughout the State. Crops and prospects good. Ragi (Eleusine coracana) sown in the Hassan district. Prices fallen in the Chitaldrug district.

COORG: Rainfall moderate. Ploughing in progress. Sowing of rice nurseries commenced in some parts. Prospects of coffee and cardamom fair. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient. Prices continue normal.

Fodder insufficient in parts of two districts and water-supply inadequate in the Melghat taluka only. Prices fluctuating in two districts; otherwise stationary.

HYDERABAD: No rain during the week. Reaping of hot-weather crops continues. Prices steady.

Central India.—For week ending 23rd May.—Slight rain in Bundelkhand during the week. Later reports show that the failure of the wheat crops in Bhopal and parts of Gwalior are not causing much distress at present, but arrangements are being made to open out relief works should such be required. In other Agencies, except Bundelkhand, the wheat crops have been fairly good.

Pasturage good and sufficient in almost all parts of Central India. Prices of food-grains above normal rates in parts of Gwalior and steady at high rates in other Agencies.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume ; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular and European names, habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics, markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year, but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

ARTICLE XV.

All articles seized which were in the possession of the person to be surrendered at the time of his apprehension shall, if the competent authority of the State applied to for the extradition has ordered the delivery thereof, be given up when the extradition takes place, and the said delivery shall extend not merely to the stolen articles, but to everything that may serve as a proof of the crime.

RULES.

Transport, Import, and Export.

1. No arms or ammunition or military stores shall be transported in any part of the Hyderabad Assigned Districts without a license in form I appended to these rules. The license will be granted by the Deputy Commissioner of the district. If the articles are to be consigned to a place beyond the jurisdiction of the officer granting the license, the consent of the Deputy Commissioner of the district to which the consignment is made must be obtained before the license is issued. Such consent may be obtained by the person applying for the license, or the Deputy Commissioner to whom application for the license is made may forward the proposed license to the officer whose consent is required; and on receiving reply may either issue the license to the applicant, or inform him that his application for a license to transport arms, etc., has been refused. The fee payable in respect of every such license shall be ten rupees.

2. Persons lawfully entitled to possess arms, or to go armed, are permitted to transport in any part of the Hyderabad Assigned Districts arms and ammunition in reasonable quantities for their own use. Any person abusing this exemption, and transporting such articles otherwise than in reasonable quantities for his own use, will be held to have contravened this rule, and will, on conviction, become liable to the penalties under sections 13 and 14.

3. A person licensed to possess arms, ammunition, or military stores, or who is exempted from the liability to take out such a license, is entitled to transport to his residence from the premises of a licensed dealer arms, ammunition, or military stores without a separate transport license so long as the articles purchased are in reasonable quantity and for his own use. A licensed dealer in arms, ammunition, and military stores may supply the order of any such person, and may, without a separate transport license, send or despatch in any way desired to the residence of the purchaser the articles ordered by any such person so long as they fulfil the requirements of rule 2, and are legibly addressed to the person for whom they are intended.

4. A license to transport arms or ammunition or military stores is void if the consignment breaks bulk at any place short of the district for which it may be granted. A license to transport shall ordinarily not be made valid for more than twice the period actually required for the conveyance of the articles to their destination by the intended route.

5. No license shall be granted, save by the special order of the Governor-General in Council, certified under the signature of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Foreign Department, for the importation into the Hyderabad Assigned Districts of any rifles, or parts of or fittings for rifles, except rifles or parts of or fittings for rifles of such quality or in such quantity as may reasonably be held to be intended for boná fide sporting purposes.

6. Licenses to import into the Hyderabad Assigned Districts arms (other than arms for which the Governor-General in Council is to issue licenses under rule 5), ammunition, or military stores may be granted by the Deputy Commissioner of the district to which such arms, ammunition, or military stores are consigned. The fee payable in respect of each such license shall be rupees five; but officers granting such licenses are empowered to remit the fee when the arms, ammunition, or military stores are of a reasonable quantity, and such officers are satisfied that they are required boná fide for purposes of protection of person or property. In the case of arms, ammunition, or military stores imported into the Hyderabad Assigned Districts from any other part of the territories of His Highness the Nizam or from any other Native State, a copy of the license shall be sent by the officer granting it to the Secretary for Berar to the Resident at Hyderabad. If the district to which the articles to be imported are consigned is other than a frontier district, and they are to cross the frontier by road or river, a copy of the license shall also be sent to the Deputy Commissioner of the frontier district, who shall, if he thinks necessary, before permitting the arms, ammunition, or military stores to leave his district, require the holder of the license to produce them for his inspection. If the articles are to cross the frontier by rail, a copy of the license shall be sent in the case of consignments despatched from a Presidency town to the Commissioner of Police, and in other cases to the Magistrate of the district from which the articles are to be despatched. In such cases the Commissioner of Police or the Magistrate of the district, as the case may be, should at once forward a copy of the license to the railway authorities at the place of despatch. And the railway authorities shall in every such instance satisfy themselves before delivery that the arms, ammunition, or military stores claimed by any consignee correspond with the description given in the original license, which the said consignee must produce, and also that the said license is identical in substance with the copy sent to them by the Commissioner of Police or Magistrate of the district. If the license is not produced, or the arms, ammunition, or military stores claimed do not correspond with the description in the license, the railway authorities will give immediate notice of the fact to the nearest Magistrate.

The license shall be prepared in form II appended to these rules.

7. Licenses to export arms or ammunition or military stores by road or by river to any place beyond the border of the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, and not within the limits of British India, may be granted by the Secretary to the Government of India in the Foreign Department, or by the Resident at Hyderabad, or by an officer authorised by the Government of India or by the Resident to grant such license.

Licenses granted under this rule will be prepared in form III, and be charged with a fee of rupees five, except in such cases as the Government of India in the Foreign Department or the Resident at Hyderabad may grant exemption from, or reduction of, the prescribed fee.

Copies of such licenses shall be sent on the day of issue to the Resident at Hyderabad and to the Political Officer of the State to which the articles are to be exported. If the articles are to be carried across the frontier by rail, a copy of the license should be sent to the Deputy Commissioner of the district from which the articles are to be despatched. In such cases the Deputy Commissioner of the district should at once forward a copy of the license to the railway authorities at the place of despatch. No railway company shall receive for despatch any box, package, or bale containing arms, ammunition, or military stores as defined in the Indian Arms Act (XI of 1878), as applied to the Hyderabad Assigned Districts and the rules framed thereunder, unless covered and accompanied by the original license granted under these rules; and the railway authorities shall in every instance satisfy themselves that the goods tendered to them for conveyance correspond to the description given in such license, and that the license is identical with that forwarded to them by the Deputy Commissioner of the district.

8. Persons desirous of transporting, importing, or exporting arms, ammunition, or military stores in, into, or from the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, must apply in writing to the nearest officer authorised to grant a license. The application must specify—

(a) the place to which the articles are to be transported, imported, or exported; the route of transport, import, or export; and the probable time that will be occupied in the journey;

(b) the quantity, description, average price, and the purpose of each kind of arms or ammunition; or

(c) in the case of transport or export, whether the applicant has obtained the consent of the Magistrate or Police officer of the place of consignment. [If so, the evidence of such consent must be produced.]

9. Persons transporting, importing by road, or exporting arms, ammunition, or military stores under a license must write legibly on the cases or packages containing such articles an account of their contents.

10. In the case of transport or import, the consignee must, within six days of the articles reaching their destination, deliver the transport or import license to the Deputy Commissioner of the district. In the case of articles exported from the Hyderabad Assigned Districts to any place not within the limits of British India, the export license must within six days of the consignment reaching the frontier district, and before it leaves the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, be delivered to the Magistrate of the frontier district, or other officer empowered by him on this behalf. In the case of articles imported into the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, the import license must, within six days of the consignment entering the Hyderabad Asigned Districts, be shown to the Magistrate of the frontier district or other officer empowered by him in this behalf.

11. The officer to whom the transport, import, or export license, as the case may be, may be delivered under rule 10 must satisfy himself that the articles correspond with the entries in the license, and that any deficiency is properly accounted for.

Manufacture and Sale.

12. Licenses to manufacture, convert, keep, and sell arms or ammunition or military stores may be granted by the Deputy Commissioner of the district. They shall be in forms IV and V appended to these rules. The fee, payable in stamps, shall be twenty rupees in respect of licenses to manufacture, convert, and sell, and ten rupees in respect of licenses to keep and sell arms, ammunition, or military stores. Every license-holder under this rule shall keep, in such form as the Resident at Hyderabad may from time to time direct, registers of all arms manufactured or converted, of all ammunition and military stores manufactured, of all stock in hand, and of all sales. He shall exhibit his stock and his registers on demand by any Magistrate or by any Police officer not below the rank of Inspector. GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Weather Review of India for the Week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, May 26th, 1894.

General Summary.—The meteorology of the week has not differed materially from that of the previous week. The same abnormal conditions of steep barometric gradients, very strong winds, and excessive temperature, especially in Bihar, Chota Nagpur, West Bengal, and the North-Western Provinces, have continued throughout the week. The pressure changes from day to day have been small and irregular, and have left unchanged the general pressure distribution, which has been practically the same all through the week, with the exception of the 24th, when pressure was more uniform than it had been for some time past in the south and west of the Peninsula. The trough of low pressure, which during the previous week extended from the Punjab to Bihar and Chota Nagpur, has during the past week been confined chiefly to the submontane districts of the North-Western Provinces and North Bihar, where pressure has been greatest in defect. Winds, while not quite so strong in Sind, Cutch, Kathiawar, and the Deccan, increased very considerably in force at the Orissa and Bengal coast stations and in Bengal itself. On the 26th their mean velocity for the past twenty-four hours was 37 miles per hour at Saugor Island, 27 miles at False Point, and 34 miles at Gopalpore, while at Darjeeling strong northerly winds were reported with a mean velocity of 18 miles per hour. An important feature has been the prevalence of unusual northerly winds at the majority of the Upper India hill stations, which may be a result of the abnormally heavy snowfall of the past winter in the higher and interior ranges of the Punjab and Kashmir Himalayas, and which, if accompanied with unusually late snowfall, may prove to be of some considerable importance. A communication from the Kyelang Observatory in Lahoul states that a heavy fall of snow occurred from the 10th to the 16th May, which was of course much heavier on the neighbouring mountains. It is possible that this snowfall extended over a large area, but in the absence of further information it is impossible to estimate its probable effects. The excess of temperature in West Bengal, Bihar, and Chota Nagpur noticed in the previous week's weather report has increased during the past week, and at several stations has exceeded 10° above the normal. The largest absolute excess was at Chaibassa, where it amounted to 12·6° on the 26th. Maximum day temperatures exceeding 112° were recorded during the week in this area at the stations of Chaibassa, Patna, and Gaya. Abnormally high temperatures were also registered at stations in the North-Western Provinces and the South-East Punjab. A noteworthy feature in the temperature distribution of the week was the large difference between stations in Assam and Bengal. For instance, the mean temperature on the 26th at Sibsagar was 9° in defect and at Silchar 8°, while at Dinajpur it was nearly 8° in excess and at Berhampore nearly 11°. Rain continued during the week in Burma, Assam, North and East Bengal, and in Southern India. On the 26th heavy rain was reported from Silchar (5·01 inches) and Gnatong (3·82 inches).

The mean temperature of the whole of India for the week was 1·1° in excess of the normal.

Daily Summary.—Sunday.—Pressure had given way briskly to rapidly in Northern India and slightly in the north of the Peninsula, thus increasing the gradients favouring westerly winds in Northern and Central India. Abnormal north-east winds were blowing at Darjeeling. Rain was reported from several stations. Akyab received 2·89 inches, Tavoy 2·06 inches, and Narayanganj, Dhubri, and Bangalore amounts exceeding one inch.

Monday.—Except in Assam, where pressure had increased briskly, the changes were small in amount and had effected no important alteration in the pressure distribution. Winds had strengthened at the head of the Bay and in South Bengal, and abnormal northerly winds were blowing at all the Upper India hill stations. The heaviest showers of rain reported were Silchar 1·53 inches and Chittagong 1·52 inches.

Tuesday.—Pressure had risen briskly in the Punjab and had changed by small amounts elsewhere. Light to moderate rain was reported from Burma, Assam, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and Southern India, the heaviest falls being Sibsagar 1·4 inches, Gnatong 1·2 inches, Rangoon 1·18 inches, Kindat 1·02 inches, and Thayetmyo 0·90 inch.

Wednesday.—The barometric changes were small and irregular, and the pressure distribution remained unchanged. Winds had increased in South Bengal and at the head of the Bay. The following were the heaviest showers of rain reported: Mymensingh, 2·24 inches; Chittagong, 1·86 inches; and Bassein, 1·01 inches.

Thursday.—Pressure continued to change by small and irregular amounts, and was very uniform over the south and west of the Peninsula. Winds had further increased in strength at the head of the Bay. Easterly winds prevailed in Bihar and strong northerly winds at the Upper India hill stations. Moderately heavy rain had fallen at many stations in Burma, Bengal, Southern India, and the Deccan. Moulmein, Akyab, Chittagong, and Bellary received amounts exceeding two inches, and Bassein, Diamond Island, Bhamo, Silchar, Gnatong, Barisal, Bogra, Bangalore, and Chitaldroog amounts over one inch.

Friday.—Pressure had given way all over India, with the exception of South Madras and Colombo, where it had risen slightly. The fall was greatest in North-Eastern India, where it ranged between ·05 inch and ·10 inch, thus emphasizing to some extent the abnormal features of the pressure distribution. Winds of more than double their normal strength continued in Bengal and northerly winds at all the Himalayan hill stations in North-Western India. Rain had fallen at stations in Burma, Bengal, and Southern India. Moulmein received 2·1 inches, Akyab 2 inches, Cochin 1·79 inches, Narayanganj 1·64 inches, Gnatong 1·38 inches, and Silchar 1 inch.

Saturday.—Pressure continued to give way over the whole of India, and was most in defect along the foot of the hills in Bihar and the North-Western Provinces. Very strong winds prevailed in South Bengal and along the Orissa Coast, and northerly winds continued at the Upper India hill stations and at Darjeeling. Temperature had increased generally, and the excess in West Bengal, Chota Nagpur, and Bihar was over 10° at several stations. Heavy rain had fallen at Silchar (5·01 inches) and Gnatong (3·82 inches).

Temperature.—The following table gives the variations of the mean temperature from the normal on each day of the week for the different provinces of India :

In Burma temperature continued steadily in defect throughout the week. A change from westerly to southerly winds at the Madras coast stations has reduced the mean temperature of that province to nearly normal. In all other provinces temperature was higher than it was during the previous week, but Bombay, the Central Provinces, Central India, Sind, and Rajputana continue to show the smallest variations from the normal. Temperature in Chota Nagpur, Bihar, and West Bengal varied between 6° and 12° in excess of the normal; but the abnormally low temperatures registered in Assam and East Bengal during the week reduced the mean excess temperature for the whole province of Bengal and Assam to only 3·1°. Very high maximum temperatures were registered in the North-Western Provinces, especially towards the close of the week. On the 26th they ranged from 103·5° at Dehra Dun to 114° at Agra.

Rainfall.—Moderate to heavy rain has fallen during the week in Burma, Assam, and North and East Bengal. It was heaviest on the Khasia and Jaintia Hills and in Tenasserim. In other parts of India the rainfall has been very small in amount. There has been no rain during the week in Chota Nagpur, Bihar, and the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, which have also been the area of greatest excess of temperature. The largest average falls of the week have been those of Assam (Surma) 13·06 inches, Tenasserim 9·70 inches, Assam (Brahmaputra) 5·04 inches, and Lower Burma 4·73 inches. Rain has been received in excess of the normal for the week only in Tenasserim, Lower Burma, Assam, East Bengal, Mysore, the Bombay Deccan, Madras (Central), and Hyderabad (South).

For the rainfall period 4th March to 26th May the rainfall in most divisions is in defect. It is most in defect in Bihar, the North-Western Provinces, the Central Provinces, Gujarat, Kathiawar, Sind, Central India, and Rajputana. Owing to the heavy rainfall of the past week, the defect is now comparatively small in Assam. The excess is largest in Tenasserim, where the rainfall has exceeded the normal by 18·21 inches.

Large amounts have been received during the week at some of the rain-gauge stations in Burma and Assam. Cherra in the Khasia and Jaintia Hills reports a fall during the week of 43·56 inches, which is nearly as large as its average rainfall for the whole month of May, and is equal to an average of over 6 inches a day. Other large amounts received during the week were: Lakkimpur (Dibrugarh, Assam) 13·54 inches, Pyapon (Lower Burma) 13·03 inches, Thaton (Tenasserim) 12·27 inches, Sylhet 11·19 inches, and Silchar 10·46 inches.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 26th May.—Showers in all districts; good rain in the Deccan, Central, Malabar, Nilgiris, and parts of the Southern districts. Ploughing and sowing in places. Standing crops good. Harvest proceeding in parts; outturn average. Pasturage diminishing, but fodder sufficient and condition of cattle good. Prices practically stationary at high level.

Bombay.—For week ending 30th May.—Rain in parts of eleven districts. Preparation of lands for next season general. Sowing progressing in parts of five districts. Agricultural stock poor in part of one district. Fodder insufficient in parts of three and water in parts of two districts. Prices steady, except in one district. Numbers on relief works: Baroda, 910.

Bengal.—For week ending 26th May.—There was rain almost daily in East and North Bengal during the week; elsewhere practically no rain fell, and the weather was abnormally hot and dry. Agricultural prospects in East and North Bengal continue favourable, but in other parts of the province cultivation is backward. Sugarcane and other standing crops require rain, except in parts of Behar, where irrigation is available. Cattle are in good condition, and the supply of fodder and water is generally sufficient. Prices continue high in the Eastern districts; elsewhere they are normal. Distress is said to be felt in parts of the Brahmanbaria sub-division of the Tipperah district, where on account of the deficient crops of last year the food-stocks are reported to be low.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 30th May.—A slight fall of rain reported from Jhansi. Weather getting hotter. Threshing and winnowing finished in places. Irrigation of summer crops continues. Markets well supplied, and fodder and water ample. Prices generally steady.

Punjab.—For week ending 30th May.—Rain has fallen in parts of seven districts. Threshing of spring crops going on; the outturn is not so good as was expected. Cotton being sown. The extra spring crops are said to be in good condition. Cattle are generally in good condition, and fodder is sufficient throughout the province. Prices falling in four districts; stationary elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 30th May.—Weather continues exceedingly hot. Duststorms have given slight rain in parts of the Nagpur district. Prospects generally unchanged. The Saugor returns show a small decrease in the attendance on relief works, the average having fallen from 2,395 to 2,036, including municipal works at Khurai. In Damoh the average attendance has risen from 1,615 to 1,969. Saugor is importing gram at the rate of about 35,000 maunds weekly and Damoh at about 10,000 maunds. Prices have fallen considerably at Saugor, where wheat is selling at 14 seers against 12 seers last week, and gram at 19 seers against 18. In Damoh prices have risen slightly, and wheat stands at 12½, gram at 18½, and rice at 10½ seers. In the neighbouring districts prices are stationary, wheat selling at 15 seers in Jabalpur, 13 seers in Narsinghpur, and 16 seers in Hoshangabad, and gram at 23, 24 and 23 seers respectively. Scarcity of water in parts of Raipur and at Khandwa.

Burma.—For week ending 26th May.—Rainfall steady and general. In Lower Burma ploughing for the main paddy crop has commenced in two districts. In Upper Burma reaping of dry-weather paddy and sowing of early wet-weather paddy progressing favourably. Sowing of jowar (Sorghum vulgare), cotton, and sesamum in progress. Standing crops look healthy. Fodder and water-supply sufficient. Prices continue low, except in two districts.

Assam.—For week ending 29th May.—Heavy rain in the Surma valley, moderate elsewhere. Sowing of late rice seedlings and ploughing for late rice continue. Tea backward in Darrang. Condition of cattle fair and fodder and water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 30th May.—MYSORE: Good rain in parts of Bangalore, slight elsewhere. Rice harvested in parts. Prices fallen in the Bangalore district.

COORG: Rainfall good. Ploughing for rice and sowing of ragi (Eleusine coracana) continue. Prospects of coffee and cardamom fair. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient. Prices continue normal.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 30th May.—BERAR: Rainfall moderate. Days very warm, but nights fairly cool. Land being prepared for autumn sowings. Scarcity of fodder prevails in parts of the Akola and Ellichpur districts, and the water-supply is reported insufficient in the Melghat taluka. Prices fluctuating in two districts; otherwise steady.

HYDERABAD: Rainfall moderate. Reaping of hot-weather crops continues. Standing crops in good condition. Prices steady.

Central India.—For week ending 30th May.—No rain during the week. The failure of the wheat crops in Bhopal and parts of Gwalior does not cause anxiety. Arrangements have been made to render assistance to the inhabitants of those districts should relief be required. The wheat crops in parts of Bundelkhand have also failed to some extent, but at present no distress is felt there. In other Agencies the crops have been fairly good. The condition of agricultural stock in Bhopal appears to have improved, but continues indifferent in parts of Gwalior. Pasturage good and sufficient in all parts. Prices of food-grains in parts of Gwalior are above ordinary rates, and remain at high rates in other Agencies.

Rajputana.—For week ending 30th May—Rainfall good in Ulwar, slight in Tonk, Deoli, Ajmere, Karauli, and Bhartpur. Agricultural operations satisfactory. Harvests good generally, except in Ulwar, where a 12-anna crop in wheat and 13-anna in gram and barley is expected Cattle in good condition, except in parts of Todgurh and Ulwar. Pasturage or fodder failing in Dholpur and scarce in Karauli. Prices fluctuating in three States, rising or risen in four others, and steady elsewhere.

Kashmir.—KASHMIR VALLEY.—For week ending 29th May.—Slight rain on 24th. Weather fine. Spring crops in good condition. Reaping of rapeseed commenced in some places. Rice sowings still in progress. Prices stationary.

JAMMU PROVINCE.—For week ending 29th May.—No rain. Prices rising.

Nepal.—For week ending 26th May—Weather seasonable Crops backward and want rain.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume ; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I. contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year,but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

No. 2918-A, dated Simla, the 8th June, 1894.

From—STEPHEN JACOB, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department,

To—The Comptroller and Auditor General.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1223-D., dated the 27th March 1894, on the subject of the payment of interest on Government Promissory Notes which have been enfaced for such payment in England, but on which the last Indian endorsement has not been certified.

2. In the Notification in this Department, No 61, dated the 12th November 1858, laying down the rules for the enfacement of rupee paper for the payment of interest in London, it was provided that notes should be so enfaced only at Calcutta, and that notes bearing any endorsement must be renewed in the name of the then holder before being enfaced. It was also expressly stipulated that "any endorsement made in India of an enfaced note will not be recognised in England."

3. By a later Notification No. 79, dated the 15th September 1859, the provision as to the renewal of notes before enfacement was modified; and it was provided that holders of notes transferred for payment of interest to Bombay or Madras might "have such notes enfaced and registered by the Accountant General, Bombay (or Madras, as the case may be), on the condition that a certificate be affixed on the back of such notes by the Accountant General of the Presidency concerned that all existing endorsements have been examined by him and are valid and correct, and that the note itself is genuine and outstanding; and on the understanding that no endorsement made subsequently to the date of the Accountant General's certificate will be recognised in England."

4. This later order did not expressly refer to Calcutta, but since its issue the recognised practice in Calcutta, as in Madras and Bombay, has been for the Public Debt Office to certify to the genuineness of the notes and of the endorsements, if any, upon them at the time of enfacement for payment of interest in London, renewal being effected only when desired by the holder or when necessary for any special reason.

5. It now appears from a letter, dated the 16th January 1894, from the Chief Accountant, Bank of England, to your address, that a very large number of the notes lodged at the Bank do not bear the prescribed certificate as to the correctness of the endorsement; and that as the Bank considered that the refusal to recognise uncertified endorsements might occasion trouble, it has hitherto admitted the notes on such evidence as could be procured in England of the genuineness of the endorsements. The Bank has, however, now raised the question whether its present practice is correct or whether it would be justified, and would be carrying out the wishes of the Government of India, in refusing to pay interest on notes on which the last Indian endorsement has not been duly certified.

6. I am to point out that the practice followed by the Bank of England as stated in the Chief Accountant's letter is not only irregular and not in accordance with the prescribed rules, but is also open to objection, since it is desirable that the genuineness of endorsements made in India should be decided in this country; the practice now brought to notice must in some cases operate with unfairness, as the proof required by the Bank might be easily obtainable in some cases, while in others it would not be possible to furnish it without a reference to India. The Government of India have accordingly decided that the practice should cease, and that in accordance with the authorised procedure notes on which the last Indian endorsement has not been certified should not be recognised in England.

7. The Government of India recognise the fact that the sudden cessation of the existing practice, however irregularly it has been allowed to grow up, might cause some inconvenience, and have accordingly decided that notice should be given in the form of the prescribed certificate of endorsement that endorsements made in India after the date of the certificate will not be recognised in England. The two following forms of notice are now prescribed by the Government of India for this purpose; and I am to request that in future one or other of the forms may be stamped on all Government Promissory Notes enfaced for payment of interest in England, Form A being used for notes bearing endorsements and Form B for clean notes :

A.

Certified that the above endorsement ha been examined, valid and correct, and that the note is genuine and outstanding. Any endorsement made in India subsequent to the date of this certificate will not be recognised by the Bank of England (vide Government of India Notifications No. 61, dated the 12th November 1858, and No. 79, dated the 15th September 1859).

Superintendent.

Dated 189 .

B.

Certified that this note is genuine and outstanding. Any endorsement made in India will not be recognised by the Bank of England (vide Government of India Notifications No. 61, dated the 12th November 1858, and No. 79, dated the 15th September 1859).

8. I am to add that the attention of the Bank of England will be invited to the rules on the subject as laid down in 1858 and 1859, and the Bank will be requested to give notice of the above orders in such manner as may appear most suitable on the occasion of the next payment of interest on any loan; and thereafter to refuse payment of interest upon, and to return under objection all notes in which the rule as to endorsements in India is infringed, unless the endorsements have been previously recognized under the practice described in paragraph 5.

Ordered, that the letter be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

Ditto	ditto	No. $\frac{31}{1325-1335}$, dated the 31st August 1882.

Ditto	ditto	No. $\frac{1}{101-107}$, dated the 16th January 1885.
Ditto	Notification	No. 1817, dated the 3rd July 1888.

RESOLUTION.

The Secretariat Clerical Service of the Government of India and attached offices has for some years past been divided into an Upper and a Lower Division,—the former comprising appointments the pay of which is Rs 200 and upwards, and the latter those of which the pay is below that sum. The last published rules relative to the filling of the appointments are contained in the Notification No. 1817, dated 3rd July 1888, as revised up to date. The rules lay down that the head of the office concerned shall have an absolute power of selection for the posts of Registrars, Superintendents, Personal Assistants, and generally for appointments in which control or supervision of other clerks is vested. Subject to this proviso, the method of filling up appointments is partly by open competition and partly by selection. One-half of the appointments in the Upper Division and two-thirds of the appointments in the Lower Division are recruited by open competition. To every alternate vacancy in the Upper Division and to every third vacancy in the Lower Division the head of the department or office may appoint any person possessed of certain qualifications.

2. The system of open competition for the recruitment of both the Upper and Lower Divisions of clerkships was introduced by the Resolution of this Department of the 31st August 1882, and has been found to work very satisfactorily as regards the Lower Division. As a means of supplying vacancies in the Upper Division, however, it has been unsuccessful Two non-official candidates would by the competition of 1884 have obtained clerkships in the Upper Division, but both of them preferred to take up employment elsewhere. Since 1884 only one non-official candidate has been successful in competing for an Upper Division clerkship. This clerk proved unequal to the duties of the post, and has left his appointment. Such outside candidates do not possess the office experience necessary for the proper performance of the duties attached to the clerkships in the Upper Division, and consequently require to undergo a lengthened period of training before they become really efficient. The candidates who have hitherto presented themselves for vacancies in the Upper Division have differed in no respect as regards social standing, education, and University qualifications from those competing for the Lower Division, and experience has proved that vacancies in the latter division possess sufficient attraction to ensure the selection for them of men who, after going through a training in the inferior appointments, are well qualified to fill posts in the Upper Division.

3. The Governor General in Council considers that, having regard to the class of clerks now recruited for the Lower Division, it is unnecessary to reserve for appointment by open competition any fixed proportion of Upper Division clerkships. It has been established that the head of an office can from the intimate knowledge of the capacity of the men working in it, which he necessarily acquires in the course of daily experience, fill up such vacancies when they occur (which is but rarely) without difficulty from among clerks in the Lower Division. When a clerk has proved his capacity by his daily work, it is evidently unnecessary to resort to a competitive examination in order to establish his competency Such an examination is useful only in the case of untried men of whom nothing is as yet known. The ordinary rule, therefore, will be that posts in the Upper Division will be filled by selection from posts in the Lower Division.

4. In the very rare cases where no clerk in the Lower Division of an office is considered qualified to fill a post in the Upper Division of that office, His Excellency in Council is of opinion that the principle of competition must be maintained, and the post thrown open to outsiders. It is not, however, necessary to lay down beforehand rules for the competitive examination to be held in such cases, as the post to be filled will often demand special qualifications. Rules will be framed and published as may be required on each occasion.

5. The Rules published with the Notification of this Department, No. 1817, dated the 3rd July 1888, have been revised in accordance with this Resolution, and are now republished ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the above Resolution, with a copy of the rules as revised, be forwarded for information and guidance to the Departments of the Government of India (except the Foreign Department) and to the heads of offices under the Home Department marginally noted; that a copy be forwarded to the Governments of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab for information; that a copy be also forwarded to the Secretary to the Board of Examiners, and that the Resolution and the rules be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India.

[True Extract.]

C. J. LYALL,

Secretary to the Government of India.

Rules for the Regulation of appointments in the Secretariat Clerical Service of the Government of India and attached offices.

1. The Secretariat Clerical Service shall be separated into an Upper and a Lower Division,—the former comprising all appointments the pay (or, in the case of appointments carrying progressive pay, the minimum pay) of which is Rs. 200 and upwards; the latter all appointments (other than those of copyists, to whom these rules do not apply) the pay of which is below that sum. No clerk will be entitled to promotion from the Lower to the Upper Division as a matter of course or otherwise than in accordance with these rules.

2. The head of the office concerned shall have an absolute power of selection in the case of appointments of Registrars of Offices, Superintendents of Branches, Head Assistants, Personal Assistants, or appointments involving the control or supervision over divisions of an office. The remaining appointments in the Upper Division will usually be filled by the head of the office concerned by selection from among the clerks in the Lower Division. If, however, no clerk in the Lower Division of an office is considered fit for promotion to the Upper Division, a vacancy in the latter division shall be filled by competition open to the public.

3. The mode of recruiting two-thirds of all the appointments in the Lower Division shall be by open competition.* The rest of the appointments in this division may be filled in accordance with Rules 14 and 15.

4. Special regulations respecting the examinations for appointments in the Upper Division, which it may be necessary to hold under Rule 2, will be framed and notified on each occasion before such an examination is held.

5. An examination of candidates for the Lower Division of the Secretariat Clerical Service will be held at Calcutta, Allahabad, and Lahore, and at such other places as may hereafter be appointed, in January of each year. The examination at Allahabad will be confined to persons domiciled† in the North-Western Provinces, Oudh, the Central Provinces, Rajputana, and Central India; and that at Lahore to persons domiciled in the Punjab and Baluchistan. Candidates who desire to compete for vacancies offered for competition at Allahabad and Lahore must prove, to the satisfaction of the Secretary to the Board of Examiners, that they are domiciled in one of the provinces enumerated above, permanent residence in which would entitle them to appear at either of the centres. Natives of Bengal, who are temporary residents of, and not domiciled in, any of those provinces, will be permitted to present themselves at the examinations at Allahabad and Lahore, but they will be treated as competing for the vacancies offered at Calcutta, and not for those offered at Allahabad and Lahore.

6. The arrangements for the examination prescribed in the last preceding rule will be made by the Board of Examiners, Fort William, who will be assisted by paid Examiners, and act in communication with the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department. Before the examination commences, a distinguishing number will be given by the Secretary to the Board of Examiners to each candidate, with which the candidate will mark each of his papers of answers.

7. The nature of the examination for the Lower Division will be as follows:

(1) Dictation and Handwriting.

* The Head of a Department has discretion to fill any vacancy which is not expected to last more than three months in the manner which he considers to be most suitable (Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{17}{1116-1126}$, dated the 21st June 1889).

† The term 'domiciled" should be understood in its ordinary legal sense (vide the Indian Succession Act, 1865, Part II), and no person can be considered to be domiciled in any of the provinces enumerated unless he has fixed the habitation of himself and his family in that province, not for a mere special or temporary purpose, but with the intention of making it his permanent home (Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{14 \text{ Public}}{893-904}$, dated the 14th May 1891).

This will be a preliminary test. The examination in these subjects will not be competitive, but marks will be assigned for the purpose of testing proficiency. The papers of candidates will be examined as soon as possible after this examination; and the Examiners will require any candidate who fails to obtain two-thirds marks in each subject to withdraw from the further examination.

	Marks.
(2) English Composition (Essay-writing and Drafting)	100
(3) Précis-writing	100
(4) Geography	50
(5) History (English and Indian)	50
(6) Arithmetic; Euclid, 1st Book; Algebra up to Simple Equations	50

No candidate will be credited with marks in either subject (2) or subject (3) unless he obtains at least one-fourth of the marks in the subject; nor will he be credited with marks in subject (4), subject (5), or subject (6) unless he obtains one-fifth of the marks in the subject. Any candidate obtaining less than one fourth marks in either subject (2) or subject (3) shall be disqualified. Candidates will not be eligible for the Lower Division of the Financial Department or for the Office of the Accountant-General,* Military Department (if, with reference to Rule 20 below, the Department or Office adopts these rules), and of the Accountant-General, Public Works Department, unless they obtain at least one-third of the full number of marks in Arithmetic.

* Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{37}{1,70-2934}$, dated the 13th November 1888.

8. Every candidate for an appointment in the Lower Division must send a written application for permission to appear at the examination to the Secretary to the Board of Examiners between the date of issue of the Notification announcing the number of vacancies to be competed for, to which reference is made in Rule 10 of the rules, and the 15th December (inclusive).

Home Department Notification No. 156, dated the 26th January 1892.

9. The application under the last rule should be in the form given on the margin, and be accompanied by a treasury receipt for the sum of Rs. 10 This sum he is required to pay into the treasury nearest his place of residence by way of examination fee. With the application must also be forwarded—

A treasury receipt for the fee of Rs 10 is forwarded herewith

(1) Evidence (except in the cases provided for by Rule 11) that the candidate at the date of making his application is not less than eighteen and not more than twenty-four years of age. The date of the candidate's birth must be stated.

(2) In case the candidate has been educated at a school in which students' good conduct registers are kept, the candidate's register for the last year of his attendance at school, when a year has not elapsed since he left school. In other cases, a certificate that the candidate is of good moral character from the head of the institution in which he has last been educated, or from some respectable house-holder to whom he is well-known in private life, and who is himself known to a District or Sub-Divisional Magistrate or to the head of some Government Office,—this last fact being certified by the countersignature of the officer in question.

10. The number of candidates to be selected by the Examiners for the Lower Division will be notified in the Gazette of India by the Home Department on or before the 31st October. This number will be determined in communication with the heads of the offices concerned, with reference to the number of vacancies existing or estimated as likely to occur within the course of the following year (and which it is not intended to fill under the provisions of Rules 14, 15, and 16), plus a margin of 10 per cent. for casualties. One-half the number of vacancies offered will be reserved for candidates domiciled in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Punjab, and the Central Provinces, Rajputana, Central India, and Baluchistan, provided that a sufficient number of duly qualified candidates to fill these appointments appear from those territories.

11. Persons who have at any time held a permanent appointment in any of the offices referred to in these rules, but who may have lost such appointment owing to its abolition or on reduction of establishment, may present themselves for the examination for the Lower Division under these rules, provided they are under forty years of age.

12. As soon as practicable after the open competitive examination for the Lower Division, the Board of Examiners will report the result to the Home Department. The report will take the form of a list giving the names of selected candidates and the exact dates of their births, the distinguishing numbers of unsuccessful candidates, and the number of marks obtained by each candidate, whether successful or unsuccessful, in each subject of examination. The Home Department will then circulate a list of selected candidates to the heads of the offices concerned. Candidates will be given their choice of departments as far as possible, and the Home Department will intimate such choice, if made, to the head of each office. The head of each Department will, however, be at liberty to offer a vacant appointment which may occur in his Department to any selected candidate remaining on the list. This offer should be made through the Home Department, which will keep each Department of the Government of India informed as the names of selected candidates are removed from the list. No candidates selected in a later year shall be offered an appointment until the offer has been made to, and refused by, selected candidates of an earlier year remaining on the list.

13. When an outside candidate for the Lower Division attains the age of twenty-five years, or when two years have expired from the date of the entry of his name on the list, or when any candidate has refused the offer of an appointment in the Department in which he has elected to serve, or has twice refused the offer of an appointment in any other Department or Departments, his name shall immediately be removed from the list.

14. Every third vacancy in the Lower Division may be filled by the head of a Department without reference to the preceding rules.

15. Appointments made under the last preceding rule shall, if the person appointed is not in Government service, be made subject to the conditions that the person appointed—

(a) is at the time of appointment not less than eighteen and not more than twenty-five years of age;

(b) can give satisfactory evidence that he possesses a minimum educational qualification equivalent to the Entrance Standard of one of the Indian Universities;

(c) must produce satisfactory evidence that he is of good moral character.

16. Any officer already in Government employment may be appointed to any vacancy such as is referred to in Rule 14 without regard to the qualifications specified in the preceding rule.

17. The heads of offices to which these rules apply are at liberty to arrange transfers from the Lower Division of one office to that of another. The transfer of an officer from a post in an office to which the rules apply to a vacancy in another office to which these rules also apply shall, for the purposes of Rule 14, be held to be the filling up of a vacancy.

18. Before a person who is not already in Government service is actually employed in any office, he must produce a certificate from a Government medical officer of or above the rank of Surgeon to the effect that he is in good health and of a sound constitution.

19. All candidates for the Lower Division, whether selected by examination or nominated, who receive appointments, and such candidates for the Upper Division as are recruited by open competition, will be on probation for twelve months; and if at any time during that period, or at its close, their work is not considered satisfactory by the head of the office in which they are employed, they will receive their discharge, and will have no claim to gratuity or compensation on that account.

Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{39}{2977-2984}$, dated the 13th November 1888.

20. The above rules will apply to the Secretariat Offices * of the Government of India, except the Foreign Department, and the Department† of Finance and Commerce, and the Office of the Accountant-General, Military Department, whenever the latter Department or office fill vacancies by recruitment of officers already holding clerical appointments in any Government Account Office. When the Department of Finance and Commerce and the Office of the Accountant-General, Military Department, do not recruit in this manner, the rules will apply. They will also apply to the Offices of—and to such other Imperial and Provincial offices as may hereafter be notified as having adopted them.

21. On the occurrence of any vacancy hereafter in the Lower Division of any office which has to be filled by open competition under these rules, when no candidate qualified under the rules is available to fill such vacancy, appointments may be made under Rules 14 to 16.

22. These rules shall take effect from the date of their issue.

† These rules do not apply to classes VII (Rs 50—75), VIII (Rs 35—50), and IX (Rs. 25—35) of appointments in the Statistical Branch, and to classes IX (Rs 25—35) and X (20—25) in the General Branch of the Department of Finance and Commerce. That Department has also authority to recruit, without reference to the rules in the case of appointments in class VIII (Rs 35—50) in its General Branch, at any time when it considers it necessary to do so; but ordinarily recruitment to that class will be from passed candidates. No clerk, other than a passed candidate, who enters the classes now exempted from the operation of the rules after the date of this Resolution, is eligible for promotion to the classes above class VII in the Statistical and class VIII in the General Branch, except in accordance with Rule 14 of these rules (Home Department Resolution No $\frac{22}{1455-1456}$, dated the 15th September 1891)

‡ These rules do not apply to the Office of the Statistical Officer to the Government of India in the Sanitary and Medical Departments (Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{14}{1031-1033}$, dated 21st May 1890).

§ Three appointments in the Office of the Inspector General of Ordnance, Eastern Circle, and two in that of the Inspector General, Western Circle, are reserved for soldiers possessing technical knowledge of Ordnance duties (Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{15}{1070-1071}$, dated the 31st May 1890)

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Memorandum on the snowfall in the mountain districts bordering Northern India and the abnormal features of the weather in India during the past five months, with a forecast of the probable character of the south-west monsoon rains of 1894.

The present memorandum is drawn up in accordance with the practice of the past eleven years, and includes, firstly, a brief summary of the information received from various officers relating to the snowfall of the past winter or cold weather in the Afghan mountains and the Himalayan area; secondly, a statement of the chief peculiarities or abnormal features of the meteorology of India during the past five months; and, thirdly, a forecast of the probable character of the approaching south-west monsoon rains based on this information.

The forecast is based in part on the snowfall information and on the abnormal features of the weather during the past five months, and in part on a comparison with the meteorology of the previous 30 years, so far as it is available. It has hence been drawn up carefully after a consideration of all the available information, but it should, to use the words of the Famine Commission report, "be used with due caution."

It is necessary to point out that the forecast is a statement of probabilities and not of certainties, and that it is liable to error from the limitation and uncertainty of part of the data on which it is based. The monsoon forecasts, as at present issued, necessarily leave out of consideration two important points on which the agricultural value of the monsoon rainfall largely depends, viz.:

(1) the probability of the occurrence of a prolonged break in the rains in July or August;

(2) the probability of the unusually early termination of the rains in Upper India or Bengal; and are hence imperfect every year to that extent.

The chief features or conditions which appear to influence and determine the extension and general strength of the south-west monsoon current are as follows:

1st.—The amount and time of occurrence of the cold weather snowfall in the mountain districts adjacent to Northern India.

2nd.—The local peculiarities of the weather in India itself immediately antecedent to the advance of the monsoon currents across the coasts of India into the interior, and which it is found are generally impressed upon it during the hot weather, and are frequently more or less persistent in character. These abnormal features are on the whole best estimated by means of the variations of pressure from its normal value in different parts of India.

3rd.—Local peculiarities in the Bay of Bengal and Arabian Sea, over which the monsoon currents pass before they reach India.

The first of these conditions or factors appears to be mainly influential in determining the northern limits of the monsoon rains, heavy and prolonged snowfall in the Western Himalayan area either preventing or delaying the extension of the monsoon current over Upper India during the rainy season. Heavy and untimely snowfall in April and May appears especially to exercise a very powerful influence in this way.

The second factor appears to determine those large local district or provincial variations of rainfall during the monsoon which are evidently due to persistent local conditions or peculiarities, and not to general causes influencing the whole of India more or less.

The third and last factor is almost certainly of equal importance with the preceding two, but it is that on which information is most difficult to obtain, and is least in amount and longest in being received. In fact, information respecting the weather conditions in the Arabian Sea or Bay of Bengal is rarely received in time to be utilized in drawing up the annual forecasts.

Summary of snowfall information.

The whole of the information referring to the snowfall in the mountain districts bordering Northern India for each month of the year is now published as it is received in the India Monthly Weather Reviews.

The following gives a brief summary of the information relating to the snowfall of the past cold weather received up to date:

I.—AFGHAN MOUNTAIN DISTRICTS.

(1) HILLS WEST OF DERA ISMAIL KHAN.

December.—No report of snowfall during this month has been received, and it is probable there were no snowstorms.

January.—There were three snowstorms during the month. Heavy snow fell during the second storm on the 20th and 21st down to 4,500 feet. The total fall was estimated at about 5 feet on the Takht Suleman.

February.—Snow fell during three periods, viz., the 3rd to the 5th, the 7th, and the 16th to the 18th. The total fall on the Safid Koh was 6½ feet.

March.—Snow fell to a depth of 4 feet on the higher ranges during two stormy periods, viz., 1st to 4th and the 10th.

April and May.—No snow.

(2) KURRAM.

November.—A light fall occurred in the Safid Koh on the 4th.

December.—Snow fell on the Safid Koh down to 9,000 feet on the 6th. It was 9 inches in depth on the higher peaks.

The snowfall is reported to have been later in commencing and to be smaller in amount than last year.

January.—Five storms occurred during the month, the total fall on the Safid Koh being estimated at 17 feet.

Snow was lying 10 to 20 feet deep at the end of the month on the crest of the Safid Koh.

February.—Light snow fell on two occasions.

March.—There were two snowstorms during the month, viz., on the 9th and 23rd.

April.—Snow fell on the 4th, 6th, 13th, and 22nd above 9,000 feet. The total fall was 1¾ feet on the crest of the Safid Koh.

The snowfall of the past winter is considered to be slightly below the normal.

(3) HILLS WEST OF BANNU.

January.—The snowfall varied from 2 to 6 feet on the neighbouring hills.

February to May.—No reports have been received for this period.

(4) KHYBER DISTRICT.

December.—No report has been received, and there was probably no snow on the Khyber hills during the month.

January.—Snow fell in Tirah and Bara on two occasions. The heaviest fall was on the Sur Ghar range, where it was about 4 feet.

February to May.—No snow fell.

The snowfall of the past winter is stated by the natives of the district to be below the average.

(5) KABUL.

January.—Snow fell on twelve days during the month, but the amounts were generally small. The total fall of the month in Kabul and the neighbourhood averaged nearly 2 feet.

February.—Snow fell on nine days during the month. The total amount at Kabul measured $1\frac{1}{2}$ feet.

March.—Light falls occurred on the 4th and 7th. There was little or no snow lying on the neighbouring hills at the end of the month.

The fall during the past winter in the Kabul Valley is stated to be larger than was received during the winter of 1892-93.

(2) MURREE.

The following table gives the monthly returns of the snowfall at Murree and the hills near Kahuta. The fall was approximately normal in amount and time of occurrence:

	TOTAL FALL OF SNOW IN THE MONTH OF					Total of period.

(A) THE PUNJAB AND KASHMIR HIMALAYAS.

(1) HILLS TO THE NORTH OF HAZARA.

November and December.—No snow fell during the whole of this period, except on the 31st of December.

January.—Snow fell on the higher ranges on the 1st, 2nd, 11th, the 17th to the 23rd, and again on the 27th to the 29th. The amount of cloud was much greater than usual, and it is believed that heavy snow fell on the higher ranges to the north of Hazara.

February and March.—Weather was cloudy from the 1st to the 5th, when it began to rain, and ended in snow on the 7th. From the 8th to the 10th it was fine but cloudy, when rain recommenced, and continued until the 17th. There was a heavy fall of hail on the 20th. Rainy weather again set in on the 28th, and continued until the 2nd of March. It rained again from the 4th to the 7th. There was a shower of sleet on the 10th, of hail on the 11th, and of rain on the 14th and 15th. In the intervals it was cloudy.

The following gives the reported accumulation on the hills in this district on the 15th of each month from January to March:

Black Mountain (crest)	3	4 ?	1 ?
Bhaliji Hills	...	10	...

The snowfall has been on the whole less than usual.

(3) Kashmir (Srinagar).

The following gives a statement of the snowfall at Srinagar in the Kashmir Valley:

January	13 days	4	3
February	9 "	2	6

The snowfall was larger in amount than usual. The chief feature of the winter was frequent bad weather with moderate snowfall.

(4) Gilgit.

The snowfall was lighter than usual in November and December, but was heavy in January and February, and the total snowfall of the winter was hence considerably above the average.

(5) Sarikol (Tashkurghan).

December.—Snow fell on the 23rd, 29th, and 30th. The total fall was about 6 inches.

January to April.—No reports received.

(7) LEH (LADAKH).

A series of unusually interesting reports have been received from the Revd. Mr. Shawe, Superintendent of the Leh Observatory. The following gives a summary:

December.—There were light falls on the 19th and 26th. The snow fell down to 10,000 feet, but quickly melted.

January.—Snow fell in the Upper Indus Valley on the 3rd, 4th, 5th, 11th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, and 27th. The snowfalls were unusually extensive, and were even heavier to the south and south-west than in Leh. All the higher passes were closed, and the Zoji pass on the Kashmir road was very deep in snow. The Poto Pass (60 miles west of Leh and 13,000 feet high) was blocked by the falls of the 21st and 22nd—an event stated to be of very rare occurrence.

February.—Snow fell on fourteen days during the month. The falls were generally light at Leh itself, but were heavy on the neighbouring mountain ranges. The whole of the Indus Valley as far down as Skardo was at the end of the month completely under snow. All the passes were blocked at the end of the month, the best known landmarks being covered. By the known height of such landmarks the accumulation of snow was estimated at 20 feet on passes 17,000 feet high. In the open valley snow has been lying continuously since January 21st—a very rare occurrence. The snow line has been steadily below 8,000 feet according to reports received from neighbouring valleys.

March.—Snow fell on the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 11th, and 14th in the Upper Indus Valley. The snow line on the 21st was 10,000 feet in exposed situations.

The following additional information is extracted from a letter received from Mr. Shawe, dated the 15th March: "The past winter is quite unprecedented. This opinion is fully borne out by the records of the observatory as far as they go. The total snowfall registered here since November 1st has exceeded three times the average fall of all years since 1885. The past winter has been characterized by an unusual number of snowfalls. From the beginning of December till the middle of March there has been at least one fall every week, whereas usually many weeks pass without any snow.

"The large area of snowfall is also remarkable. I have questioned people from all parts, and have always heard the same report. If anything, more snow seems to have fallen lower down the Indus Valley than in the higher parts. Many passes usually open have been either temporarily or entirely closed, so that information from some districts has been entirely unobtainable. In ordinary years the snow seldom remains on the ground for more than two or three days, but since January 21st the whole country has been continually covered with snow. For the past fortnight a steady, but slow, thaw has set in, so that fields in the Indus Valley at 10,500 feet are now free from snow. So are rocky slopes viewing south up to 12,000 feet. But round Leh itself (11,500 feet) there are still 4 to 6 inches of snow on the most exposed fields."

The snowfall of the past winter in Ladakh is stated by Mr. Shawe to be altogether abnormal and in the general opinion of natives "unparalleled," and is lying much longer than usual owing to the protracted severity of the weather.

April.—Snow fell on the 3rd, 4th, 5th, and 6th down to 10,500 feet, but melted rapidly. The snow line at the end of the month was at about 13,000 feet on the southern slopes of the mountains. The weather from the 7th to the end of the month was bright and sunny.

(8) LAHOUL.

The following gives a statement of the snowfall :

Month.	Number of days on which snow fell.	Total snowfall of month. Ft.	In.
December	2 days	0	3
January	17 ,,	3	6
February	14 ,,	4	3
March	11 ,,	5	4
April	3 ,,	2	1
TOTAL	...	15	5

The winter was not nearly so cold as last year. The snow frequently fell so wet that it could not be accurately measured. The season was also more windy than usual and snow unusually frequent ; but there were no excessive falls, and "no snowstorms properly so-called." The natives of Lahoul estimate that a fall of 1 foot of snow in the valley (height 10,000 feet) means a fall of 2 to 3 feet on the Rotang and Bara-la-Cha passes (height 13,000 and 16,000 feet respectively), and hence they estimate the fall during the past winter at these elevations at from 25 to 40 feet.

A later report states much snow has fallen on the hills of Lahoul from the 10th to the 16th of May. At Kailang it fell mostly in the form of sleet ; 2·85 inches were registered at Kailang during this period, equal to more than 2 feet of snow. The quantity of snow on the hills above Kailang, which has fallen from the 10th to the 16th of May, appeared to be large, very likely from 4 to 5 feet or more.

December.—There were frequent slight falls on the higher ranges above 12,000 feet. The first heavy fall of snow commenced on the 31st.

January.—There were four periods of stormy weather and snowfall, viz., 1st to the 3rd, the 10th to 15th, the 17th to 20th, and the 27th and 28th. The snowfall descended to 3,000 feet on the 20th. The month was unusually cold and windy, and rain often fell with the snow up to the greatest elevations at which measurements were made (8,500 feet).

February—Was less stormy than January, and snowfall much smaller in amount. There was also much rain at the lower elevations (below 9,000 feet) between the snowstorms.

March.—The weather was cold and windy, and snowstorms were of occasional occurrence, and heavy rain showers were received in the intervals between the snowstorms below 9,000 feet.

April.—No snow fell below 10,000 feet, and, so far as could be judged, little snow fell during the month on the higher elevations.

The following gives the snowfall as actually measured at five sites at different elevations in the neighbourhood of Chamba under arrangements made by the Conservator of Forests :

Month.	Tisa, 5,000 feet.		Bhandal, 5,500 feet.		Thanela, 7,000 feet.		Kalatop, 8,000 feet.		Killar in Pangi, 8,600 feet.

TOTAL . . .	1	11½	5	0	18	1	15	6	18	11½
Number of days on which snow fell.	11		12		26		17		44

The increase of the precipitation with elevation, which is the most characteristic feature of the cold weather storms, is very clearly shown by the preceding data.

With respect to the character of the snowfall and the accumulation during the winter, the Deputy Conservator writes: "From my enquiries and special observations it appears to me probable that the snowfall on the Dalhousie range down to about 8,000 feet was much the same as in the winter of 1890-91. Further in the interior, so far as I can judge from all the evidence I have collected, the snowfall on the first high range below Chamba has been heavier than usual, and somewhat heavier than in 1890-91. At lower elevations (below 8,000 feet) the snowfall has been smaller than usual, rain having generally fallen instead of snow. The snow accumulation at the middle of April was considerable. At one point on a ridge to the north-west of the Chamba State, at an elevation of 11,000 feet, I found some 5 feet of snow still left, and there was almost continuous snow on the cold slopes down to 8,000 feet or even 7,500 feet. On the warm slopes as a rule the snow line did not descend much below 10,000 feet. In ravines masses of snow still remain (April 15th) down to 6,000 feet. The accumulation in ravines seems larger than was the case in 1892-93, the rain falling along with the snow having apparently caused the latter to slide more than usual."

(10) KULU.

December.—There were slight falls of snow on the 7th, 8th, and 9th, and on the 26th and 28th in the Kulu Tahsil, and on the 8th and 9th in the Plach Tahsil. The snow line descended to 9,000 feet. The weather was unusually cold and cloudy during the month.

January.—No report received.

February.—Snow fell on thirteen days during the month. The lowest elevation at which it fell was 4,000 feet. Frequent rain also occurred in the lower hills, which melted the snow rapidly.

March.—There were falls of snow on twelve days in this month. The heaviest occurred on the 10th of the month, when the snow line descended to 5,200 feet.

April.—Snowstorms occurred on seven days on the higher passes and mountains (above 10,000 feet). The snow melted rapidly during the month, as weather was bright and sunny during the greater part of the month. The Rotang and other passes are not expected to be open before the 15th June.

May.—Report not yet received.

The snowfall during the winter was on the whole similar in character to that of the preceding winter 1892-93.

The following table gives the depth of snow on the 25th of each month from December to April, and also on the 25th May of the past five years on seven of the passes in this district for comparison :

(11) UPPER SUTLEJ VALLEY, POO.

October.—Snowstorms occurred on the 18th and 27th. Snow fell down to 8,500 feet on the 18th.

November and December.—Fine weather throughout.

January.—Snow fell daily from the 31st December to the 4th January and from the 11th to the 22nd.

February.—Stormy weather prevailed from the 2nd to the 9th, during which 5 feet of snow fell, and again from the 13th to the 17th, during which period nearly 2½ feet of snow were received. There were also moderate falls on the 19th, 20th, and 28th.

March.—There was a snowstorm on the night of the 3rd, when nearly 2 feet of snow fell. Light falls occurred on the 5th, 10th, 11th, 14th, 16th, 17th, and 22nd to 24th.

April.—Snow fell frequently on the higher mountains above 12,500 feet. None fell in the valley (at Poo), except on the 6th.

The weather during the whole winter has been more cloudy and damper than usual. In the opinion of the Revd. Mr. Schreve, who has supplied the previous information, the winter is the most severe he has experienced during a residence of seven years in these hills. The natives of the district state that they do not remember such heavy snowfalls as have occurred during the past two winters.

(12) UPPER SUTLEJ VALLEY, BUSHAHR.

The following is a brief summary of the interesting reports forwarded by the Deputy Conservator of Forests, Simla Division :

October.—Slight falls occurred at elevations above 10,000 feet on six days during the month.

November.—Snow fell on four days during the month at elevations above 8,000 feet.

December.—Slight falls were received on seven days in December.

January.—There were snowstorms on eleven days. The lowest height to which it descended was on the 4th, when snow fell at an elevation of 5,750 feet.

February.—Snowstorms occurred on twelve days. The snow fell on two of these storms (on the 3rd and 28th) as low as 5,750 feet.

March.—Light to moderate falls occurred on six days in this month. During the storm of the 24th snow fell down to an elevation of 8,000 feet.

The following brief description of the weather and of the accumulation of snow is taken from the latest report: "On the 7th of December snow fell as low as 4,000 feet, and was preceded by a slight westerly wind. In February the snow line was 5,700 feet for a few days. The snowfalls that occurred between December and the 1st March were ushered in by high westerly winds. The storms during January and February extended over the whole of Bushahr as far as could be seen, while the sky was overcast by dense masses of moisture-laden clouds proceeding from the west. In March the storms were more or less local. In the intervals between the snowstorms north winds prevailed with bright weather and clear skies.

"On the 30th March, when I crossed the Bishho pass (11,000 feet) between Kulu and Bushahr, the depth of snow by the gauge on the top of the pass was 6 feet 9 inches, and at 8,000 feet there were patches of snow remaining. The villagers say that there were 14 feet of snow on the pass in February, and at Marang and Tanji (10,000 feet), in Upper Kanawar, the same depth was reported. On the Balder pass over the Trans-Sutlej range into Spitti (15,000 feet) the depth of snow at date is said to be 15 feet; on the Rupin pass (15,000 feet) the same; at Runaul (10,000 feet), on the Hindustan-Tibet road, 6 feet; and the road above 8,000 feet is blocked with a large accumulation of snow varying from 2 to 6 feet in depth. Snowfalls have been unusually frequent and numerous. In Kanawar above Kilba, 6,000 feet, there is a snow bridge still over the river. East of Nachar banks of snow formed from slips have closed the road to ponies.

"The people state that the snowfall at high elevations was greater than that of last year, which was very heavy, but that below 7,000 feet it was lighter, and did not descend as low as last year; but that the rain at such elevations was heavy and continuous. Much damage has been done to houses, and great loss in cattle and sheep resulted from the long continued heavy snowfalls."

(B) NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES HIMALAYAS.

Kumaon.—The following gives a statement of the estimated snowfall measured in the same manner as in former years in accordance with arrangements made since the year 1890:

Month.	Fall on Pindari and Pankua peaks.		Fall on Rahamdhura and Utadhura passes.		Fall in Malla Byans, Chandans, and Darma.
	Ft.	In.	Ft.	In.	Ft.	In.
October 1893	1	3	6	0	4	0
November "	5	0	6	0	5	0
December "	4	6	5	0	1	6
January 1894	8	6	14	6	9	6
February "	9	6	16	6	6	0
March "	3	9	8	3	6	6
April "	0	9	1	0	1	0
Total fall in winter of 1894	33	3	57	3	33	6
Total fall in winter of 1893	39	6	68	0	47	6

The snowfall reports state that snow began to fall earlier than usual in the season, and that a severe winter was hence anticipated.

The falls were as numerous as during the previous winter, but were not so heavy; and hence the total fall was less than that of the previous winter, which was the heaviest since the severe winter of 1877-78. The fall was undoubtedly above the average of previous years.

It may also be noted that these figures are in accordance with the various estimates of the snowfall now being accumulated. The fall is probably very variable in amount from year to year, but in the Western Himalayas it almost certainly averages from 50 to 80 feet in amount on the higher ranges; and hence the winter precipitation on the higher elevations of these mountains is probably larger in actual amount than the average total annual fall on the plains of Northern India.

(C) SIKKIM HIMALAYAS.

Gnatong.—The following gives a summary of the snowfall of the past winter as registered at the Gnatong observatory and a comparison with previous years:

Month.	Number of days on which snow fell in 1893-94.	Total Precipitation in

Total of whole period .	...	32·80	25·24	30·67	29·65

The chief feature of the past winter in the Sikkim mountains is the very light fall in December and January, and the heavy fall in February, April, and May. The comparison with previous years shows that the snowfall during the month of May was abnormal in amount. The total snowfall of the period is above the average, and its distribution most closely resembles that of the winter of 1891-92.

(D) ASSAM HIMALAYAS.

(1) Kamrup.—According to the reports received, the fall in the hills to the north of this district was much less than last year, and probably not more than usual.

(2) Lakhimpur.—Snow was very rarely seen on the Dafla hills during the past winter, and it is hence almost certain that the snowfall was much less than usual in the neighbouring high mountain areas.

(3) Darrang.—The Deputy Commissioner writes that he was informed by Bhutia traders that the snowfall was heavier than usual this winter. This, however, he points out, is opposed to the fact that the Bhutias have come down to the plains earlier than usual with produce, and this is not possible when the snowfall is very heavy, as the passes are then blocked, and the Bhutias cannot come. The Deputy Commissioner is hence of opinion that the snowfall was really lighter than usual.

Summary of the Snowfall Data.

The preceding statements indicate the general character of the snowfall of the past cold weather. The most important feature was undoubtedly that the precipitation occurred as rain to much higher elevations than usual, and hence there was no large snow accumulation on the lower ranges in March such as formed so striking a feature of last year's meteorology.

November and December were finer months than usual in Persia and Baluchistan. There were numerous disturbances in Persia in January and February, and the rainfall and snowfall were apparently much heavier than usual in that area and Baluchistan. There were occasional falls of snow in the higher ranges of the Western Himalayas in September, October, November, and December; but the winter on the whole began somewhat later than usual, and considerably later than in the years 1890-91 and 1892-93. There were several disturbances in January and February which were connected with large depressions in Persia, but they were in almost all cases feeble and diffused, and the majority of them filled up in North-Western India, and did not pass eastwards into Bengal. The rainfall of the period was hence in moderate excess in the Punjab, and was normal in Rajputana and the North-Western Provinces. The chief feature of these disturbances was that, although feeble, they chiefly affected the Western Himalayas, where the winter was much more cloudy and windy than usual and weather gloomy. The disturbances gave unusually frequent falls of snow and rain, the precipitation increasing rapidly in amount with elevation, and being unusually large in the higher elevations in the interior.

The data show in the first place that the snowfall was undoubtedly considerable, and probably above the average, in Afghanistan in the months of January and February, and was larger in amount than during the previous winter. Little or no snow fell in that area after the beginning of March, and hence the snow melted rapidly, and there was practically none on the Safid Koh at the end of April.

The snowfall was undoubtedly excessive in the higher ranges of the Kashmir and Punjab Himalayas, and was abnormally heavy in Ladakh, where it was, in the opinion of the natives of the district, "unprecedented." The information for the Karakoram mountains and the areas to the north is very small. It indicates that the snowfall was above the normal, but not to the same extent as in Ladakh. In consequence of the character of the precipitation on the lower ranges on the Western Himalayas, there was no abnormal extension of snow clad surface in April and May, and the heavy fall has probably chiefly affected the depth of snow over the higher elevations above the normal snow line, and filled up the intermediate valleys and gorges, where there are undoubtedly large accumulations of snow. There have also been occasional falls during the past two months, which have added to the snow accumulation on the higher ranges. These falls, however, so far as can be judged, have not been much more frequent or heavier than occur in ordinary years. Hence it is almost certain there is a large accumulation in the higher ranges of the Western Himalayas, and probably also in the Karakoram mountains; but, as already stated, it is chiefly an increase of depth over the area of permanent snow, and not an extension of the snow clad surface over a much larger area than usual.

Snow began to fall early on the Kumaon hills, and there were frequent snowstorms in January, February, and March. If the estimates of the snowfall may be accepted as accurate, they indicate that 40 to 60 feet fell during the winter on the higher passes and ranges, and that the fall was somewhat less than last year. This agrees with the opinion of the natives of the district.

The snowfall in Sikkim was much lighter than usual in January and February. The past three months have been unusually stormy, and the precipitation larger than usual. There were a large number of snowstorms at Gnatong in April and the beginning of May, and the weather at that station suggests that it is probable there has been more snow than usual during the past two months in the Sikkim and Assam Himalayas.

The reports received from Assam suggest that the fall on the Assam Himalayas during the winter proper (as at Gnatong) was less than usual.

The chief features may be summarized as follow:

1st.—Moderately heavy snow in Afghanistan and Baluchistan in January and February. The winter closed earlier than usual, and snow melted rapidly in March and April.

2nd.—Frequent rain and occasional snow on the lower ranges of the Western Himalayas, and more frequent snow on the higher ranges. The snowfall was exceptionally heavy in Ladakh, and probably on the Karakoram range. There was hence a large accumulation on the higher ranges of the Kashmir and Punjab Himalayas during the months of February and March; but it is probable that the chief result at the present time is a greater depth of snow over the permanent snow area and not an abnormally large extension of snow clad surface.

4th.—Moderately heavy snowfall on the North-Western Provinces Himalayas, but less than in the preceding winter.

5th.—Unusually light snowfall during the months of January and February on the Sikkim and Assam Himalayas; but there have probably been heavy falls on the higher ranges during the past two months.

6th.—The snowfall hence chiefly occurred during the winter months, and the fall has, so far as can be judged, not been excessive during the past two months.

7th.—The snow accumulation in May was probably large in the region of permanent snow on the Western Himalayas, but there was no abnormal extension of snow clad surface.

Abnormal features of the meteorology of the previous eighteen months.

The year 1893 was in its meteorological features in India the most remarkable during the past twenty years. The winter of 1892-93 was of exceptional severity in the Western Himalayas. The snowfall was abnormally heavy and the temperature exceptionally low. In the plains of Northern India a rapid succession of storms gave abundant rain. The cold weather was prolonged until nearly the end of March, and the month of March was the coolest experienced for many years in Northern and Central India. It was also remarkable for the exceptionally heavy rainfall over the greater part of the peninsula, the Central Provinces, and Central India, many districts of which received upwards of ten times their average normal fall. Fine normal weather set in over the whole of Northern India and the hill districts in the last week of March, and the large snowfall accumulation melted rapidly in April, and ceased to affect the weather in Northern India in May. Temperature was below the average to a moderate extent in April and May over the whole of Northern India. Notwithstanding this, temporary advances of humid winds occurred earlier than usual in the Bay, and gave rise to a fierce cyclonic storm in May. The monsoon rains were established about the normal date in the coast districts, and extended more rapidly than usual into the interior, general rain commencing in the Punjab and Rajputana in the fourth week of the month. The currents were stronger than usual and very steady, and the whole of India (with a few local exceptions, including parts of the west coast districts, Southern India, and Berar) obtained abundant rain. The fall was most largely in excess in the Punjab, Rajputana, and the North-Western Provinces, and in Hyderabad (Deccan) and North Madras.

The rains terminated about the usual period in North-Western India. The Bay current was determined chiefly to Bengal and Burma in October and to the Peninsula in November. The rainfall was excessive in some parts of Madras, and was above the normal over the whole of Madras and the Deccan. The chief feature was the abnormal extension of these humid winds to the Central Provinces and Central India, which had damp, cloudy weather with excessive temperature in November, instead of the usual cool and dry weather of the month. The humid current withdrew unusually early from the Bay in the first week of December, and the rainfall of that month was hence considerably below the normal in Southern India. Fine settled weather prevailed over the whole of Northern and Central India during the month.

As already stated, the year was characterized by very striking features, of which the following were the chief:

1st.—The mean temperature of the whole of India for the year was 1·33° lower than the normal. The greatest deficiency recorded during the previous 20 years was ·61° in 1884. The year was hence abnormally and remarkably cool.

2nd.—The mean rainfall of the whole of India was in excess for each of the four seasons into which the year is divided. The total rainfall of the year was more or less in excess in all of the rainfall divisions of the Empire, except the Malabar and Ghats, where, however, it was only 7 per cent. below the normal. The mean rainfall of the year of the whole of India and Burma (making due allowance for the magnitude of the areas represented by the rainfall stations) was 8·94 inches above the normal amount, which is 42 inches.

The rainfall of the Indian area (measuring over one-and-a-half million square miles) was hence nearly 22 per cent. in excess of the normal.

3rd.—As might be expected, the year was much damper and more cloudy than usual.

4th.—A most interesting and instructive feature is that although the south-west monsoon was more vigorous and the rainfall less unequally distributed than usual over the whole area (that is, it was most largely in excess in the interior districts, which usually receive the least rainfall, and in slight excess or normal in the coast districts, which obtain the heaviest precipitation) the antecedent conditions in India itself were not such as to indicate abundant and well distributed rainfall. The winter snowfall had been excessive (although it was not prolonged into April and May), and the hot weather was shorter and less intense than usual over the whole of Northern and Central India. The pressure conditions in May were not characterized by any large abnormal features. The utmost that could be said was (as stated in last year's forecast) that the conditions over India were not unfavourable to well distributed rains. The whole of the circumstances show clearly that the strength of the monsoon throughout was due to conditions in the sea area from which it advances, and probably in the south-east trades, and not to the conditions obtaining in India. It is a very striking example of the value of this factor, the importance of which has been pointed out in previous forecasts, but which it is not as yet, in the absence of information, possible to take into account in drawing up the forecasts. With the extension of telegraphic communication to the Seychelles and Mauritius, it would seem to be advisable to establish observatories there to supply daily weather telegrams to India, as they would, in the course of a few years, probably give sufficient data to furnish the information suggested above as necessary.

The following gives a very brief summary of the chief features of the meteorology of India during the past five months:

January.—Pressure was ·020 inch in defect in India. The local variations were small, pressure being in slight defect in Burma and North-Eastern India, and in excess in North-Western India. Pressure was considerably in defect at the hill stations relatively to the neighbouring plains, a condition which invariably accompanies more disturbed weather than usual in the hills. A series of four disturbances affected North-Western India. They were very ill-defined and feeble, and gave rain to North-Western India only. The rainfall of the month was largely above the normal in the Punjab, and was in moderate excess in Rajputana, Sind, and the western districts of the North-Western Provinces. No rain fell during this month over nearly the whole of Burma, Bengal, Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and the Peninsula. Temperature was below the normal in North-Western India, the day temperature being largely in defect, and the night temperature normal or in slight excess. Temperature was above the normal over the remainder of India, but the variations were not large. The temperature conditions were hence mainly determined by the rainfall distribution. Frequent falls of snow occurred in the Western Himalayas and Afghanistan, but the weather was not so cold as in the previous winter, and the snow did not fall so low down as usual.

February.—Pressure was in slight excess by amounts averaging ·010 inch. It was in slight local excess in the Punjab and in moderate excess at the hill stations relative to the plains of Northern India. There were three periods of disturbance during the month in Northern India. Weather was very unsettled in Persia and Baluchistan, and much heavier snow and rain fell in these areas than usual. The disturbances in India were very feeble and diffused, but they nevertheless gave general and light to moderate rain in the plains of Northern and Central India. No rain fell in Lower and Central Burma, Bombay, North Madras, and the Madras Deccan. The precipitation of the month was in large excess in the Western Himalayas and Baluchistan, and was normal or in slight to moderate excess over the greater part of Northern India. It, however, occurred as rain to much higher elevations than usual in these areas. Temperature was in slight excess in North-Western and Southern India, and was in moderate to large excess in a broad belt stretching from Rajputana and Gujarat to East Bengal and Assam. As in January, the air was damper and skies more cloudy than usual over the whole of Northern and Central India and the North Deccan.

March.—The mean pressure of the month was ·017 inch below the normal. Pressure was, as in January, locally in slight defect in North-Eastern India and Burma, and in very slight local excess in North-Western India. Pressure was in slight relative defect at the hill stations. The month was unusually disturbed. A storm of the cold weather type gave heavy rain in Upper India in the first week of the month. Hot weather disturbances (giving rise to thunderstorms) were very frequent in East Bengal and Southern India, and these areas (more especially Malabar, South Madras, and East Bengal) had hence much larger total amounts of rain than usual. The rainfall in other districts did not vary much from the normal, except in Assam, where it was considerably in defect. There was much more cloud than usual, and weather was unsettled and showery with strong winds in the Punjab hill districts. The mean temperature of the month was in slight excess in Burma and the Peninsula, but was below the normal over the whole of Northern and Central India. The deficiency was large and marked in the Punjab and North-Western Provinces (averaging 3°). It was somewhat greater in the day than the night temperature, and was hence due to conditions and actions which slightly delayed the complete setting in of the hot weather in Upper India.

April.—The mean pressure of the whole of India was ·019 inch below the normal. The local variations of pressure were very small, and the pressure distribution was practically normal. The mean temperature of the month was slightly higher than usual in Burma and Assam, and also in Sind, Rajputana, Kathiawar, and Gujarat; but the variations were less than 2° at all stations, and less than 1° at the great majority of stations in India. The temperature and pressure conditions of the month were hence approximately normal. The only important abnormal feature was the very strong tendency to northerly winds at the Upper India hill stations.

May.—The mean pressure of the Indian area was considerably in defect (—·023 inch), due chiefly, if not entirely, to the prevalence of very strongly marked hot weather conditions. The area of greatest excess of temperature included the Gangetic plain and West Bengal, and hence pressure was relatively to the general condition in considerable defect in that area. The deficiency was largest in the area defined by the following stations :

Pressure was, on the other hand, relatively to the general condition considerably in excess in the Peninsula and Burma. The excess was large in the western half of the Peninsula, Gujarat, and Kathiawar. The following gives data illustrating this feature:

This combination of conditions, viz., increased pressure in Western India and very deficient pressure in the Gangetic plain, transferred the low pressure trough to a position considerably further north than usual, and during two periods in the month, viz., from the 13th to the 17th and the 23rd to the 28th, it lay along the foot of the hills. The westerly winds of Northern and Central India had hence an abnormal development during the month, and more especially during these periods. The southerly winds in Bengal were also exceptionally strong during these two periods. One of the more important features of the month was hence the abnormally vigorous air movement over the whole of India (except South Madras) produced by the exaggerated hot weather conditions of the month in Northern India.

The following table gives data illustrating the mean temperature conditions of the month :

The following summarizes the chief features of the meteorology of the past five months, which require to be taken into account in estimating the distribution of the rainfall of the approaching monsoon:

1st.—The abnormal distribution of the snowfall of the past winter.

2nd.—The slightly marked abnormal pressure and temperature features of January and February, which were in accordance with the distribution of the snowfall in the Western Himalayas.

3rd.—The prevalence of somewhat more disturbed weather than usual in March, as is generally the case after heavier snowfall in January and February in the Western Himalayas. The amount of disturbance was, however, feeble when compared with the disturbed weather of 1891 and 1893. This disturbed weather in March was followed by normal pressure and temperature conditions in April and by exaggerated hot weather conditions in May.

The pressure conditions of the hill stations relative to the plains in May were in accordance with the strongly marked hot weather conditions in the plains. There has, however, been an undue prevalence of northerly winds at the Upper India hill stations probably due mainly to the temperature and pressure conditions of the adjacent plains of Northern India. It is, however, possible that these winds may have been in part an effect of more stormy weather and of increased snow in the higher and interior ranges during the hot weather months, and hence indicate an abnormal action that may require to be taken into consideration.

There have been no strong temporary advances of humid winds in the months of April and May such as occurred last year—an indication that the south-east trades are certainly not so vigorous as last year (when there is some evidence they were much stronger than usual), and very probably not above their normal strength, and possibly below it.

Comparison with previous years.

During the past 26 years the snowfall in the Himalayas was very heavy and more or less considerably above the normal in the years 1868, 1877, 1878, 1883, 1885, 1889, 1891, and 1893. In all the years, except 1889 and 1893, general heavy snow fell either in April or May, or in both months, in the Kashmir and Punjab Himalayas, and these months were unusually cool in Northern or North-Western India. The pre-monsoon conditions of pressure and temperature were hence in the majority of these years very different from those prevailing during the present year up to the end of May. As already pointed out, the present year exhibits the combination of heavy to excessive snowfall during the normal winter period (January to March) in the Kashmir and Punjab Himalayas, and of strongly marked hot weather conditions in Northern India in April and May.

The following gives a brief statement of the chief features of the years 1883, 1887, 1889, and 1890, which more or less resemble 1894 in their hot weather pressure and temperature conditions:

1883.—Very heavy snow fell in the Punjab and Kashmir Himalayas in January, and again in the last week of May, but little in February, March, and April. Temperature was in excess in February, April, and May, and slightly in defect in January and March in Upper India. The pre-monsoon pressure variations were neither large nor persistent. The monsoon was considerably retarded on the West Coast, and did not set in strongly at Bombay until the 24th June.

The Peninsula received normal or abundant rain. There was a more or less general deficiency in Northern India, but the chief features in the rains were a long break in August and their early termination in Northern India in September. The North-Western Provinces and Bengal were chiefly affected, and the autumn crops in Bengal suffered greatly from drought in October and November.

1887.—The cold weather was unusually free from cold weather storms, and the snowfall in the Western Himalayas was very light.

March and April were warmer than usual in North-Western India and the Central Provinces, and May was an excessively hot month in Upper and Central India. Although little rain fell in the plains of Northern India, moderately heavy snow is stated to have fallen in January and March in the Western Himalayas. Pressure was in slight to moderate defect on the average of the whole Indian area during the period January to May. It was relatively to the general condition in considerable defect in Northern India, the deficiency being large in Upper India (—·05 inch) and moderate in North-Eastern India. It was in considerable excess in the west of the Peninsula, the excess averaging ·06 inch in the Konkan and Malabar Coast Districts. Temperature was 6° above the normal in May in the Punjab and 3° in the North-Western Provinces.

The Bengal current set in earlier than usual at the end of May, and the Bombay current about the normal time in the first week of June. Both currents gave fairly steady rain during the months of June, July, and August. They retreated from Upper and Central India at the end of the third week of September. The monsoon rainfall was in slight defect in Arakan, Bengal, Assam, and Orissa, normal in Burma and the Deccan, and in excess over nearly the whole of North-Western and Central India and the Central Provinces.

1889.—The cold weather of 1888-89 was remarkable for very heavy rainfall in Northern India, more especially in the Punjab, due to a succession of disturbances in January and February. Heavy snow fell on the Western Himalayas during these months, alternating with rain at elevations below 9,000 feet. The snow accumulation in April and May was not large, and exercised little influence on the temperature and other conditions of the hot weather in Northern India. Temperature was more or less above the normal in Northern India, the excess being greatest in Bengal and Burma. The excess in May averaged 4° in Lower Burma and nearly 6° in Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and West Bengal. Pressure was in moderate excess over the whole Indian area from January to May. It was locally in considerable defect in North Eastern India and in moderate relative defect in Upper India.

The monsoon commenced later than usual on the Malabar Coast, but advanced unusually rapidly in the second week of June, and was established over the whole of India by the 13th. The rains continued with great steadiness throughout June, July, and August, and terminated earlier than usual in Upper India at the end of the first week of September. The rainfall was above the normal, except in the Punjab, Sind, Cutch, Gujarat, and Burma, the deficiency being small in the latter area. It averaged 13 per cent. in the Punjab, where it was greatest.

1890.—The cold weather was unusually dry and free from storms.

The snowfall was less than usual in Baluchistan and Afghanistan, and occurred in January and February. There was much less snow than usual in these months in the Western Himalayas. Moderate snow fell in March and heavy snow for a short period during the last week of April. It, however, melted rapidly, and its effect on the meteorology of Northern India was very brief. Pressure was in general defect from January to May in India. Pressure in May was relatively to the general condition in slight defect in Northern India, and in moderate excess on the western half of the Peninsula. The anomalies were, however, not at all strongly marked during the hot weather. Temperature was 2° in excess in May in Rajputana and the Deccan, and the temperature variations were hence not large.

The hot weather months of March, April, and May were hence somewhat drier and hotter than usual in Northern India. The south-west monsoon rains set in earlier than usual on the Bombay Coast, and at their normal date on the Bengal Coast. They advanced more rapidly than usual into the interior, and were fully established over the whole of India in the beginning of the fourth week of June. The rains were unusually abundant in June and July, and on the whole normal, but unequally distributed in August and September. The rainfall of the south-west monsoon period was hence normal or in excess over by far the greatest part of India. The excess was greatest relatively to the normal in Bihar (34 per cent.), the Punjab, Orissa, Bengal, and the Konkan (slightly exceeding 10 per cent.). The rainfall of the period was practically normal in the Central Provinces and the Deccan. It was in moderate defect in Upper Burma, Gujarat, Sind, and Southern India.

The chief features of the year 1893 have been given above. A comparison of the brief accounts of the years 1883, 1887, 1889, and 1890 with the meteorology of the present year shows that the resemblances are slight, except in the case of the year 1889, which in its more important features agrees approximately with the present year.

Probable character of the south-west monsoon of 1894.

The present year is the fourth of a series of years characterized by very marked and exceptional meteorological features. It was pointed out in last year's forecast that the conditions in the winter of 1892-93 were so very unusual in character as to point to the existence of abnormal conditions over a far larger area than India. The year 1893 was even more remarkable than was anticipated in last year's forecast. It was the coolest year on record in India, the mean deficiency being more than twice as great as has been experienced during the past twenty years, and the rainfall of the year was much greater than has been received many years during the past thirty years. Years of increased rainfall in India as a rule occur in pairs. The two years previously in which the largest excess was received were as follows: giving a total excess in two years of 7·83 inches.

The rainfall of the year 1891 was 3·54 inches in defect for the whole of India, and the rainfall during the past two years has been very largely in excess, as is shown by the following:

	Average rainfall of whole of India.	Excess in inches.

being a total of 14·16 inches, or nearly twice the largest known previous excess. There is hence a slight antecedent probability from previous experience that the rainfall of the present year will be in defect, but this makes no allowance for the remarkable and anomalous features of the period through which India is passing.

The abnormal features of the pressure, temperature, and other conditions of the present year are very strongly marked, and the probable effect of these in determining and modifying the rainfall of the approaching monsoon period are stated below. It should, however, be remarked that in drawing up the forecast if too large or too small a weight or value be given to any one of these abnormal conditions, the divergence of the forecast from the actual will be greater in a year like the present year than in ordinary years.

The peculiar features of the meteorology of the cold weather months of 1894 in India were—

(1) Heavier precipitation in the plains of Northern India and in the Western Himalayas during the months of January, February, and March than usual. The precipitation was abnormal in one important respect, i.e., that it occurred as rain to much higher levels than usual.

(2) Increased snowfall on the higher and interior ranges of the Western Himalayas, more especially in Kashmir.

(3) Decreased snowfall in the Eastern Himalayas in January and February.

(4) Temperature in March was in moderate defect and pressure in slight excess in North-Western India, and temperature was in moderate excess and pressure in moderate defect in North-Eastern India.

The snow accumulation at the beginning of the winter of 1893-94 was probably about normal in amount. On account of the unusual character of the precipitation during the winter there was undoubtedly in February a large excess of snow in the interior of the Punjab and Kashmir Himalayas; but, as pointed out above, this has probably chiefly added to the depth of the snow in the ordinary area of perpetual snow and the intermediate valleys, and has not given a large extension of snow clad surface, except perhaps to the northwards in Thibet. The conditions in India in the month of March show fully that the influence of the snow accumulation at the end of the winter was very slight. Snow has fallen to some extent in both the Western and Sikkim Himalayas during the past two months. The few reports that have been received do not indicate to what extent this has modified the pre-existing conditions; but, so far as can be judged from the statements, the snowfall during the past two months has not appreciably altered the character of the snowfall accumulation in the interior.

This inference from the reports themselves is confirmed by the character of the weather in India during the past two months. The conditions of pressure and temperature in April were very approximately normal, but with a slight tendency towards more strongly marked hot weather conditions than usual in Northern India. It was in fact a transitional month between a month somewhat cooler and more disturbed than usual, and a month of very strongly marked hot and dry weather conditions in May. The following summarizes the chief features of the month of May:

(1) Deficient pressure on the average over the whole of India.

(2) Very deficient pressure locally in Northern India accompanying temperature largely in excess, more especially in West Bengal, Bihar, and Chota Nagpur. The local deficiency of pressure was greatest in that part of Northern India adjacent to the area of least snowfall in the Himalayas, and in which temperature was most largely in excess.

(3) Increased pressure locally in the western half of the Peninsula, Gujarat, Cutch, and South-West Rajputana.

These local conditions (the most marked during the past fifteen years) will undoubtedly modify the rainfall distribution of the south-west monsoon considerably. They will probably determine the Bay current more largely than usual towards Burma, Assam, East and North Bengal, and the Bombay current more to the Central Provinces, Central India, and the North-Western Provinces, and less to Upper India (except perhaps the immediate neighbourhood of the hills) than usual.

The mean position of the trough of low pressure will very probably be further north than usual on the average of the whole period.

The conditions in India during the past three months are on the whole favourable, and indicate that it is probable the monsoon currents will be at least of normal strength. The information received up to date from ships and other sources of information of the conditions in the neighbouring seas, and more especially in the northern half of the Indian Ocean, suggests that the south-east trades are not so strong this year as last, and that the conditions in the sea areas are not so favourable for a strong monsoon as they were last year.

It hence appears to be most probable that the monsoon currents will be of normal strength, and that the Bombay current is more likely to be above its normal strength than the Bay current. Assuming that the currents will be of normal strength, the comparison with previous years (more especially 1887, 1889, 1890, and 1892) indicates that it is most probable they will set in about the normal time on both the Bengal and Bombay Coasts. The Bombay current is more likely to be slightly retarded than the Bengal current, and there is a slight probability it may be not so strong as usual in June.

The following is a statement of the inferences respecting the character and distribution of the south-west monsoon rains of 1894 from the comparison of the antecedent conditions of the present year with those of previous years, and based chiefly on the facts and data stated above:

(1) Snowfall conditions in the Western Himalayas and the Afghan Mountains and the pressure conditions in India are favourable to the establishment of at least normal monsoon currents in India. The conditions in the Indian seas are very imperfectly known, but appear to indicate that the currents will most probably not be much above their normal strength. It is, however, very probable that they will at least be of normal strength. The Arabian Sea current will probably be established about its normal time on the Bombay Coast in the second week of June, but there is a slight probability it may be weak during the month of June. The current will probably advance into the interior more rapidly than usual.

(2) Conditions are on the whole favourable to the prevalence of monsoon currents of at least normal strength in the Bay of Bengal. The rains will probably be established about the normal period in Bengal.

(3) Pressure conditions are very favourable in Bengal and to a somewhat less extent in Burma. It is hence probable that Bengal will receive normal to abundant rainfall, and that the rainfall will most probably be in excess in Assam, East and North Bengal, and Bihar, and normal or in slight defect in West Bengal and Chota Nagpur, and perhaps Orissa. The rainfall in Upper Burma will probably be normal or in slight to moderate excess, and in Lower Burma normal or in slight defect.

(4) Conditions in the North-Western Provinces are on the whole favourable. The rainfall on the average of the whole province will most probably be normal. The rainfall will probably be in excess in the eastern and submontane districts, but may be in defect in the southern and western districts.

(5) Conditions are not very favourable for the greater part of the Punjab. The rainfall will probably be less than usual in the western and perhaps the central districts, but will probably be normal in the submontane districts.

(6) Conditions are also unfavourable in Sind, Cutch, Kathiawar, and West Rajputana, and it is very probable that these areas will have deficient rainfall. In Eastern Rajputana the rainfall will either be normal or in slight defect, depending largely upon the actual strength of the Bombay current.

(7) Conditions are on the whole favourable in Berar, the Central Provinces, the Bombay Deccan, and Hyderabad. It is hence probable that they will receive at least normal rainfall. The conditions are most favourable in Berar, the western and north-eastern districts of the Central Provinces, and there is hence a slight probability they may receive rainfall in moderate to considerable excess of the normal.

(8) A comparison of the conditions in Southern India and the Carnatic with those of similar years indicates that the rainfall will probably be below the average, more especially in the southern districts. It is, however, very difficult to forecast for this part of India, as rain in Southern India during the monsoon proper occurs chiefly during the intervals of breaks in the rains of Northern India, and is hence essentially of irregular occurrence.

It should be noted that the preceding probabilities are obtained on the assumption that the currents will be approximately normal in strength.

The general conclusion is that the rainfall may be deficient to a moderate extent in Sind, Cutch, West and Central Punjab, West Rajputana, and perhaps Kathiawar; that it will very probably be at least normal in amount in the northern half of the Peninsula, the greater part of the North-Western Provinces, Bihar, Bengal, Assam, and perhaps Burma, and may be in moderate to largish excess in Bengal, Assam, and Upper Burma. The amount of the deficiency and the extent of the area of deficiency in North-Western India will depend very largely upon the strength of the Bombay current. On the supposition of a normal or strong current, it will most probably not be serious.

It is too early to estimate the probability of a longish break in the rains in July or August, but there are no indications as yet of such an event.

It should be noted that in the preceding statement, when it is stated that an event is probable, the chances in its favour are at least 5 to 2, and, when very probable, at least 5 to 1.

Weather Review of India for the Week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, June 2nd, 1894.

General Summary.—For the first two days of the week the distribution of pressure remained unaltered. The trough of low pressure continued to stretch along the foot of the hills as in the previous week, but conditions were modified considerably by the changes which took place by the morning of the 29th. The North-Eastern India low pressure area was again restored to its normal position, and the abnormally strong winds which had been prevailing in South Bengal decreased in strength, and were more easterly than they had been for some time past. During the next twenty-four hours pressure gave way briskly in the eastern extremity of the area of low pressure, and a depression was formed over Orissa, Ganjam, and the eastern districts of the Central Provinces. Winds continued to decrease in strength in Bengal. By next morning the barometer had fallen briskly on the Madras and Arakan Coasts, and probably over the Bay, showing the existence of disturbed and squally weather in the centre of the Bay; but there was nothing to indicate the probability of the development of a severe storm, and by next morning the depression had filled up.

Hot dry weather prevailed in North-Western India during the week. Only a few light showers of rain fell in the hill and submontane districts of the Punjab and North-Western Provinces. Northerly winds continued to an unusual extent at the majority of the Upper India hill stations.

Rain was more general in Bengal, and light to moderate rain continued in Burma and Southern India. Heavy falls were reported from Silchar and Akyab. Towards the close of the week winds increased considerably in strength at Colombo and on the Malabar Coast, which, with a rough sea at several of the coast stations, appeared to indicate the possible approach of the monsoon; but only a feeble advance of monsoon winds took place, giving light to moderate showers at Colombo and the Malabar Coast stations.

Temperature was largely in excess in West Bengal, Bihar, and Chota Nagpur at the commencement of the week, several stations on the 27th and 28th recording mean temperatures more than 10° in excess of the normal. But the change of wind caused by alterations in the pressure distribution reduced temperature largely in this area, and by the end of the week it was only slightly in excess.

The mean temperature of the whole of India for the whole week was 1·8° in excess of the normal.

Daily Summary.—Sunday.—Pressure had given way over the whole of India, but the fall was generally small, and did not affect the pressure distribution materially. Unusually steep gradients continued, and very strong winds at the Bengal and Orissa Coast stations. Very high day temperatures were recorded, especially in the Gangetic plain; Agra, Mainpuri, and Patna recording temperatures exceeding 114°. Heavy rain was received in parts of Assam and North Bengal, and light to moderate showers in Burma and Southern India. Silchar registered 5·14 inches and Gnatong 2·25 inches.

Monday.—Pressure continued lowest in the submontane districts of the North-Western Provinces, where it averaged two-tenths of an inch in defect. Winds were not quite so strong at the Bengal and Orissa Coast stations, and easterly winds had extended into the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces. Rain had fallen in Mysore, Assam, North Bengal, and Burma. Akyab received 3·01 inches, Gnatong 3·27 inches, Bassein 2·9 inches, Mandalay 2·23 inches, Chittagong 2·12 inches, and Diamond Island, Bhamo, Rangoon, and Mysore amounts exceeding one inch.

Tuesday.—Pressure had decreased very slightly in Burma and increased over the whole of India, considerably modifying the position of the area of low pressure, which now extended from the South-East Punjab to Chota Nagpur. Very high temperatures were recorded in North-Western India, the most remarkable being 120·1° at Jacobabad and 116·9° at Montgomery. The following falls of rain exceeding one inch were reported : Diamond Island, 2·05 inches ; Rangoon, 1·15 inches ; Bassein, 1·09 inches ; and Akyab, 1·08 inches.

Wednesday.—A considerable change had taken place in the distribution of pressure. A shallow depression with a feeble cyclonic circulation of winds covered the Central Punjab, and another low pressure area had formed in Orissa, Ganjam, and the eastern districts of the Central Provinces. Chittagong had received 2·4 inches of rain, Jessore 2·12 inches, Narayanganj 1·61 inches, and Silchar 1·08 inches.

Thursday.—Pressure had given way on the Madras and Arakan Coasts, and hence probably over the Bay ; and the eastern extremity of the depression of the previous day had extended over the north-west of the Bay. Winds had decreased very rapidly in strength at the head of the Bay, and were below their normal strength in South Bengal. Temperature had increased very rapidly in the Central Madras coast districts due to strong north-west land winds. Heavy showers of rain fell at Akyab (3·41 inches) and Barisal (3·23 inches), and thunderstorms and duststorms occurred in the Punjab.

Friday.—Pressure had changed by small amounts, except in the Circars, where the depression had filled up, and its distribution differed less from the normal than it had done for some time past. Winds had increased at Colombo and on the Malabar Coast, and the sea was rough at Colombo and Cochin, indicating the prevalence of strong winds in the neighbouring sea area. Rain had fallen in Burma and Bengal and at a few stations in the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, and Southern India, but the showers were generally light. Tavoy received 2·58 inches, Akyab 2·22 inches, and Chakrata 1·02 inches.

Saturday.—Pressure had fallen slightly to briskly in Northern India and risen slightly to briskly in Southern India. It was in considerable defect in the Coromandel Coast districts. Winds continued strong at Colombo and the Malabar Coast stations. Moderate to heavy rain had fallen in Burma, where Akyab had received 7·01 inches, Moulmein 2·30 inches, and Tavoy 1·96 inches. Showers had also occurred in Ceylon, Southern India, and Bengal. Mangalore received 1·39 inches, Sibsagar 1·36 inches, Colombo 1·2 inches, and Dhubri 1·02 inches.

Temperature.—The following table gives the variations of the mean temperature from the normal on each day of the week for the different provinces of India :

Temperature has been excessive over nearly the whole of India. Only in Burma was it in defect, and in Central India and Guzarat it was nearly normal. In all other provinces it was more or less in excess. The excess was greatest in the North-Western Provinces and Central Provinces, in the former province the excess amounting to almost 6° on the first day of the week. On the 28th and 30th it was nearly as much, and it was not till the end of the week that the temperature in the North-Western Provinces was reduced to slightly above the normal. The maximum temperature rose at Agra to 115·5°, which was more than 7° higher than the usual temperature at this time of the year. In the Punjab the abnormal variations of temperature were considerable, from 5° in excess on the 30th May to 1½° in defect on the 1st June. The temperature of the whole of Northern India was affected to a large extent by the change of wind caused by the alterations in the pressure distribution which commenced on the 29th. The temperature of Madras, on the other hand, rose towards the end of the week, which was due to the high temperatures recorded during the prevalence of land winds at the Madras coast stations. On the 1st June the highest temperature of the previous twenty-four hours in the whole of India was registered at one of these stations, viz., Masulipatam.

The mean temperature for the whole of India and Burma together was in excess on every day of the week. For the whole week it was 1·8° in excess, which showed an abnormal increase of 0·7° over the mean temperature of the previous week.

Rainfall.—The only stations at which rain amounting to more than 10 inches during the week was received were: Pyapon in Lower Burma (13·03 inches), Akyab (19·19 inches), Nemotha in Cachar (12·45 inches), and Cherra in the Khasia and Jaintia Hills (18·28 inches). The rainfall of the week has on the whole been lighter than that of the previous week, but it has been more general, light rain having fallen in the North-Western Provinces, Bihar, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur. But only in the divisions of Lower Burma, Arakan, Eastern Bengal, Assam, Mysore, and Madras (Central) has the rainfall of the week been equal to the normal.

During the rainfall period commencing 4th March, and which ends with this week, the rainfall over the greater part of India has been largely in defect. If rainfall showing a variation of less than 20 per cent. be considered normal, in the whole of the North-Western Provinces, Central Provinces, Bombay (North), Rajputana and Central India, and the greater part of Bengal the rainfall for this period has been in defect. Rainfall has been normal in Lower and Central Burma, East and North Bengal, Assam, the Punjab Hill districts, the North-West and West Punjab, Coorg, and the greater part of Madras. It has been excessive in Tenasserim, Mysore, and the Bombay Deccan.

Snowfall.—The Revd. F. B. Shawe, Superintendent of the Leh Observatory in Ladakh, says that, according to the statements of the people, the snowfall in Nubra to the north of Leh, and separated from it by a ridge of about 20,000 feet average height, has been heavier than usual. Information regarding the snowfall on the Pamirs and in Yarkhand is contradictory. On the 14th May bad weather with heavy snow had again commenced in Leh, and the passes were again temporarily blocked.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 2nd June.—Moderate rainfall on the West Coast, Nilgiris, and in the greater part of the Central districts; light and scattered showers in many other districts. The rainfall to date is generally up to average, and nowhere much deficient, except at Madras. Rain is wanted on the West Coast. Ploughing and sowing going on slowly in parts. Standing crop fair, but the area is not large. Some harvest still proceeding with fair outturn. Pasture generally scanty, but fodder sufficient. Prices remain almost stationary at a high level, though slightly dearer in the Circars.

Bombay.—For week ending 6th June.—Rain in parts of eleven districts. Standing crops damaged by locusts or other insects in parts of two districts; otherwise good. Preparation of lands for next season general. Sowing progressing in parts of seven districts. Agricultural stock poor in parts of three districts. Fodder insufficient in parts of four and water in parts of two districts. Prices steady, except in one district. Numbers on relief works: Baroda, 938.

Bengal.—For week ending 2nd June.—There was fairly general rain in the Central, Northern, and Eastern districts of Bengal during the week. Want of rain has retarded cultivation in parts of the Burdwan and Orissa divisions, and generally in Behar and Chota Nagpur. Prospects in the Eastern districts continue favourable, but in some of the Central and Northern districts more rain is required. Cattle are generally doing well, and the supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Prices are reported normal, except in the Eastern districts, where they exceed the average. It is reported that distress continues to be felt in the Brahmanbaria sub-division.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 6th June.—Rain has fallen in a few districts. Heat excessive. Fields are being prepared for the autumn sowings. Irrigation of summer crops continues. Extra crops are in good condition. Markets are well supplied. Fodder and water sufficient. Prices fairly steady.

Punjab.—For week ending 6th June.—Slight rain has fallen in seven districts. Harvesting and threshing of spring crops going on. Sowing of autumn crops in progress. Sugarcane and cotton crops are thriving. The extra spring crops are in good condition. The outturn of wheat is above average in Shahpur; a good deal of smut in wheat in Jullundur. Cattle are generally reported to be in good condition, and fodder is sufficient throughout the province. Prices falling in two districts, rising in four others, but low elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 6th June.—The weather has been exceedingly hot. Storms have given showers of rain in Nagpur and parts of Chhattisgarh, and as much as half an inch at Seoni. Prospects generally normal. In Saugor the number on relief works, including municipal works at Khurai, has risen from 2,036 to 3,185. In Damoh the attendance has remained practically unchanged, 2,062 persons against 1,969 in the preceding week. No gratuitous relief granted in either district. Saugor continues to import grain largely, 24,000 maunds having been received at two out of the five stations in the district. Damoh received 8,000 maunds by road. Prices have recovered at Saugor from last week's fall, and are now—wheat at 11¾ seers, gram 19 seers, and rice 10 seers. Prices of wheat and gram at Damoh are stationary, at 12½ and 18 seers respectively; but rice has fallen to 11¼ seers. In the neighbouring districts prices are stationary—wheat at 15 seers in Jabalpur, at 13 seers in Narsinghpur, and at 16 seers in Hoshangabad, and gram at 24, 24, and 23 seers respectively. Export of wheat from Harda continues. Brisk export of oilseeds from the Nagpur country.

Burma.—For week ending 2nd June.—Rainfall generally steady, but very heavy in Akyab, and heavy in four other districts. In Lower Burma ploughing for the main crops has commenced in five districts. In Upper Burma reaping of dry-weather paddy is progressing. Ploughing for wet-weather paddy is general, and in Kyaukse transplanting of early wet-weather paddy has begun. Sowing of sesamum and cotton begun. Crop prospects good. Fodder and water abundant. Prices continue low, but markets show upward tendency.

Assam.—For week ending 5th June.—Weather seasonable. Floods in the Surma valley have slightly damaged standing crops, but are now subsiding. Sowing of late rice seedlings and ploughing for late rice continue. Plucking of tea in progress. Condition of cattle fair. Fodder and water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 6th June.—MYSORE: Good rain in parts. Crops and prospects good. Prices fallen in two districts.

COORG: Rainfall good. Ploughing for rice and sowing of ragi (Eleusine coracana) continue. Prospects of coffee and cardamom fair. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient. Prices continue normal.

Berar and Hyderabad—For week ending 6th June.—BERAR: No rain throughout the province. Weather very warm and occasionally cloudy. Preparation of land for next autumn crop continues. Water-supply inadequate in the Melghat taluka. Scarcity of fodder prevails in two districts only. Prices fluctuating in the Wun district.

HYDERABAD: No rain during the week. Reaping of hot-weather crops continues. Prices stationary.

Central India.—For week ending 6th June.—No rain during the week. Some works have been started in the districts in Gwalior and Bhopal, where the crops have failed. No actual distress is felt in these parts. The crops in other Agencies have been fairly good. Cattle in parts of Gwalior are in indifferent condition. Pasturage good and sufficient in nearly all parts of Central India. Prices of food-grains are above ordinary rates in Bhopal, Goona, and parts of Gwalior, and at normal rates in other parts of Central India.

Rajputana.—For week ending 6th June.—Slight rain in Bikanir. Agricultural operations and cattle generally satisfactory. Land being prepared for autumn crops in Sirohi, Ajmere, and Ulwar. Prospects good. Pasturage or fodder sufficient, except in Kerauli, where it is reported scarce. Prices fluctuating in three States, rising in three, falling in one, and steady elsewhere.

Kashmir.—KASHMIR VALLEY.—For week ending 5th June.—Weather fine. Spring crops in good condition. Water ample for irrigation. Reaping of rapeseed and rice sowings still in progress. Prices stationary.

JAMMU PROVINCE.—For week ending 5th June.—Weather clear with occasional showers. Spring crops threshed; outturn fair. Fodder sufficient.

Nepal.—For week ending 2nd June.—Rain badly wanted in the valley for upland rice and Indian-corn crops.

The appended report by the Secretary under the Inventions and Designs Act, 1888, on the working of his office during the year ending 31st December 1893.

RÉSOLUTION.

The arrangement by which the Inventions and Designs office was placed under the superintendence of the officer in charge of the Mathematical Instrument Department of the Survey of India continued in force during the year under review. The distance of the Survey office from the Patents office has always been an objection to this arrangement; but, in the absence of any responsible official at the Secretariat buildings during the summer, the plan adopted was unavoidable. With a view, however, to the greater convenience of the public, advantage has been taken of the appointment of an Imperial officer to the charge of the Imperial Libraries in the Secretariat buildings to arrange for the control of the Patents office from the 1st January 1894 by an official whose duties are conducted under the same roof. The Patents office has accordingly been placed under the management of the Director of Records to the Government of India.

2. The working of Act V of 1883 (the Inventions and Designs Act) during the year, as illustrated by the table of annual statistics, and especially by the figures relating to the continuance of an exclusive privilege, indicates that the public find the protection afforded to Inventions by the Act to be of material value.

3. References to experts have in the year under review been slightly reduced. The question has from time to time been raised as to the extent to which the preliminary examination contemplated by the Act is necessary or desirable. In England and in most European countries it is considered sufficient to advertize applications for exclusive privilege without initiating any investigation of their novelty by the State, whereas in America and Germany a preliminary enquiry is in cases of doubt both permitted and encouraged by the law. The Government of India hold the view that the examination authorized by the Indian enactment is, as a rule, expedient in those cases where the invention is likely to affect (a) industries in which the interests of the more ignorant classes of the population are concerned; (b) State operations (such as the working of railways) undertaken on behalf of the public. Subject to the above considerations, the policy which guides the present administration of the Act contemplates the expeditious disposal of applications for protection under the Act, the curtailment of preliminary investigation, and, in cases in which the interests of those classes of the general community who are unable to protect themselves are not directly concerned, less exigence in demanding enquiry as to novelty than in cases in which public interests require protection.

4. The circumstance that the number of cases referred for opinion on novelty to the Public Works Department has fallen while the number referred to experts on payment of fee has risen is due to the fact that the increasing amount of work thrown upon officers of Government, whose time belongs to the public, was found to interfere with their ordinary duties. The Government of India accordingly resolved that cases connected with mechanical inventions should, when calling for investigation, be in future ordinarily referred to non-official experts and not to officers of the State Departments.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the above Resolution be forwarded to the Legislative Department and to the Local Governments and Administrations noted in the margin.

E. C. BUCK,

Secretary to the Government of India.

Report on the working of the office of the Secretary under the Inventions and Designs Act during the year ending 31st December 1893.

The Inventions and Designs office continued under the superintendence of the officer in charge of the Mathematical Instrument Department of the Survey of India during the year under report.

The chief matter of public interest dealt with during the year was a proposal submitted by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for extending to India the benefits of section 103 of the English Patents Act of 1883. The Government of India were willing to amend the Inventions and Designs Act so as to secure the benefits contemplated by the section above quoted, but the proposal had ultimately to be abandoned in consequence of there being no provision in the Indian Act for the registration of trade marks.

The total number of applications filed was in excess of the preceding year by 39, having stood at 375 against 336 in 1892. Of these 261 were granted, 36 refused, and 78 remained pending at the close of the year. One hundred and fifty-six of these applications were referred for the opinion of experts, 61 on payment of fees, and 95 without. The latter included 31 references to the Public Works Department, or 16 less than in the previous year. The majority of these were connected with Railways, and it was decided to refer such cases in future to the Agent, East India Railway, who, on payment, calls in the aid of such officer as may appear to him most competent to give an opinion. The number of applications submitted by persons resident in India was 192, of which 22 were by natives.

Two hundred and fifty-three specifications were filed during the year, being 52 less than the previous year. Twenty-five of these were for matters connected with railways, sixteen for the manufacture of tea, seven for the treatment of cotton and other fibres, five for punkah-pulling machines, five for water lifts, and two for baling presses.

During the year only 37 applications were made for the registration of designs against 89 in 1892. Of these 26 were admitted and 11 rejected, the latter including three applications for the registration of trade marks.

Two cases were referred for the opinion of the Honourable the Advocate General on points of law.

The number of cases in which exclusive privilege was continued was 80, 69 being beyond the fourth year, 10 beyond the fifth, and 1 beyond the eighth year. The number of cases which lapsed through the non-payment of the fourth year's renewal fee stood at 144.

The fees collected showed an increase over the preceding year, the amount having reached Rs. 17,057-2-0 against Rs. 15,852-10-0. Of this amount, Rs. 150 were refunded, leaving a nett total income of Rs. 16,907-2-0. This sum included Rs. 4,300 for the continuance of exclusive privilege, Rs. 335 for extensions of time for payment of renewal fees and filing of specifications, Rs. 343-2-0 for copying of specifications, Rs. 202 for tracing of drawings, and Rs. 82 for the inspection of applications and specifications.

The statement appended gives statistics of the working of the Inventions and Designs office during the year under report as compared with the two previous years.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

No. 5/88.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture (Surveys),—dated Simla, the 4th June, 1894.

Read-

General Report on the operations of the Survey of India Department during 1892-93.

RESOLUTION.

During the year ending 30th September 1893 the field operations of the Survey of India Department were carried on by twenty-one parties and three small detachments in connection with the various classes of work indicated in the following list:

Class of work.			No. of parties.	No. of detachments
1. Trigonometrical	...	...	1	...
2. Topographical ...	...	...	3	2
3. Forest ...	...	...	4	...
4. Cadastral ...	...	...	7	1
5. Traverse ...	...	...	1	...
6. Scientific ...	...	...	3	...
7. Geographical ...	...	...	2	...
	TOTAL	...	21

Twelve of the parties and one detachment, viz., those coming under the heads of Forest, Cadastral, and Traverse, were engaged on remunerative operations, i.e., on work which leads to enhancement of land or forest revenue or to economy in administration.

2. The aggregate area surveyed in detail by the whole Department during the year was 104,711 square miles against a total of 80,101 square miles during the previous year.

As in the previous year, one party was employed on trigonometrical operations in the newly acquired territory of Upper Burma, where 70 miles of principal and 104 miles of secondary series were accomplished during the year, and three parties with two detachments were engaged on topographical surveys, their operations covering ground in the Bombay Presidency, in Baluchistan, in the Punjab Himalayas, in three districts of Burma, and in the valley of the Lower Indus; the areas topographically surveyed amounted to 10,215 square miles against 9,909 square miles in the previous year. Surveys in two districts of Burma were made on behalf of the Geological Department in connection with the development of mining industries—in Mergui the coal deposits, and in Katha the gold fields— having been explored.

3. The total outturn effected by survey parties working in forests in the Central Provinces, Bombay, Madras, and Lower Burma was 2,170 square miles. The outturns in the Central Provinces and Madras were, in spite of the unhealthy season in the former, more satisfactory than elsewhere, and the Government of India hope to see better progress in other provinces next season. The work done by the Forest Survey Branch is not included in the Surveyor General's notice of forest surveys. Although it is under the general direction of the Inspector General of Forests, it is controlled by officers of the Survey Department, and, unless there is any practical objection to the course, it would be convenient if a review of it were to find a place in future annual reports. The cost rate of the Madras forest surveys has been reduced by 20 per cent. to Rs. 78 square mile, but the rates elsewhere appear from the table of rates on page 96 to have been considerably over Rs. 100, and in Lower Burma amounted to something over Rs. 300 for 4-inch surveys. Nothing appears in the extracts from the Forest Survey reports to justify these higher rates, though in Burma the Government of India are aware that great difficulties have to be encountered. The extracts deal rather with incidental matter than with the financial results, and it would be preferable that in future reviews the causes by which cost rates were affected should be prominently quoted from the reports submitted.

4. The most important operations have, as usual in recent years, been those connected with cadastral survey. As was noticed in last year's report, Colonel Sandeman has in Bengal given much effect to the policy which has been there adopted of amalgamating the Survey with the Settlement Department. The cost rate in Bihar is still above the level which it is hoped will be reached when the subordinates have had further practice and experience. The somewhat extravagant rates in Garhwal, where the survey party had been required to do work in greater detail than was really necessary, have been reduced from the original figure of Rs. 283 to Rs. 167 per square mile, the latter rate being as low as can be expected in a mountainous district. The area covered by all the parties is in the aggregate nearly 10 per cent. larger than that which was cadastrally surveyed last year, and this is satisfactory.

5. One of the most important reforms to which experience in cadastral work has led has been, as noticed last year, the employment of officers of the Junior Division on more responsible work and the expansion of cadastral parties under the supervision of each Senior Division Officer. This double reform has diminished the cost rate of supervision, and has admitted of the reduction of the Senior Division staff. Some set off has been made against the saving by improving the position and pay of the Junior Service as shown in the following table:

Former scale.	Pay.	Present scale.	Pay.
	Rs.		Rs.
50 Extra Assistant Superintendents	300—500	60 Extra Assistant Superintendents	300—550
85 Sub-Assistant Superintendents	120—250	72 Sub-Assistant Superintendents	120—250

The policy adopted is now shown to be justified both by lower cost rates and by more rapid progress. It is expected that the decline in cost rates and the improvement in progress will continue for some time to come, and the Surveyor General is to be congratulated on having introduced this effective reform.

6. The measure which had during the last few years been contemplated of reducing the appointment of one of the two Deputy Surveyors General and of abolishing the Trigonometrical Office at Dehra, when the triangulation of the Empire had been brought nearly to a close, was partially carried out by the end of the year 1893-94. Although the report under review only concerns the preceding year 1892-93, it is desirable to note that the original intention has, with the sanction of the Secretary of State, been so far modified that in place of the Deputy Surveyor General an officer of junior rank has been appointed in charge of the Dehra office, which in view both of the expansion of triangulation operations in Upper Burma and on the North-Western frontier and of the utility of the Dehra office for the forest cartographical work, which could not without inconvenience have been thrown on the already overcrowded Calcutta office, is still to be maintained.

7. A measure which has had much to do with the increase of work in the Calcutta office was carried out towards the close of the year under review, viz., the reorganization of the Photographic and Lithographic office, in which the outturn of the presses and machines have now reached the number of a million pulls, or more than 30 per cent. over the number of the preceding year. The value of the work done was nearly two and a half lakhs of rupees. Colonel Waterhouse, to whom the progress made in this section is greatly due, deserves the thanks of the Government of India for his energetic and able supervision of his special Department.

8. The control of the Revenue and Cadastral Surveys by Colonel Strahan, Deputy Surveyor General, has been zealous and effective, and he has fully carried out the instructions of the Government of India to keep himself in personal communication with the Local Governments of Provinces in which revenue surveys are being conducted. The work of the Department in all branches under the guidance of Colonel Thuillier, C.I.E., R.E., again deserves the commendation of the Governor General in Council.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the above Resolution be forwarded to the Surveyor General, Inspector General of Forests, Local Governments and Administrations noted on the margin, and to the Foreign, Military, and Public Works Departments.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular and European names; habitat or source, history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year, but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

ACCOUNT.

General.

REVIEW OF THE REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE RECORDED UNDER THE HEAD "CIVIL WORKS" IN THE ACCOUNTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA FOR THE OFFICIAL YEAR 1892-93

No. 94 A.—G , dated Simla, the 4th June, 1894.

Read—

Note by R. G. Macdonald, Esq., Accountant General, Public Works Department, upon the Accounts of Revenue and Expenditure, recorded under the head "Civil Works" in the Accounts of the Government of India for 1892-93.

Resolution.—The main points worthy of notice are :—

I.—The improvement in Revenue and the decrease in Expenditure as compared with 1891-92.

II.—The cost and return from buildings occupied as residences, vide paragraph 4.

III.—The relative outlay on civil buildings and communications, vide paragraphs 9, 13, 14, 17, 18, 22 to 26, and 29 to 33.

IV.—The percentages of establishment charges on outlay, vide paragraph 15.

V.—The net charge to the State on account of the Royal Indian Civil Engineering College at Coopers Hill and the Thomason College at Roorkee, vide paragraphs 5 and 11.

2. The figures of Revenue compare as follows with those of 1891-92 :—

	Rx.
1892-93	607,914
1891-92	577,330
Increase	30,584

The increase is due chiefly to larger receipts from sale of 'produce' and 'old materials' and to larger contributions realized in the Civil Department for public works. In the note under review contributions are classed separately, whereas in that for 1891-92, they were included under the head "Miscellaneous." There was also a slight improvement in the profits from the Roorkee workshops.

3. Under the head "Rents of buildings" there was an improvement in the total receipts which amounted to Rx. 45,835. This is considerably in excess of any figure attained during the past five years. The net return from buildings occupied as residences (excluding those allotted rent-free) amounted to 1·64 per cent. against 1·72 in 1891-92 and 1·50 in 1890-91. The small return in 1892-93 is due chiefly to certain buildings having been brought on to the Capital and Revenue Accounts of buildings for the first time, for which the rents assessed were inadequate; it is also partly due to the delay in the revision of rents in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh of buildings which are under-rented.

4. The total expenditure from all sources amounted to Rx. 4,969,615 against Rx. 5,345,968 in 1891-92, so that there has been a decrease of Rx. 376,353 during the year. The figures (exclusive of outlay from Excluded Local funds and Contributions) compare as follows :—

	1891-92.	1892-93.	Difference.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Imperial . .	882,329	773,509	−108,820
Provincial . .	2,461,115	2,162,357	−298,758
Incorporated local	1,651,761	1,714,593	+62,832
Total	4,995,205	4,650,459	—344,746

It is observed that while there has been a considerable decrease both under Imperial and Provincial expenditure, there has been an increase under Local; the net decrease therefore amounts to Rx. 344,746.

5. Of the total outlay by departmental and civil officers during the year under review, much more was expended on new buildings than on new roads, the figures being Rx. 971,710 and Rx. 783,932 respectively against Rx. 1,139,469 and Rx. 902,759 respectively in the previous year. In the matter of repairs Rx. 1,328,493 were spent on communications and Rx. 289,899 on buildings against Rx. 1,333,048 and Rx. 312,719 respectively in 1891-92.

The Government of India, in inviting attention to the remarks in paragraph 5 of Public Works Department Resolution No. 96 A.—G., dated 20th April 1892, and in paragraph 3 of Public Works Department Resolution No. 90 A.—G. of the 3rd June 1893, trust that works of communication, particularly feeder roads to railways, will have the first claim on the annual assignments for expenditure on public works.

6. The percentages of establishment given in paragraph 15 of the Accountant General's note are calculated on the total outlay by departmental officers exclusive of establishment. The ratio which the establishment charges bear to the outlay on works and repairs only for the past five years is given below :—

1888-89	26·30 per cent.
1889-90	26·80 „
1890-91	25·97 „
1891-92	22·44 „
1892-93	27·48 „

The average for the five years ending 1892-93 is 25·68 per cent. The percentage charge is necessarily high owing to the establishment itself being more or less fixed, while the expenditure in 1892-93 was lower.

7. It is observed that the net direct charge to the State in 1892-93 on account of the Royal Indian Engineering College amounted to £480 exclusive of salaries of passed students detained in England and passages of officers on appointment which amounted respectively to £4,537 and £761; the total of these three items amounting to £5,778. On the other hand, the net debit on account of the Thomason College at Roorkee was Rx. 12,614.

The Governments of Madras and Bombay (General), Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab.
The Chief Commissioners of the Central Provinces, Burma, Assam, and Coorg.
The Resident at Hyderabad.
The Agents to the Governor General for Central India, Rajputana, and Baluchistan.
The Superintendent of Port Blair and Chief Commissioner, Andaman and Nicobar Islands.
The Accountant General, Public Works Department.
The Director General of Military Works.

ORDER.—Ordered, that the foregoing, with a copy of the note, be forwarded to the Local Governments, Administrations, and officers noted in the margin for information.

Ordered also, that a copy of the Resolution and note be forwarded to the Finance Department, and that the papers be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

F. L. O'CALLAGHAN,
Secretary to the Government of India.

3. A comparison of the actual revenue derived from "Civil Works" with the Budget and Revised Estimates is given below :—

Year.	Budget Estimate.	Revised Estimate.	Actuals.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
1892-93	564,300	596,600	607,914

The increases of Rx. 43,614 over Budget Estimate and of Rx. 11,314 over Revised Estimate are chiefly due to the receipts from tolls and ferries having been under-estimated and to a further improvement in the profits of the Roorkee workshops.

4. Rents of buildings, Rx. 45,835.—The receipts from this source compare as follows with the realizations in the four preceding years :—

Years.	By Public Works Officers.	By Officers of other Departments	Total.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
1888 89	33,245	3,691	36,936
1889-90	36,875	4,061	40,936
1890-91	37,888	4,028	41,916
1892-93	41,640	4,195	45,835

The net return on capital cost of buildings set apart as residences, excluding those allotted rent-free, is 1·64 per cent. as shown below. This class of outlay is, it will be observed, very unprofitable. A large sum has been expended on rent-free buildings, especially in the provinces of Bengal and Bombay :—

6. Ferry Receipts, Rx. 298,974.—This is the largest source of revenue credited under the head "Civil Works:" the major portion of it, amounting to Rx. 286,069, has been realized by Civil Officers.

The realizations under this head during the last four years are shown in following table :—

Years.	By Public Works Officers.	By Civil Officers.	Total.

The falling off in 1892-93 is due to decreases in some provinces, which were only partly met by increases in others as shown below :—

EXPENDITURE.

7. The Expenditure recorded in the accounts for 1892-93 under the head "Civil Works" amounts to Rx. 4,969,615. Of this sum—

Rx. 3,544,064 was expended by Officers of the Public Works Department ;
„ 1,291,764 by Officers of other Departments ; and „ 133,787 in England, including exchange ; but exclusive of Rx. 3,857, the value of stores supplied to India which are included in the outlay upon the works concerned ; in all.

8. [illegible] compares the actuals of the year (exclusive of outlay from Excluded Local Funds and Contributions) with the Budget and Revised Estimates :—

TOTAL	4,736,300	4,737,200	4,650,459

* Inclusive of Rx. 778 spent by the Public Works Department, Bombay, for the Indo-European Telegraph Department.

Imperial outlay, Rx. 773,509.

The outlay as compared with the Budget Estimate shows a decrease of Rx. 68,491. This sum is made up of an excess outlay of Rx. 7,644 under Expenditure in England, due to fall in exchange, and a lapse of Rx. 76,135 in outlay in India. The decrease in Indian outlay by Departmental Officers aggregating Rx. 70,953 is chiefly due to the transfer of grants from this head to 43—"Minor Works and Navigation" on account of famine relief works in Upper Burma and Rajputana. Compared with the Revised Estimate there has been a lapse of Rx. 31,091, principally due to expenditure in Assam, Bengal, and Bombay having been over-estimated. On works carried out by the agency of Civil Officers there has also been a lapse due to the grant for the construction of the Consulate House at Basra not having been utilized.

Provincial outlay, Rx. 2,162,357.

The lapses on the Budget and Revised Estimates amount to Rx. 36,143 and Rx. 29,143 respectively. There was a decrease in actuals in Bengal under Departmental Officers as compared with Budget Estimate, due to the cost of repairs to certain buildings having been over-estimated and to a decrease in suspense balances for which no provision was made in the Budget Estimate. There has also been a decrease as compared with the Budget Estimate on works carried out by the agency of Civil Officers. This is mainly due to a reduction of grants-in-aid from Provincial funds to Municipalities, town and cantonment funds in Lower Burma, and to smaller payments to Municipalities in Madras towards the construction of drainage and water-supply works. The decrease as compared with the Revised Estimate is mainly due to Lower Burma and Madras having over-estimated their requirements.

	Departmental Officers.	Civil Officers.	TOTAL.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Budget Estimate	2,060,700	137,800	2,198,500
Actuals	2,043,892	118,465	2,162,357

Revised Estimate	2,073,300	118,200	2,191,500
Actuals	2,043,892	118,465	2,162,357
Lapse .	29,408	—265	29,143

Local outlay, Rx. 1,714,593.

The outlay by Departmental Officers exceeds the Budget Estimate by Rx. 26,412, while on that by Civil Officers there has been a lapse of Rx. 7,619. In the former case the increase occurs chiefly in Bombay, Madras, and North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and is due to increased expenditure on roads, famine relief works, and the construction of works not entered in the Budget programme, but undertaken subsequently on proper authority.

The lapse of Rx. 26,507 on the Revised Estimate is due to an over-estimate of capabilities of spending, chiefly in Bombay, Assam, Madras, and the Punjab.

The actual outlay by Departmental and Civil Officers is compared with the Budget and Revised Estimates in the following table.:—

	Departmental Officers.	Civil Officers.	TOTAL.

* The expenditure by Officers of other Departments was not detailed in the accounts by service heads till the year 1890-91.

14. The preceding table shows that during the year under review there has been a considerable decrease in the outlay by Public Works agency on Buildings and some decrease in the outlay upon Communications.

15. The expenditure on Establishment bears the following ratio to the total outlay by Public Works Officers exclusive of Establishment:—

1888-89	26·12 per cent.
1889-90	26·97
1890-91	25·51 „
1891-92	21·83 „
1892-93	26·96 „

The large increase in 1892-93 will be observed.

The provinces showing unfavourable results are:—

18. The outlay under the different heads of service vary considerably in the several Provinces. More than one-fourth, or 26 per cent., of the total outlay by Public Works Officers has been spent on new buildings against 17 per cent. on new roads. The Provinces in which the percentage of new civil buildings is high are Madras, Baluchistan, Upper and Lower Burma. The expenditure by the Military Works Department is almost solely upon churches in cantonments, and in Hyderabad Imperial Civil Works consist of buildings only.

The largest expenditure on new roads has taken place in Assam, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Upper and Lower Burma, Punjab and the Central Provinces.

It is noticeable that in Bengal and Madras a comparatively small proportion of the outlay on the construction and maintenance of roads is incurred through the agency of Public Works Officers, the bulk of the expenditure under these heads being accounted for by Civil Officers. Central India maintains a high percentage for establishment; the percentage is lowest in Rajputana, and is due to additional outlay upon works undertaken for famine relief.

The major portion of the outlay by Civil Officers was upon maintenance of roads and was incurred in Madras, Bengal, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and Bombay, and it will be observed that repairs to roads have taken up 45 per cent. of the total outlay. Of the remainder 18 per cent. was expended on new roads.

19. The Imperial outlay was incurred in the under-noted Provinces upon the objects detailed :—

20. In Upper Burma the large outlay of Rx. 261,454 is due to the opening out of the Province generally and to some extent to the commencement of new roads undertaken in the interests of labourers seeking relief on account of scarcity. The other provinces showing heavy outlay are Baluchistan and Assam. The principal works on which outlay was incurred were—

In Rajputana—

Road—Bhim-Barakhan Sojat.

In Coorg—

Road from Veerajapett to Periyapatam, Bangalore-Mangalore road.

Bridge across the causeway at Siddapur, Bangalore-Mangalore road.

In Baluchistan—

Buildings—New block of Public Offices, Quetta.
Revenue Commissioner's Office, Quetta.
New Post Office, Quetta.
New Residency, Quetta.
Purchase of North-Western Railway building No. 8 at Shelabagh.
Zhob Levy Corps buildings, Fort Sandeman.
Levy Posts, Zhob Division.
Tehsil and Thannah at Musakhel.

Roads—Hindu Bagh-Fort Sandeman.
Mir Ali Khel-Khajuri Kach Section of the Murga-Gomal Road.
Survey of Chor Khel Dhana Road.

Miscellaneous Public Improvements—Fort Sandeman Water-supply.

In Upper Burma—

Buildings—Jails at Katha, Bhamo, Minbu, Kindat, and Yamèthin.

Roads—Myingyan-Fort Stedman, Yeu to Kinu Railway Station, Ye-u-Chindwin, Thabeitkyin-Mogok.

In Lower Burma—

Light-house at Oyster Island.

In Assam—

Hill Cart Road from Nichuguard to Manipur.

In Punjab—

Roads—Dera Ghazi Khan-Loralai.
North-West Frontier Road (Dera Ismail Khan to Khusalgarh).

The outlay incurred to the end of 1892-93 on the construction of the North-West Frontier Road from Dera Ismail Khan to Khusalgarh is as follows :—

	Estimate.	Outlay.	Excess.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Works	316,795	312,028	...
Establishment	65,897	67,659	1,762
Tools and Plant	12 600	9,250
TOTAL	395,292	388,937

In addition to this there has been an outlay of Rx. 3,684 on this work against an estimate of Rx. 2,595 which has been debited to 44—Military Works.

The largest outlay on repairs of buildings is in Bengal and is due to the residences of the Viceroy and the location of the Opium and other Imperial Departments.

Nearly half of the total outlay on the upkeep of roads has been incurred in Upper Burma: Central India, Coorg, Baluchistan, and Rajputana absorb most of the remainder.

21. The Provincial outlay was incurred in the under-noted Provinces upon the objects specified below:—

23. The outlay by Officers of the Public Works Department has been expended in the following proportions :—

24. Attention is invited to the outlay by Public Works Officers of Rx. 622,042 on new buildings, as compared with Rx. 226,155 on new roads.

25. The variations in the percentages are very marked, as will be seen from the table in para. 22. In Madras the outlay on new buildings is 47 per cent. against 11 per cent. on new roads, and in Lower Burma 38 per cent. on new buildings against 9 per cent. on roads. Punjab, Bombay, and Bengal also show considerably larger outlay on new buildings than on new roads.

The outlay by Officers of other Departments is comparatively small: this agency is chiefly made use of in Madras, Lower Burma, Bengal, and in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

In Lower Burma the whole outlay appears under Miscellaneous, which means that it is unclassified; 13 per cent. of the total outlay in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh is devoted to works of Miscellaneous Public Improvement and 27 per cent. to repairs of works of the same class; repairs to buildings and roads absorb 18 per cent. and 9 per cent., respectively.

In Bengal 31 per cent. of the entire outlay has been spent upon new works of Miscellaneous Public Improvements, and 24 per cent. on each of the heads—repairs to roads and establishment.

In Madras, 69 per cent. of the total outlay has been spent upon works of Miscellaneous Public Improvement, 19 per cent. on new buildings, and 7 per cent. on up-keep of roads.

26. Repairs of Buildings and Roads have taken up the under-noted percentages of the total outlay :—

REVIEW OF THE REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE OF THE RAILWAY BRANCH OF THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT FOR 1892-93.

No. 395 A.-R., dated Simla, 5th June, 1894.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department.

READ—

Note by R. G. Macdonald, Esq., Accountant General, Public Works Department, on the Capital and Revenue Accounts of Railways in India for 1892-93, No. 331 R., dated 17th April, 1894.

RESOLUTION.—The note by the Accountant General, copy of which is appended, brings out clearly the transactions of the Public Works Department with regard to railways during the year 1892-93, and shows the financial results to the State of the working of State and Guaranteed railways.

2. It will be seen from paragraph 7 of the note that the Revenue Account for the year resulted in a loss to the State of Rx. 1,847,052, as compared with a loss of Rx. 315,864 in the preceding year. This result is to a small extent due to less favourable traffic during the year, but the greater part of the loss is directly attributable to the low rate of exchange which obtained.

3. The revenues of India were liable during the year to a total sterling charge for interest and annuities of £5,723,490, or in Indian currency at the exchange which prevailed of Rx. 9,166,886.

4. The net receipts accruing to Government from State lines gave a return of 5·63 per cent. on the total Capital outlay at the close of the year. The Capital outlay, however, includes the outlay on lines under construction or abandoned, and the outlay on lines which have been constructed for defensive purposes, which do not pay their working expenses. It also includes a sterling outlay of £33,553,451 on account of debt created in the purchase of railways which were constructed by companies (since reduced by a sinking fund to £32,788,403), but it excludes the portion undischarged at the end of 1892-93 of the liabilities of Government in connection with the purchase of the undermentioned lines, which are being extinguished by annuities charged upon the Revenue Account to the extent shown below—

East Indian railway	24,576,530
Eastern Bengal railway	2,781,402
North Western railway	8,912,402
TOTAL	36,270,334

To obtain a fair estimate of the return from railways on the Capital expended on them, it is necessary to include in the Capital the rupee equivalent of these amounts, applying the average rate of exchange of the year under review, and to exclude the outlay on lines under construction or abandoned, as well as the outlay on defensive lines.

this method of calculation the Capital outlay at the end of 1892-93 will be as follows :—

		Rx.
On State lines—Direct Capital outlay		76,649,282
On State lines leased to Companies		29,456,741
		106,106,023
Add—Rupee equivalent of £32,788,403		52,514,737
Add—Rupee equivalent of £36,270,834		58,091,486
		216,712,246
Deduct—Outlay on lines under construction or abandoned	Rx. 7,942,095
Deduct—Outlay on construction of defensive lines not included in sum above deducted .	12,628,708
		20,570,803

and the return to Government becomes 4·01 per cent.

5. The railways treated as defensive and the outlay incurred on them are as follows :—

		Rx.
Open lines—
Pishin Section of the North Western railway, comprising the line from Ruk to Chaman and from Sibi to Bostan viâ Bolan and Quetta		8,710,596
Sind-Sagar, Khusalgarh, and Mianwali Mari branches, North Western railway .		3,426,159
Gradient improvements, North Western railway		491,953
	TOTAL	12,628,708
Lines under construction and stores in reserve—
Mushkaf-Bolan railway . . .		451,183
Mari-Attock ,, . . .		299,011
Frontier railway reserve material .		421,948
Peshawar Railway Reserve . .		36,776
	TOTAL	1,208,918
	GRAND TOTAL	13,837,626

6. The working of Guaranteed railways during the year resulted in a loss to the State of Rx. 776,146. The Great Indian Peninsula and Madras railways were worked at a loss of Rx. 377,138 and Rx. 400,727 respectively, while the Bombay, Baroda and Central India railway gave a profit of Rx. 1,719.

7. The net amount of guaranteed interest advanced by the State to the 31st March, 1893, on account of the three Guaranteed railways, after taking as a set off the aggregate of the net revenue balances for the several half-years to the 31st December, 1892, is £13,624,307.

The Governments of Madras and Bombay (Railway), Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab.
The Chief Commissioners of the Central Provinces, Burma, and Assam.
The Resident at Hyderabad.
The Agents to the Governor General for Central India, Rajputana, and Baluchistan.

8. From the foregoing statement it will be seen that after meeting all charges for annuities and interest (including interest on capital expended on lines not opened for traffic), charges for land for Companies' lines and miscellaneous expenditure on surveys, etc., the result for the year is a net charge to the State of Rx. 1,847,052. The traffic, although not so favourable as in the preceding year, was considerably in excess of that of previous years, and the loss now brought out may be directly attributed to the unfavourable rate of exchange which obtained during the year. The interest and annuities paid in England amounted to £5,723,490 which, at the exchange of 1*s*. 2·98477785*d*. the rupee, aggregated Rx. 9,166,886, the difference between this and the old par of exchange being no less than Rx. 3,443,396.

* These annuities are terminable between the years 1953 and 1958.

SECTION A.

Total

These figures give a total open mileage of 13,475½, but from this should be deducted the length of the Mysore-Nanjangod section of the Mysore Railway (15 miles) which was transferred to the Mysore Durbar during the year. Allowing for this deduction and for corrections in mileages, the mileage open at end of the year 1892-98 was 13,461§ miles. The mileage of railways classed respectively as Imperial and Provincial was as under :—

	Miles.
Imperial	12,807¼‖
Provincial	653¾

profits and contributions to Provident Funds paid to Companies to Rx. 382,024, raising the total charges to Rx. 7,944,868, and leaving Rx. 7,869,939 as the net receipts accruing to Government from all the State lines during 1892-93. This result is worse than that of 1891-92 by Rx. 327,515 owing to a decrease in the wheat and seeds traffic.

12. The Capital expenditure incurred by, or on the direct responsibility of, the State, including the Capital charge involved by incurring a specific amount of debt in purchase or redemption of liabilities in connection with lines formerly belonging to Guaranteed Companies and acquired by the State is as under:—

		Rx.
(i) On State lines—
(a) Direct Capital outlay . .	Rx. 76,649,282
(b) Redemption of liabilities .	£33,553,451
		110,202,733
(ii) On State lines leased to Companies (Capital raised wholly or in part, by Companies under guarantee)		29,456,741*
	TOTAL	139,659,474

13. This sum, however, includes expenditure on lines not opened for traffic at the close of the year under review, on materials held in reserve on the North-West Frontier and with storekeepers at ports, on projects abandoned or in abeyance, and inefficient expenditure incurred in connection with lines transferred to Companies, aggregating Rx. 7,942,095 (vide Schedule H). Excluding such expenditure, the open line Capital outlay at the close of 1892-93 may be stated at Rx. 131,717,379 (vide Schedule A).

14. The net receipts accruing to Government for the year, Rx. 7,869,939, give a return on the total Capital outlay at the close of the year at the rate of 5·63 per cent. and on the open line Capital outlay at the rate of 5·97 per cent.

15. The above results, although representing correctly the return on the Capital outlay actually incurred by the State, cannot be taken as giving the true returns from the State Railways on the actual money expended upon the various undertakings. The old Guaranteed Railways, which have been purchased by the State, were for the most part acquired by the payment of annuities, including the establishment of sinking funds, which will redeem the capital at the expiry of the period for which the annuities are to run. These charges are met from current revenues, and in respect of the capital thus to be redeemed, no charge appears in the Government account of Capital outlay. On the other hand, when a line was purchased outright, as in the case of the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway, the outlay as shown in the Government books includes the premium paid on the Company's share Capital. The actual outlay incurred on the State Railways—taking in the case of the Guaranteed Railways purchased by Government, the amounts expended by the several Companies plus the expenditure since incurred on construction—may† be stated at Rx. 169,658,551,‡ and on open lines at

* Excludes the outlay on the Bengal and North-Western Railway not guaranteed by the State.

† Sterling figures in the old Companies' accounts were converted at fixed contract rates. The difference between contract and actual average rates cannot be stated.

16. The receipts and charges, the Capital outlay, and the return per cent. on Capital outlay, of each line, will be found in the statement attached to this review as Schedule A. The following is a general summary:—

	Receipts.	Expenditure.	Net Receipts.	Percentage of working expenses on Receipts.		Capital outlay to 31st March 1893.	Percentage of net receipts on Capital outlay to 31st March 1893.

TOTAL .	15,814,807	7,944,868	7,869,939	50·23	46·74	131,717,379	5·97

17. It will be seen from the above that the railways classed as Imperial yielded a return of 5·96 per cent. on the Capital outlay as recorded in the Government accounts, while those classed as Provincial yielded a return of 6·18 per cent.

18. The net receipts from the following Railways exceeded the interest charges for the year:—

Railway.	Net Receipts (less surplus profits and net earnings paid to Companies).	Interest and annuities, etc.	Surplus to State.

19. The North Western Railway gave a return of 1·78 per cent. on the actual outlay incurred on the line, although the Capital Account is burdened with the very heavy expenditure incurred, amounting to over Rx. 12,100,000, on the Frontier Sections. These sections did not cover their working expenses during the year. Owing to this cause and to the heavy loss by exchange on the sterling payments of interest and annuities, the net receipts fell short of interest and annuity charges by Rx. 1,370,963.

20. The financial results to the State of the working of the Companies' lines classed as State Railways are shown more fully in Schedule I.

Comparison with Actuals during 1891-92 and Budget and Revised Estimates.

21. The actual gross receipts and working expenses of State Railways for the year 1892-93 compare with the actuals of 1891-92, and with the Budget and Revised Estimates as under:—

	Actuals, 1892-93.	Revised Estimate.		Budget Estimate.		Actuals, 1891-92.
		Estimate.	Actuals, more or less.	Estimate.	Actuals, more or less.

Net receipts .	7,869,939	7,977,000	—107,061	7,665,050	+204,889	8,197,454

Receipts.

22. With Actuals.—The receipts are less than the actuals of the previous year by Rx. 597,127, due chiefly to a decrease in wheat and seeds traffic, which was exceptionally heavy during 1891-92.

On the East Indian Railway the coaching traffic maintained the high figure reached in the previous year, while the goods traffic was less by Rx. 45,000. An adjustment on account of arrear coal charges to the extent of nearly six lakhs of rupees swelled the receipts for 1891-92, and but for this there would have been an increase in 1892-93 in the receipts from the goods traffic over those of the previous year. This is attributable to a large grain and rice traffic in April and May 1892.

On the Eastern Bengal Railway there is a small increase due to a better jute traffic.

On the Rajputana-Malwa Railway the traffic in cotton, grains (other than wheat) and seeds continued brisk throughout the year. Owing to this and to the provisional adjustment of a long pending claim against the East Indian and Indian Midland Railways for their proportion of interest charges on joint works and station expenses at Agra, the receipts are more than those of the previous year. The wheat traffic on this line shows a decrease of Rx. 133,800; and there is a falling-off in the coaching traffic, which is explained by the fact that in 1891-92 the pilgrim traffic to and from Hardwar, Muttra and Soron was abnormal.

On the North Western Railway the falling-off amounts to the large sum of Rx. 739,100. The decrease in the wheat traffic alone was Rx. 520,000, and the passenger traffic was also considerably less; the fairs at Hardwar and the movement of troops in connection with frontier expeditions considerably increased the receipts in 1891-92. Heavy breaches on the line during the monsoon of 1892 also interrupted the flow of traffic.

On the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway there was a decrease in passenger traffic owing to the traffic in the previous year having been unusually large in consequence of the fairs held at Hardwar.

On the Bengal-Nagpur Railway goods traffic shows a falling-off, attributable mainly to the failure of the wheat crop.

On the Indian Midland Railway, both passenger and goods traffic show an improvement.

The earnings on the other lines are generally better than in the previous year, owing to the development of traffic and to the opening of small additional sections of railway.

The increase on the Umaria Colliery is due to a larger output of coal.

23. With Budget.—The actuals are more than the Budget Estimate by Rx. 270,907. On the East Indian and Rajputana-Malwa Railways the actuals have largely exceeded the Budget Estimate in consequence of the traffic continuing to be as favourable as in 1891-92, a result which was not expected when the estimates were framed.

The increase on the Rajputana-Malwa Railway was also partly caused by the provisional adjustment referred to in the preceding paragraph.

The traffic on the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway has proved better than the estimate.

On the North Western Railway there is a large decrease owing to the causes mentioned in the preceding paragraph, as well as to large outstandings at the close of the year caused by heavy freight charges due by the Commissariat Department not having been realised until after the close of the year.

Traffic on the Bengal-Nagpur Railway was not as favourable as anticipated owing to the failure of the wheat crop.

The receipts of the Southern Mahratta Railway were also over-estimated. The decrease is attributable to a falling-off in the export traffic owing to a deficient rainfall.

The increase on the Bengal and North-Western and Tirhoot Railway is attributed to a better harvest than was anticipated.

24. With Revised.—The actuals compare favourably with the Revised Estimate; the actual receipts approximating closely to the figure in the Revised Estimate.

Working Expenses.

25. With Actuals.—The decrease in working expenses, compared with the actuals of the previous year, is due to the smaller traffic worked, to less renewals of permanent way and repairs of rolling stock, and to smaller payments of surplus profits and share of net earnings to Companies. No payment was made during the official year to the Bombay, Baroda and Central India, or to the Southern Mahratta Railway Companies for $\frac{9}{10}$ths of their share for the second-half of 1892.

The payments to the East Indian Railway Company were also less, due chiefly to a fall in exchange.

26. With Budget.—The excess over the Budget Estimate is chiefly due to larger payments of surplus profits to Companies owing to the receipts from the East Indian and Rajputana-Malwa Railways having been better than was expected.

The excess on the Bengal and North-Western and Tirhoot Railway is due to the larger traffic worked, to heavier Home charges, and to a larger payment to the Company on account of share of net earnings, consequent on the increased traffic.

On the North Western Railway there was a decrease in consequence of the late arrival from England of permanent-way materials and girders for renewals; and on the Southern Mahratta the decrease is due to the smaller traffic worked, and to a less amount being payable to the Company as its share of net earnings.

27. With Revised.—The excess over the Revised Estimate is due to an anticipated lapse not having been realised, to the adjustment of arrear freight charges for fuel, to a debit on account of depreciation on the Bengal Central Railway rolling-stock, and to larger expenditure towards the close of the year in consequence of increased traffic on some of the lines, and to an enhanced rate of charges being credited to the Warora Colliery sinking fund.

The expenditure on the Rajputana-Malwa Railway and the Southern Mahratta and Mysore Railways is smaller owing to the payment of 90 per cent. of the surplus profits and the Company's share of net earnings not having been made during the year.

28. From the statements which accompany this note it will be noticed that a sum of Rx. 1,321 has been shewn as working expenses against the Bilaspur-Etawah State Railway. This amount represents certain arrear charges claimed by the East Indian Railway Company for the joint use of works at Katni Junction during the years 1886, 1887 and 1888. The re-opening of this account was specially ordered by the Government of India.

(ii)—Interest and Annuities.

29. The charges for interest and annuities on account of State Railways for 1892-93 amounted to Rx. 8,911,139, as under:—

30. The interest charged in India on debt incurred for direct outlay by the State, with the exception of a loan of Rx. 1,000,000 from His Highness the Maharaja Holkar for the Holkar State Railway, which bears 4½, is charged at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum. The interest is calculated at the full percentage on outlay to the end of the previous year and at 2 per cent. on outlay during the year in which incurred.

31. The debt taken over, or incurred in connection with lines acquired, by the State from Companies relates to the East Indian, Eastern Bengal, Sind, Punjab and Delhi (incorporated in the North Western Railway), Oudh and Rohilkhand and South Indian Railways, and consists of debentures and debenture stocks of the Companies, of which the State assumed the direct liability on the transfer; of India stock issued in purchase of the Oudh and Rohilkhand and South Indian Railways; and of stock issued from time to time in redemption of portions of annuities or of debentures and debenture stocks, which are bought up as opportunity offers.

The debentures discharged up to date are as under:—

	Rx.
East Indian Railway, £2,950,000 or expressed in Rx., converted at the contract rates for the years in which discharged	3,546,684
Eastern Bengal Railway, £612,350, or expressed in Rx., converted at the average rates for the years in which discharged	815,670 and interest is calculated at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum on these sums as in the case of direct outlay by the State.

The details of the interest charges and the charge on account of each line are as follows :—

32. The East Indian, the Eastern Bengal and the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railways were purchased by annuities: the East Indian Railway annuity, terminating in 1953, at the rate of £5-12-6 for every £100 stock of the Company, the Eastern Bengal, terminating in 1957, at £6-3-4·79 per £100 stock, and the Sind, Punjab and Delhi, terminating in 1958, at the rate of £5-3-3·141 per £100 stock. In the case of the East Indian Railway a portion of the annuity equivalent to one-fifth of the commuted value of the capital stock, or £6,550,000, has been deferred, and on this interest at 4 per cent. is guaranteed. The holders of this portion of the stock participate in the surplus profits.

The charges in respect of each line were as follows :—

33. The charges under "Interest on capital deposited by Companies" and "Interest chargeable against Companies on advances" relate to the newer Companies, the lines undertaken by which are classed as State Railways. The share capital and debentures raised by the Companies are guaranteed by the Secretary of State, and the interest on the Companies' share and debenture capital appears under the heading "Interest on capital deposited by Companies." During later years, the funds required for additional capital works have been provided by advances made to the Companies from funds raised by the Secretary of State under the provisions of Act 51, Vict., Cap. 5. The charges for interest on these advances appear under the heading "Interest chargeable against Companies on advances."

34. The charges incurred in connection with each line are given in the following table:—

35. The charge in India against the Bengal-Nagpur Railway represents interest on capital expended by Government on the Katni-Umaria State Railway, which was subsequently taken over by the Bengal-Nagpur Railway Company as a part of its undertaking. This expenditure has not been refunded by the Company, but the State ranks as a shareholder to the extent of the capital contributed by it. Interest on money raised by the Rohilkhand and Kumaon Company for expenditure on the Lucknow-Bareilly Railway—though a sterling capital—is paid in India.

SECTION B.

Guaranteed Railways.

36. This section deals with (i) the revenue transactions of the Great Indian Peninsula, the Bombay, Baroda and Central India, and the Madras Railways; and (ii) the charges incurred by the State in the payment of surplus profits and contributions to Provident Funds; on land, which, under the several contracts, is supplied free of charge to the companies; on Government controlling establishments; and on interest on capital. The Government controlling establishments also exercise, in some instances, supervision over State lines leased to companies, and perform certain duties in connection with State Railways, but the entire cost is included under this head. Recoveries are, however, made from State lines leased to companies on account of Government supervision, and the amount of such recoveries is credited to this head.

I.—Revenue Transactions.

XXVII.—Net Traffic Receipts.

37. At the close of the year under review, the open mileage of the Guaranteed Railways was as follows*:—

*Administration Report on the Railways in India for 1892-93, Part I, Appendix C.

38. The net receipts of the Guaranteed Railways during 1892-93 amounted to Rx. 3,244,413. The transactions of each Railway for the year were as follows:—

	Great Indian Peninsula.	Bombay, Baroda and Central India.	Madras.

39. Taking the Capital expenditure as stated in rupees in the Indian Accounts (in which sterling figures have been converted at the fixed contract rates of 1s. 10d, the rupee) the return per cent. on Capital outlay incurred to the end of the year was as under:—

	Capital outlay to 31st March 1893.	Net Receipts, 1892-93.	Percentage on Capital outlay.
	Rx.	Rx.
Great Indian Peninsula	27,749,599	1,936,286	6·98
Bombay, Baroda and Central India	9,565,169	855,810	8·95
Madras	12,002,405	452,317	3·77

40. The traffic on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway in 1892-93 showed a considerable falling-off from that of 1891-92 which had been exceptionally heavy.

There was a small increase in Coaching traffic, owing principally to increased movement of troops, while under Goods traffic the decrease was very large owing to the slackness of trade in Bombay with Europe. The demand for wheat for export was much below that of the previous year, the linseed crops in the Central Provinces failed more or less and the smaller movement of food-grains to Southern India, in which part of the country there was a scarcity in the previous year, accounts together for the greater part of the falling-off.

The working expenses of the year were also relatively higher than in 1891-92 owing to new crossing stations, and to extensions at Wari Bunder and Poona having been rendered necessary and to larger staff having been employed to obviate overpressure such as occurred in the previous year.

41. On the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway the results were better than in 1891-92, owing to a rise in the 3rd class passenger traffic, increased traffic in cotton and oilseeds, and in coal and railway materials. This increase was, however, partly counterbalanced by a falling-off in wheat traffic. The working expenses were also lower than in 1891-92, owing to there having been less renewals of permanent way and smaller expenditure on repairs of flood damages.

42. On the Madras Railway, the earnings during 1891-92 had been abnormally low, owing to the prevalence of scarcity and attendant sickness in that part of the country: the traffic recovered to some extent in 1892-93, and reached the normal condition. The working expenses were lower than in 1891-92, owing to less outlay on renewals of locomotives, and smaller expenditure on fuel and repairs of vehicles.

Comparison with Actuals of 1891-92 and the Budget and Revised Estimates.

43. A statement, attached to this review as Schedule B, compares in detail the transactions of the year with the Revised and Budget Estimates and the actuals of 1891-92. The following is a summary of the net results:—

Railway.	Net Receipts.	Revised Estimate.		Budget Estimate.		Net Receipts.
	Actuals, 1892-93.	Estimate.	Actuals, more + or less —.	Estimate.	Actuals, more + or less —.	Actuals, 1891-92.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Great Indian Peninsula	1,936,286	1,980,000	—43,714	2,060,000	—123,714	2,272,863
Bombay, Baroda and Central India	855,810	845,000	+10,810	780,000	+75,810	822,344
Madras	452,317	435,000	+17,317	420,000	+32,317	397,911
Total	3,244,413	3,260,000	—15,587	3,260,000	—15,587	3,493,118

44. The decrease in the actuals as compared with those of 1891-92 was entirely due to the fall in the traffic on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway.

45. The difference between the actuals and the Budget and Revised Estimates is comparatively small, and is due chiefly to the transactions on account of rent of leased lines and certain cash receipts for 1891-92 having been adjusted in 1892-93.

II.—Surplus Profits, etc., Land, Supervision and Interest.

Surplus Profits and Contribution to Provident Funds.

46. Under the contracts with the Guaranteed Railway Companies, a moiety of the excess of net earnings over interest charges for each half-year ending 30th June and 31st December, taken separately, is paid to the Companies; but in calculating the total surplus for division the Secretary of State is able, under the contracts, to place against the net earnings stated in rupees, one rupee only for every 1*s.* 10*d.* of guaranteed interest which he has paid. The share falling to the Companies is, therefore, much in excess of a true moiety of the actual surplus after meeting the sum which the Secretary of State actually pays as interest charges. In any half-year during which the net earnings fall short of the interest charges, the deficiency is borne wholly by Government.

47. A contribution from net earnings is made in aid of Provident Funds established on the Great Indian Peninsula and Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railways for the benefit of the Companies' employés, when the return of net earnings on capital exceeds 6 per cent. per annum on the Bombay, Baroda and Central India, and 3 per cent. half-yearly on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway. A Provident Fund was established during 1891-92 on the Madras Railway, but on a different basis, the contribution forming a charge to working expenses.

48. The payments to the Companies during the year 1892-93 on account of Surplus Profits and Contributions to Provident Funds were as follows:—

	Surplus profits	Contribution to Provident Funds	Total.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Great Indian Peninsula	381,104	14,132	395,236
Bombay, Baroda and Central India	178,380	8,308	186,688
Total	559,484	22,440	581,924

Land.

49. The charges for land for Guaranteed Railways during the year were comparatively small. They were as follows:—

		Rx.
Great Indian Peninsula		702
Bombay, Baroda and Central India
Madras	858
Less—Sale-proceeds of land relinquished by the Madras Railway	230
		628

Supervision.

50. The charges falling under this head represent the cost of the establishments of the Consulting Engineers and Government Examiners employed on the supervision, audit and control of the transactions of Companies' lines, and a moiety of the cost of the office of the Director General of Railways. The amounts recovered from Railway Companies are credited to this head. The charges during the year under review were as follows:—

	Control. Rx.	Audit. Rx.
Bombay	12,514	10,203
Madras	7,779	5,023
Calcutta	7,618	3,292

	61,165	26,457
TOTAL	87,622

51. The contributions for Government supervision, audit and control, recovered from the several Railway Companies were as follows:—

	Rx.
East Indian Railway	10,000
Rajputana-Malwa System	13,375
Bengal and North-Western and Tirhoot	3,020
Bengal-Nagpur	6,890

TOTAL	63,510
Deduct—Amount credited to the North Western Railway on account of rent of buildings, etc., used jointly with the Delhi-Umballa-Kalka Railway	3,979
NET	59,531

52. The contribution payable by the East Indian Railway has been fixed under the contract at Rs. 50,000 half-yearly. With the exception of the Bengal and North-Western and the Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railways, the contributions paid by other Railway Companies are calculated in accordance with the terms of the several contracts at the rate of Rs. 40 per half-year per mile of line constructed or under construction. The contributions by the Bengal and North-Western and Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railways are, under their contracts, calculated at the rate of Rs. 20 per mile half-yearly.

53. No contribution is made by the old Guaranteed Railways towards the cost of Government audit and control.

Interest.

54. The charges for Interest during the year 1892-93 were as under:—

	On Capital held in England.		On Capital held in India.	On over-drawals on Capital Account.	Total.
	Amount. £	Equivalent. Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Great Indian Peninsula	1,196,289	1,916,007	2,181	...	1,918,188

TOTAL	2,145,297	3,435,962	2,466	207	3,438,635

The above figures represent the interest paid during the year, and not the liability for interest for the year 1892-93. Additional Capital to the extent of £359,600 was raised during the year under review, the bulk of it in January 1893, and consequently the liability for interest for the year 1892-93 would be somewhat higher than the actual payments. The interest on overdrawn Capital represents interest charged by Government at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum on advances to the Madras Railway Company on Capital Account.

Comparison with Actuals of 1891-92 and the Budget and Revised Estimates.

55. In the statement attached to this review as Schedule C, a comparison in detail will be found of the actual charges for Surplus Profits, etc., Land and Supervision, and Interest, with the Revised and Budget Estimates and with the Actuals of 1891-92, of which the following is a summary :—

	Actuals, 1892-93.	Revised Estimate.		Budget Estimate.		Actuals, 1891-92.
		Estimate.	Actuals, more + or less —.	Estimate.	Actuals, more + or less —.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Surplus Profits, etc.	581,924	582,100	—176	550,500	+31,424	737,659
Land and Supervision . .	29,423	29,900	—477	49,500	—20,077	19,257
Interest . .	3,438,635	3,435,300	+3,335	3,256,300	+182,335	3,069,430
TOTAL	4,049,982	4,047,300	+2,682	3,856,300	+193,682	3,826,346

The decrease in surplus profits as compared with the actuals of the previous year is due to the traffic on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway not being so good as in 1891-92. The increase over the Budget Estimate is due to the companies' share of profits having been more than was anticipated, owing to an improvement in net carnings.

The increase in Land and Supervision over the actuals of the previous year is due principally to the addition of the cost of the Technical Section of the Government of India Public Works Department Secretariat, and of the newly established offices of Consulting Engineer and Government Examiner of Accounts, Assam-Bengal Railway. The lapse on the Budget Estimate is due to the fact that as no decision regarding the proposed additional land for the extension of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway goods yard at Wari Bander had been arrived at no payment was made.

The increase in the interest charges over the actuals of 1891-92, and the Budget Estimate is due chiefly to the fall in the rate of exchange.

Effect on State Revenues.

56. The following table shows the direct results to the State of the working of the Guaranteed Railways for the year :—

	Net Traffic Receipts	Charges.				Gain or loss (+ or —).
		Interest	Surplus profits.	Contribution to Provident Funds.	Total.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx
Great Indian Peninsula . .	1,936,286	1,918,188	381,104	14,132	2,313,424	—377,138
Bombay, Baroda and Central India .	855,810	667,403	178,380	8,308	854,091	+1,719
Madras	452,317	853,044	—	—	853,044	—400,727
TOTAL .	3,244,413	3,438,635	559,484	22,440	4,020,559	—776,146

57. In addition to the above, the cost of land provided at the expense of the State and a proportionate share of the cost of the Government controlling establishments has to be taken into consideration, in order to arrive at the real financial results to the State of the connection with Guaranteed Railways. The above table, however, shows prominently the effects of the provision in the contracts under which surplus profits are declared half-yearly, and the sterling interest is converted for the purpose of this division at the fixed contract rate of 1*s*. 10*d*. (vide para. 39). Thus the Great Indian Peninsula Railway received as surplus profits during the year the sum of Rx. 381,104, while Government, although nominally entitled to share equally with the Company, sustained a loss of Rx. 377,188. During the second-half of 1892 the net earnings fell short of the guaranteed interest and Government had to make good the deficiency and to bear also the loss by exchange on interest paid in England. The Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway Company received Rx. 178,380 as surplus profits, while the actual surplus accruing to the State was only Rx. 1,719.

58. In the following statement the results to the State of the working of these railways for the last five years are exhibited :—

For the purposes of this statement, the net revenue and the guaranteed interest paid in India are converted at the contract rates of exchange. The amounts shown as guaranteed interest paid in England represent true sterling :—

SECTION C.

SUBSIDIZED COMPANIES.

(Major Heads XXVIII and 40.)

60. The transactions in connection with subsidized railways which in the Government accounts appear under the heading Subsidized Companies represent—

Under Revenue, Head XXVIII.—Repayments of advances of interest

Under Expenditure, Head 40.—Cost of land supplied free, subsidies, and advances of interest.

(i) Repayments of advances of Interest.

61. The amounts credited as Revenue under this head comprise repayments on account of advances of interest by the Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railway Company and by the Mysore Durbar on account of the Mysore Railway to Government.

62. In the case of the Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railway, the State advanced interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum on the Company's share capital while the line was under construction. In consideration of this payment the State is entitled, under the terms of the contract, to a moiety of any surplus earnings, after meeting working expenses, interest on borrowed capital, if any, and a sum sufficient to pay a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum on the Company's share capital, until such time as the interest advanced by the Secretary of State, together with interest thereon at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, shall have been repaid. The following is a summary of the advances and repayments of interest to the close of 1892-93 :—

TOTAL	13,085	2,493	151

63. The payment by the Mysore Durbar on account of the Mysore State Railway represents the net charge for interest paid by Government to the Southern Mahratta Railway Company in connection with the Mysore Railway. The Secretary of State, acting on behalf of the Mysore State, has guaranteed the interest on the capital raised by the Southern Mahratta Railway Company for the construction of the Mysore Railway and the Durbar makes good the excess of interest over net revenue, and will receive any excess of net revenue over interest charges. The receipts and working expenses and interest charges of the Mysore Railway are recorded in the Government accounts under their respective Railway heads, and the net charge for interest only (i.e., interest on capital expended minus net receipts), which is recoverable from the Mysore Durbar, is credited under this head.

* Interest (£295) realised from investment of funds deposited by the Company for a fixed period taken in reduction of advances of interest.

64. The amount recovered from the Mysore Durbar during 1892-93 was Rx. 17,883, arrived at as under:—

		Rx.
Interest on capital	.	76,878
Less—Charge borne by Government for interest on the unexpended balance of the capital retained in their hands	.	6,582

(ii) Land, Subsidies and Advances of Interest.

65. The charges for land, subsidies and advances of interest are borne partly by Imperial and partly by Provincial Revenues. The items falling on the Imperial Government are charges for land, provided free of cost under the terms of the contracts, in connection with the Bengal and North-Western, Delhi-Umballa-Kalka and Nilgiri Railways. The Nilgiri Railway is also entitled, under the terms of its contract, to interest at 3 per cent. on its capital deposited in a Government treasury for three years, or until the line is opened throughout for traffic, if earlier.

66. The charges debited to Imperial Funds during 1892-93 on account of subsidized railways were—

			Rx
Bengal and North-Western Railway	(Land charges)	.	3,90
Delhi-Umballa-Kalka Railway	(„)	.	12
Nilgiri Railway	(„)	.	6,40
Ditto	(Interest)	.	1,95
		TOTAL .	12,38

67. The charges borne by the Provincial Governments in connection with subsidized railways are—

Assam.—An annual subsidy, payable to the Assam Railways and Trading Company, Limited, on account of the Dibru-Sadiya Railway, of such amount—subject to a maximum of Rs. 1,00,000—as, together with the net earnings of the Railway, shall be sufficient to yield a return of 5 per cent. per annum on capital outlay; and a share of the pay and allowances of the Examiner of Public Works Accounts, Assam.

Bengal.—Charges for land which, under the terms of the contracts, has to be provided free of cost to the Tarkessur, Dooars, and Deoghur Railways.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—An annual subsidy of Rs 40,000 payable to the Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railway Company up to 31st December 1894, and charges for land in connection with that Railway.

68. The amounts debited against Provincial Revenues during 1892-93 were—

		Rx.
Dibru-Sadiya Railway (Subsidy and audit)	.	10,040
Dooars Railway (Land)	.	2,536
Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railway (Subsidy)	.	4,000
Ditto ditto (Land)	.	67
TOTAL	.	16,643

69. The maximum amount of the subsidy payable in respect of the Dibru-Sadiya Railway was paid to the Company during the year.

70. The total charges in connection with each line to the close of 1892-93 will be found in the statement attached to this note as Schedule D.

Comparison with Actuals of 1891-92 and the Budget and Revised Estimates.

71. The actual receipts during the year under Head XXVIII compare with the actuals of 1891-92 and the Budget and Revised Estimates as under :—

	Actuals, 1892-93.	Revised Estimate.		Budget Estimate.		Actuals, 1891-92.
		Estimate.	Actuals, more or less.	Estimate.	Actuals, more or less.

Total	17,883	24,800	—6,917	28,800	—10,917	32,994

The Government share of surplus earnings of the Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railway for the year 1891 was not received during the year as was expected, owing to questions having been raised as to the amount of that share.

The difference between actuals and the Budget and Revised Estimates of the repayment by the Mysore Durbar is due to the net revenue of the railway having been higher than the estimates.

72. The actual expenditure during the year under head 40 compares with the actuals of 1891-92 and the Budget and Revised Estimates as under :—

	Actuals, 1892-93.	Revised Estimate.		Budget Estimate.		Actuals, 1891-92.
		Estimate.	Actuals, more or less.	Estimate.	Actuals, more or less.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
40.—Subsidized Companies—

Provincial	16,643	16,900	—257	14,900	+1,743	14,206
Total	29,026	31,900	—2,874	44,900	—15,874	33,130

73 The lapses, under Imperial, are due to less land having been acquired for the Nilgiri Railway than was anticipated, and to short payments in connection withthe Bengal and North-Western Railway in consequence of disputed cases, which were not decided before the close of the year; and to the interest paid to the Nilgiri Railway Company having been less than estimated owing to smaller deposits of Capital in the Government Treasury. The excess over the Budget Estimate, under Provincial, is due to larger payments for land for the Dooars Railway.

SECTION D.

41.—MISCELLANEOUS RAILWAY EXPENDITURE.

74. The following expenditure is recorded under this head :—

(a) Outlay on surveys.
(b) Surplus Establishment and Miscellaneous charges.

77. Owing to the refund, by the Assam-Bengal Railway Company, of the past outlay on the Bengal-Assam and Chittagang-Comilla Surveys, the transactions during 1892-93 under Imperial have resulted in a credit of Rx. 10,860 as detailed below :—

	Rx.
Outlay on surveys	57,341
Surplus Establishment and Miscellaneous charges	3,265
Director General of Railways' Establishment (share of)	15,547
Port Storekeepers' Establishment	2,329
Abt material and engine suspense account	—200
Survey outlay refunded by the Assam-Bengal Railway Company	—89,142
TOTAL	—10,860

78. No outlay on surveys from Provincial funds was incurred during the year. With reference to this fact attention is invited to Public Works Department Code, Volume II, Chapter XV, para. 163.

79. The details of outlay on surveys will be found in the statement attached to this review as Schedule E.

80. The items debited during 1892-93 to the account "Surplus Establishment and Miscellaneous charges" were—

	Rx.
Leave allowances of pensionable employés on the Rajputana-Malwa Railway	378
Bonus to Clerks' Provident Fund	172
Repairs to Commander-in Chief's carriage	53
Temporary establishment under Secretary of Committee of Locomotive and Carriage Superintendents	99

Rai Bahadur Bhoobun Mohun Bose, Executive Engineer	97
Mr. F. Wolley-Dod, Executive Engineer	82
Petty items	406
TOTAL	3,265

81. The amount debited to this head on account of the establishment of the Director General of Railways represents half the fixed monthly charge of Rs. 21,000 debited by the Civil Department, under the authority of Public Works Department Resolution No. 6125, dated 9th November 1888, and half the actual salary and travelling allowances of the Consulting Engineer to the Government of India for State Railways. The other moiety of these charges is debited to the major head "39—Guaranteed Companies—Land and Supervision."

82. The amount shown under Port Storekeepers' Establishments represents—

	Rx.
(1) The cost of the Port Storekeeper's office at Calcutta	2,149

Comparison with Actuals of 1891-92 and the Budget and Revised Estimates.

83. The actual outlay during the year under "41—Miscellaneous Railway Expenditure" compares with the actuals of 1891-92 and the Budget and Revised Estimates as under:—

Head of Account.	Actuals, 1892-93.	Revised Estimate.		Budget Estimate.		Actuals, 1891-92.

TOTAL .	—10,860	—10,100	—760	60,000	—70,860	92,060

84. The lapse on the Budget Estimate is mainly due to the refunds, by the Assam-Bengal Railway Company, of the past outlay on the Bengal-Assam and Chittagong-Comilla surveys, which have been credited to this head, and to fewer debits to surplus establishment and miscellaneous charges than were provided for.

SECTION E.

STATE RAILWAYS—CONSTRUCTION EXPENDITURE.

86. The Mayavaram-Mutupet Railway is being constructed by the agency of the South Indian Railway Company, partly from funds provided by the Tanjore Local Board and partly from the Provincial balances of the Madras Government, on the condition that the profits to be derived from the undertaking be shared between the Government of Madras and the Local Board in proportion to the capital contributed by each.

87. During the course of the year, construction operations were commenced on the following new lines and extensions:—

	Miles.
East Indian—Jherriah and Toposi Extensions	69¼
Palanpur-Deesa	17¼

88. The extension of the Barákar branch of the East Indian Railway to the Jherriah coal-field, including a short line of three miles from Barákar to Chanch, a distance of 39 miles, was sanctioned in March 1892. Extensions of the Toposi Colliery branch, aggregating 30¼ miles in length, were also sanctioned during the year. The sanctioned estimate for the Jherriah extension amounts to Rs. 36,79,206, and for the Toposi extensions to Rs. 8,74,859.

89. The construction of a branch railway from Palanpur to Deesa was sanctioned at the close of 1891-92. It is being constructed by the agency of the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway Company. The estimated cost of the line is Rs. 4,00,833, of which Rs. 1,85,000 is to be contributed by the Palanpur Durbar. The Durbar has also intimated its willingness to grant the land required for the line free of cost.

90. The Guntakal-Hindupur Railway, which was being constructed by the agency of the South Indian Railway Company, has been transferred to the Southern Mahratta Railway Company. The section from Guntakal to Dharmavaram was taken over by the latter from the 1st January 1893, and the section from Dharmavaram to Hindupur from 1st April 1893, and the whole line will be completed and worked by the Southern Mahratta Railway Company.

Budget Estimate.

99. The more important variations from the Budget Estimate materially affecting the results are explained below :—

State Agency.

Open lines.—The actuals fell short of the Budget Estimate by Rx. 208,771. The principal lapses occur on the Eastern Bengal and Oudh and Rohilkhand Railways, and are due to the supplies of English stores having fallen short of the estimate.

The lapse on the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway is further due to large issues of stores to the Bareilly-Rampur-Moradabad and Lucknow-Rae Bareli-Benares Railways.

Credits from the sale of materials held at debit of the Nagpur-Chhattisgarh Depreciation Account were received during the year, but were not provided for in the Budget Estimate.

There is an excess on the North-Western Railway due to the credits from issues of stores to Revenue having been less than estimated for in consequence of a reduction of expenditure on Revenue account.

The Gradient Improvements were pushed on rapidly during the year, and the outlay on this account was considerably larger than that of the previous year; it however fell short of the Budget Estimate owing to the prevalence of sickness in the district and to heavy rains.

Lines under construction—The actuals fell short of the Budget Estimate by Rx 518,022.

The lapse on the Mu Valley Railway is due to the stoppage of works during the working season, pending an inspection of the line with a view to improving the alignment.

The lapse on the Assam-Bengal Railway is due to the construction of this line having been made over to a Company during the year; the grant originally allotted was consequently withdrawn. The past outlay incurred by Government was also transferred to the Company's account.

The lapses on the Bareilly-Rampur-Moradabad and Lucknow-Rae Bareli Railways is due to short receipt of stores from England.

The lapse on the Mari-Attock Railway is due to the scarcity of labour, in consequence of the prevalence of cholera and other sickness in the neighbourhood of the line.

The excess on the Barsoe-Kissengunge Extension of the Eastern Bengal State Railway is due to larger outlay on waterways and raising embankments rendered necessary by floods.

The Budget grants for the Mushkaf-Bolan and East Coast Railways have been exceeded owing to work on these lines having been pushed on during the year. Additional grants to meet the further requirements of these lines were allotted during the year.

Companies' Agency.

Open lines.—The actuals exceeded the Budget Estimate by Rx. 74,480.

The principal lapse occurred on the South Indian Railway, owing to delay in obtaining stores from England.

The principal excesses were—

On the Tirhoot Railway, due to expenditure on additional rolling-stock sanctioned during the year, and to the issues of stores to Revenue not having been as large as was anticipated.

On the Rajputana-Malwa Railway the outlay on final heads was less than provided for in the Budget, owing to debits for land required at Delhi not having been raised by the Civil Department, to the late receipt of sanction to an estimate for fencing, and to credits for materials returned into stores; but, on the other hand, the stores balance was not reduced as anticipated, owing to an adjustment on account of rails received from the Bengal-Nagpur Railway, to large purchases of coal and timber, and to less issues of stores to Revenue and Capital works.

On the East Indian Railway, owing to the cost of re-sleepering the Patna-Gya Railway, which has been amalgamated with the undertaking, having been debited to capital under the orders of the Government of India.

Lines under construction.—The actuals exceeded the Budget Estimate by Rx. 172,918.

The principal lapses were—

On the Dharmavaram-Hindupur Railway, due to the provision for rolling-stock not having been utilised.

On the Mayavaram-Mutupet Railway, due to difficulty in obtaining labour and to many of the works having been delayed in consequence of the early floods.

The principal excesses were—

On the East Indian Railway, Jherriah Extension, owing to greater progress being made, second-hand material having been used instead of waiting for new material from England.

On the Godhra-Rutlam Railway, owing to works which were interrupted in the previous year in consequence of an outbreak of sickness, having been pushed on, and to a larger supply of materials having been received from England than was anticipated.

REVISED ESTIMATE.

100. Compared with the Revised Estimate, the principal variations and the reasons assigned are briefly as follows:—

State Agency.

Open Lines.—The actuals fell short of the Revised Estimate by Rx. 42,251.

The lapse occurred chiefly on the Eastern Bengal and Burma Railways and on the Nagpur-Chhattisgarh Depreciation account:—

On the Eastern Bengal Railway the lapse is due to large issues of permanent-way materials to Revenue towards the close of the year, and to a credit on account of depreciation charges on Bengal Central Railway rolling-stock;

On the Burma Railway the lapse is due to short supplies of stores from England; and

On the Nagpur-Chhattisgarh Depreciation Account, to larger credits having been received from the sale of materials held at debit of the account than were anticipated.

On the North Western Railway there was an excess, due to greater progress on Gradient Improvements.

Lines under construction.—The actuals fell short of the Revised Estimate by Rx. 12,392.

The principal lapses were—

On the Lucknow-Rae Bareli-Benares Railway, due to short receipt of permanent-way material, etc., from England.

On the Bareilly-Rampur-Moradabad Railway, due to short receipt of stores from England and to a credit for stores temporarily lent to the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway.

On the East Coast Railway, due to a liability on account of stores under supply from the surplus stock of the Bellary-Kistna Railway having been over-estimated, and to short debits for English stores.

The principal excesses were—

On the Muskhaf-Bolan Railway, due to the transfer of plant and stores from the North-Western Railway and Chaman Extension, authorised after the Revised Estimate was passed.

On the Stores transactions, due to payments in England towards the close of the year for stores uninvoiced or received too late for issue to lines in time and adjustment in the accounts of the year.

Companies' Agency.

Open lines.—The actuals fell short of the Revised Estimate by Rx. 48,220. The lapse occurred chiefly—

On the South Indian Railway, due to smaller purchases of stores in India and to the non-arrival of stores from England.

On the Rajputana-Malwa Railway, due to short expenditure in connection with crossing stations, to the late receipt of sanction to an estimate for fencing, and to the sale of press machinery.

Lines under construction.—The actuals exceeded the Revised Estimate by Rx. 100,418.

The principal excesses were—

On the East Indian Railway, Jherriah Extension, due to large payments in England on account of stores, to the purchase of sleepers from the North-Western Railway, and to heavy payments for labour towards the close of the year.

On the Godhra-Rutlam Railway, due to works having been pushed on in the closing months of the year.

On the Mayavaram-Mutupet Railway, due to more progress having been made in laying permanent-way than was anticipated.

101. Total Capital Outlay.—The total outlay incurred on State Railways up to the end of the year has amounted to Rx. 110,202,733 as under:—

	Rx.
Indian outlay	56,877,169
Debits to the Indian Books by credits to "Expenditure in England" for value of English stores received and other items charged off in England	53,325,564
TOTAL	110,202,733

the distribution by finance heads being as follows:—

	Rx.
34.—Construction of Protective Railways	4,403,243
37.—Construction of Railways (charged against Revenue in addition to that under Famine Insurance)	6,404,531
48.—Capital Expenditure on State Railways not charged against Revenue	65,841,508
50.—Capital charges involved in redemption of liabilities	33,553,451
TOTAL	110,202,733

102. Full details of the above will be found in the statement attached to this review as Schedule G.

SECTION F.

CAPITAL ACCOUNT OF GUARANTEED COMPANIES.

103. Each of the Guaranteed Railway Companies has a sterling Capital. Under the respective contracts entered upon many years ago, funds required to meet expenditure in India are advanced at the fixed rate of exchange of 1*s.* 10*d.* the rupee, and, on the other hand, advances in England when converted into Indian currency are converted at the same rate of 1*s.* 10*d.* the rupee. The figures relating to Capital expenditure in this section, where stated in sterling, represent as regards withdrawals by the Companies in England true sterling, and as regards withdrawals in India the equivalent in rupees at the rate of 1*s.* 10*d.*; where stated in Rx. sterling has been converted into rupees at the same rate.

104. The following table shows the amount of Capital raised to the 31st March 1893:—

	Share Capital.		Debentures.		Debenture Stock		Capital not bearing interest		Total.

105. Interest on the Share Capital, Debentures, and Debenture Stock is guaranteed by the Secretary of State, the rates of interest being as under:—

	Great Indian Peninsula	Bombay, Baroda and Central India.	Madras.	Total
	£	£	£	£
Share Capital at 5 per cent. .	20,000,000	7,550,300	8,757,670	36,307,970

TOTAL .	25,672,350	8,788,800	11,057,630	45,518,780

106. The average rate of interest payable in gold on the Capital of these Guaranteed Companies is a little under 4·74 per cent. Under the contracts, the State must continue to pay interest on the Share Capital at the rates guaranteed until the contracts terminate, and it is consequently unable to obtain any advantage from the increasingly easy condition of the money market. The State can now raise money at a little over 3 per cent., but it has to continue to pay 5 per cent. on the bulk of the Share Capital, which, with the low exchange, at the average rate for 1892-93, is equivalent to a payment of interest at a rate of over 7½ per cent. on the sterling Capital converted at par.

107. During the year 1892-93, debentures were issued in England to the extent of £359,600. Debentures to the extent of £138,200 bearing interest at 3½ per cent. fell due during the year, and were renewed at 3 per cent. The amount raised by each Company was as follows :—

Great Indian Peninsula	259,600
Madras	100,000
TOTAL	359,600

108. The following table shows the amounts withdrawn by the several Companies on Capital account up to the 31st March 1893, and the balances of Capital at their credit, or amount of overdrafts, on that date :—

	Paid-up Capital.	Capital withdrawn.			Balance at

110. The large refunds in India represent chiefly the value of stores issued to Revenue for working and maintenance which, in the first instance, are paid for from Capital funds.

112. The difference between the actuals of 1891-92 and 1892-93 is due, for the most part, to smaller refunds for value of stores consumed by revenue and sold to outsiders. The decrease as compared with the Budget Estimate is owing chiefly to a lapse on the provision for engineering works and stores. The excess over the Revised Estimate occurs principally on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway and is due to large purchase of coal towards the close of the year.

SECTION G.

Capital of Indian Railway Companies.

(Exclusive of the old Guaranteed Companies.)

113. The accounts reviewed in this section represent the capital transactions of the following Railway Companies :—

Bengal Central.
Bengal-Nagpur.
Indian Midland.
Southern Mahratta.
Mysore.
Rohilkhund-Kumaon (Lucknow-Bareilly undertaking).
Assam-Bengal.

114. Each of these Companies has a sterling capital, consisting partly of share capital and debentures raised by the Companies direct on guarantees by the Secretary of State, and partly of advances made by the Secretary of State from funds raised by him under the provisions of Act 51, Vict., Chap. 5. The sums thus raised and advanced to the Companies are considered as part of the Companies' capital. Interest on such advances is charged against the Railway Revenue Account and has to be met before surplus profits can be declared.

115. The financial terms of the contracts, the rates of interest guaranteed, and the rates of exchange at which the capital is converted into Indian currency vary in each case. These points are briefly stated below.

116. Bengal Central Railway.—This line is the property of the Bengal Central Railway Company and is, merely as a matter of convenience, classed among State Railways. This Railway was originally constructed under a limited guarantee of interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum while the line was under construction, such interest together with interest thereon being repayable out of surplus profits. But a revised contract was entered into, with effect from the 1st July 1885, under which the Company receives a guarantee of 3½ per cent. on share capital and a quarter of net earnings paid half-yearly, the claim to the repayment of interest advanced under the original contract being at the same time waived. The capital when stated in Indian currency is converted at the rate of 1*s.* 5·262*d.* the rupee.

117. Bengal-Nagpur Railway.—This Company receives a guarantee at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum on share capital, and is entitled to a quarter share of surplus profits,—i.e., of the excess of net earnings over interest—calculated annually. The rate of exchange for the conversion of sterling capital into Indian currency is £1=Rs. 13.

118. Indian Midland Railway.—This Company also receives a guarantee of 4 per cent. per annum on its share capital, and is entitled to a quarter share of surplus profits, calculated annually. The rate of exchange for the conversion of sterling capital into Indian currency is £1=Rs. 12¼.

119. Southern Mahratta Railway.—This Company now receives a guarantee of 3½ per cent. (4 per cent. up to 31st December 1890) and a quarter of net earnings. The rates of exchange for the conversion of sterling Capital into rupees are, as regards the Capital (£580,957), specially raised for the completion of the Bellary-Kistna Railway, which was taken over by the Company, £1=Rs. 14, and for the remainder of the Capital, £1=Rs. 12. The Company also gets the advantage of outlay by the State on the construction of the Bellary-Kistna Railway to the extent of Rx. 1,657,753 without any charge for interest.

120. Mysore Railway.—This line was completed and is worked by the Southern Mahratta Railway Company. That Company raised sufficient funds by the issue of debenture stock to repay to the Mysore Durbar the outlay previously incurred by that State and to complete the extension to link in with the Southern Mahratta system. Acting on behalf of the Mysore Durbar, the Secretary of State has guaranteed interest at 4 per cent. on the nominal amount of the debenture stock issued. The Southern Mahratta Railway Company also receives a quarter of net earnings. The rate of exchange for conversion of the sterling capital into Indian currency is 1*s*. 5·931*d*. the rupee.

121. Rohilkhand-Kumaon (Lucknow-Bareilly Section) Railway.—The Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railway Company took over, with effect from the 1st January 1891, the Bareilly-Pilibhit and the Lucknow-Sitapur State Railways, undertaking to complete the link between these lines, and to work the whole with their own line of Railway. The Company agreed to raise capital to the extent of £160,000 by the issue of debentures, with the power to discharge any portion of this obligation by the payment of rupees in India, the amount so paid being deemed the equivalent of sterling money at the average rate of exchange during the half-year immediately preceding the date of such payment. The Company subsequently issued sterling debentures for £147,000, which sold for Rs. 20,34,195. This sum was paid into the Calcutta treasury, and, at the rate fixed by the contract, is deemed to be equivalent to a sterling payment of £160,837. The debentures were issued under a guarantee of the Secretary of State at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum. The previous outlay incurred by the State has not been refunded to Government, and it has been further agreed that any additional capital required shall be provided by the Secretary of State. Any surplus profits after paying the debenture interest, and interest at 4 per cent. on the outlay by the State, are to be divided between Government and the Company in the ratio of their respective shares of capital.

122. Assam-Bengal Railway.—This Company took over, in November 1892, the construction work on the Gauhati-Lumding Section of the Railway which had been commenced by the State. The capital authorised to be raised by the Company is £1,500,000, and the rate of interest guaranteed is 3½ per cent. per annum up to the 1st July 1898, and after that date 3 per cent. The rate for the conversion of sterling capital into Indian currency is the average rate of exchange obtained by the Secretary of State for bills payable on demand drawn on India during the calendar half-year next preceding the time at which the conversion is required to be made.

123. The following table shows the amount of capital raised to the 31st March 1893:—

124. The following abstract shows the different rates of interest guaranteed in the case of each line on the share and debenture capital:—

125. During the year 1892-93, the only capital raised by Companies direct was the sum of £1,210,967 subscribed on account of share Capital by the Assam-Bengal Railway Company. Advances were made from moneys raised under Act 51, Vict., Cap. 5, to the Indian Midland Railway Company, £115,000, to the Bengal-Nagpur Railway Company, £300,000, and to the Southern Mahratta Railway Company, £150,000, making a total addition to the Companies' capital of £1,775,967. Of the Southern Mahratta Railway Company's 3½ per cent. debentures, £600,000 fell due on the 1st April 1892, and were renewed bearing interest at 3¼ per cent. per annum.

126. The following table shows the amounts of capital withdrawn by the several Companies up to the 31st March 1893, and the balances of capital at their credit, or the amounts of overdrafts, on that date. In this table the amounts shown as withdrawn in England represent true sterling, the amounts shown as withdrawn in India represent rupees converted at contract rates, and also take into account the differences between remittances from England converted at contract rates and the average rates of exchange at which they are incorporated in the Indian books:—

or, as stated in the Indian accounts, the sterling capital being converted at the contract rates, and the withdrawals in England being converted at the average rates of exchange applicable under the contract, the figures stand as under :—

127. The overdraft shown against the Bengal-Nagpur Railway is due to the inclusion in the Capital account of the sum of Rx. 485,383 * expended by the State on the Katni-Umaria State Railway, which was subsequently taken over by the Company (vide para. 35 above). It should also be mentioned that a sum of Rx. 1,657,753 was expended by Government on the Bellary-Kistna State Railway, now incorporated in the Southern Mahratta Railway system, and that this amount has not been included in the foregoing tables of expenditure. Similarly, a sum of Rx. 512,114 expended by Government on the Bareilly-Pilibhit and Lucknow-Sitapur Railways, prior to their transfer to the Rohilkhand-Kumaon Railway Company, has not been included in those statements. These items are classed, as originally charged, under 48.—State Railways—Construction, and are included in the expenditure dealt with in Section E.

Comparison with actuals during 1891-92, and the Budget and Revised Estimates.

128. In the following table the actual expenditure during the year is compared with the Revised and Budget Estimates, and with the actuals during 1891-92 :—

* Equivalent at contract rate to £373,372.

Compared with actuals of previous year.

129. The decrease in the expenditure during 1892-93, as compared with the outlay during 1891-92, is due to the more advanced stage of construction and gradual completion of works on the older lines; but, on the other hand, construction by the Company was commenced during the year on the Assam-Bengal Railway.

In the case of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway, on which the largest decrease occurs, the outlay on the Saranda Tunnel and on the erection of rolling-stock was very large during 1891-92. The issue of materials for the construction of the Sambalpur Branch contributed largely to the reduction in suspense balances during the year.

The decrease on the Bengal Central Railway is on ballast and permanent-way and in stores balance.

The increase on the Southern Mahratta Railway is due to the stores balance of the Mysore Railway at end of December 1892 being taken over owing to the amalgamation of the Stores accounts of the two Railways.

Compared with Budget Estimate.

130. As compared with the Budget Estimate, the excess is Rx. 139,842, and is due to the commencement of construction by the Company on the Assam-Bengal Railway, and to the transfer of the outlay incurred by the State to the Company's capital account.

The lapses on the other Railways are attributable chiefly to the following causes:—

On the Bengal Central Railway, to savings on stations and buildings, ballast and permanent-way and stores.

On the Bengal-Nagpur Railway, to the provision made for staff quarters having been curtailed and to late receipt of sanction for many of the works; to the reserve grant for rolling-stock not having been operated on; and to the work originally contemplated on the Sambalpur Extension not having been completed pending a settlement of the final alignment of the last few miles of the extension.

On the Indian Midland Railway, to the sums set aside for unforeseen works not having been required, and to the postponement of certain works on the Jhansi-Manickpur Section, and to smaller expenditure than was expected on the new central workshops.

On the Southern Mahratta Railway, to expenditure in England being short of the estimate in consequence of indents for fencing and plant for the printing press at Dharwar not having been submitted for want of sanctioned estimates.

On the Mysore Railway, to credits arising from the recovery from the Mysore Durbar of the capital cost of the Nanjangud Extension in consequence of the transfer of the line, and to the amalgamation of the suspense accounts with those of the Southern Mahratta Railway, and to the postponement of certain Capital works.

Compared with Revised Estimate.

131. Compared with the Revised Estimate, the lapses amount to Rs. 100,758, and have been explained as follows:—

On the Bengal Central Railway, to fewer sleepers having been purchased than was anticipated.

On the Bengal-Nagpur Railway, to short outlay on rolling-stock and an under-estimate of the reduction in suspense balances consequent on the short receipt of stores from England, and heavier issues to Revenue than was anticipated.

On the Indian Midland Railway, to smaller purchases of stores in India, and to less expenditure having been incurred on the central workshops than was estimated.

On the Southern Mahratta Railway, to short outlay in England, short debits by the Civil Department for compensation for land and for supplies by the Forest Department, and to delay in completing certain works provided for in the estimate.

SECTION II.

NATIVE STATES RAILWAYS.

Capital and Revenue Transactions.

132. The accounts reviewed in this section represent the transactions of the following Railways belonging to Native States, the accounts of which are dealt with in this Department:—

Bhopal State Railway (Bhopal Section).
Khamgaon Railway.
Amraoti Railway.

133. It may be mentioned that the transactions of the following foreign Railways, with the accounts of which this Department has no concern, are not dealt with in this review:—

* The Gaekwar's.
* Jodhpore-Bickaneer.
Nizam's Guaranteed.
Morvi.
* Rajpura-Bhatinda.
Bhavnagar-Gondal-Junagad-Porbundar.
* Jammu-Kashmir (Kashmir Section).

Mysore { Mysore-Nanjangod Section. / Bangalore to Frontier at Hindupur.

MYSORE GOLD FIELDS.

134. An officer of the Public Works Accounts Department is lent to the Native States for the purpose of keeping the accounts of the Bhavnagar-Gondal-Junagad-Porbundar Railway, and the accounts of the lines marked with an asterisk are either kept or supervised by Public Works Accounts officers. It has been decided that the accounts of the Bina-Guna and Bhopal-Ujjain Railways shall be audited annually by a Public Works Accounts officer.

BHOPAL STATE RAILWAY.

135. Capital.—The Bhopal State Railway is the joint property of the Imperial Government and the Bhopal Durbar. The line connects Itarsi on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway with Bhopal, crossing the river Nerbudda in the neighbourhood of Hoshungabad. The line runs for 13 miles through British territory and for 44 miles through the Native State of Bhopal.

136. Funds for the construction of this line were at first provided as follows:—

	Rx.
By the British Government .	125,000
By the Bhopal State . .	500,000

But as further moneys were required to meet the cost of additional works and alterations necessary to bring the line up to the required standard, to carry the heavy traffic anticipated on the opening of the Indian Midland Railway, and as Her Highness the Begum of Bhopal was not prepared to advance more than the 50 lakhs, it was decided to provide the necessary money from Imperial resources. The contribution made by the Durbar had all been utilized before the end of 1890-91, so that the expenditure incurred subsequently was met from grants under the head "48.—State Railways—Construction," and as such is reviewed in the section pertaining thereto.

137. The capital expended on the line to the close of 1892-93 has amounted to Rx. 694,605, and has been charged as follows:—

	Rx.
To British Government	194,605
To Bhopal State	500,000

138. Revenue.—During the period to which these accounts relate, the line was worked by the Indian Midland Railway on the following terms: on payment of such sum as shall bear the same rate per cent. to the gross receipts of the Bhopal State Railway for any half-year, as the aggregate working expenses (excluding cost of maintenance) of the amalgamated undertaking shall bear to the aggregate gross receipts of the amalgamated undertaking for the same half-year, plus the actual expenditure incurred on the maintenance of way and works, plus 5 per cent. of the gross earnings for supply of rolling-stock. The earnings and expenses are adjusted by the calendar half-year, and the amounts included in the accounts for the official year 1892-93 represent the results of working during the calendar year 1892.

139. The revenue receipts and charges of the year are, under the terms of the agreement with the Durbar, divided between the British Government and the Bhopal State in the proportion of the capital contributed by each, and on this basis the division of the transactions of the year 1892 was made as shown in the following table:—

	Government.	Bhopal State.	Total.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Receipts	15,310	44,780	60,090
Expenditure	9,670	28,192	37,862
Net Receipts . .	5,640	16,588	22,228

140. The Durbar share of the net earnings for the year is equivalent to a return of 3·31 per cent. per annum on the capital provided by the Durbar. The amount was paid to the Durbar under the instructions conveyed in Public Works Department letter No. 383 A.—R., dated 9th September 1889.

Khamgaon and Amraoti Railways.

141. Capital.—These railways have been constructed from funds provided from the surplus revenues of Berar. The Khamgaon Railway, 7½ miles in length, runs from Jalamb Station on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway to Khamgaon, and the Amraoti Railway, 5½ miles in length, connects Budnera with Amraoti.

142. The capital expended on these lines to the end of 1892-93 is as under:—

	To end of 1891-92.	During 1892-93.	Total to date.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Khamgaon Railway	48,983	—122	48,861
Amraoti ,,	44,935	69	45,004

143. Revenue.—Both these lines are worked by the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company on the following terms: the payment to the Company of the same percentage of the gross receipts of the State line that the working expenses of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway and branch lines, taken together, bear to the earnings of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway and branch lines, plus 5 per cent. of the gross receipts of the State line for the use of rolling-stock. The transactions are adjusted by the calendar half-year, and the results incorporated in the accounts of the year 1892-93 represent the transactions of the calendar year 1892.

144. The receipts and charges of the year 1892 are shown in the following table :—

	Receipts.	Expenditure.	Net receipts
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.
Khamgaon Railway	6,555	3,464	3,091
Amraoti "	10,576	5,712	4,864

145. The net receipts represent returns of 6·33 and 10·81 per cent. per annum on the total capital expended on the Khamgaon and Amraoti Railways, respectively.

Comparison with Budget and Revised Estimates.

146. The actual Capital outlay on the lines dealt with in this section compares with the Budget and Revised Estimates as under :—

Railway	Actuals, 1892-93.	Revised Estimate		Budget Estimate
		Estimate	Actuals, more or less.	Estimate	Actuals, more or less.
	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.	Rx.

Amraoti .	69	70	—1	50	+19
Total	—53	—50	—3	20	—73

The credit in the case of the Khamgaon Railway represents the sale of permanent-way material to the Great Indian Peninsula Railway. The lapse on the Budget Estimate is due to more material having been sold than was expected.

147. The actual revenue transactions compare with the actuals of 1891-92 and the Budget and Revised Estimates as under :—

148. The earnings on all three lines are slightly below those of the previous year, but the differences are unimportant. The decrease in expenditure on the Bhopal Railway, as compared with the estimates, is said to be due to the working expenses having been estimated at too high a percentage of the earnings. The decrease in expenditure on the Khamgaon and Amraoti Railways, as compared with the Revised Estimate, is due to the percentage of gross receipts on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, as now ascertained, being lower than the figure adopted in the Revised Estimate.

No. 124-I, dated 12th June, 1894.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department.

Review of the Revenue Report of Irrigation Works in Sind for 1892-93.

Read—

Letter No. 327-I, dated the 30th April 1894, from the Government of Bombay, forwarding the Revenue Report of the Irrigation Department in Sind for 1892-93, with a memorandum by the Commissioner in Sind, and the Resolution of the Government of Bombay on the subject.

OBSERVATIONS.—The number of Irrigation Works in Sind for which Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept is 11, of which 4 are classed as Major Works and 7 as Minor Works. The Capital outlay on these works during and up to the end of 1892-93 is shown in the following statement:

	Number of works	During the year 1892-93						Total direct and indirect to end of 1892-93
		Works	Establishment.	Tools and Plant	Total direct charges	Indirect charges	Total direct and indirect charges

2. The Capital outlay on Major Works was incurred principally on the Eastern Nara, and there was also an expenditure on the Desert Canal and Unharwah Extension of Rs. 2,557 and Rs. 20,324 respectively.

The Capital outlay on Minor Works was, with the exception of Rs. 4,171 under indirect charges on the Mehrabwah, incurred solely on the Fuleli Canals, principally on the construction of regulators and inspection bungalows.

3. The recommendations of the Sind Irrigation Committee, referred to in paragraph 3 of last year's review, are gradually being given effect to, and several new projects have been submitted to the Local Government, notably that for the Jamrao Canal, which has now been sanctioned by Her Majesty's Secretary of State.

4. The following is a statement of the mileage of main and branch canals and of river embankments for the whole province:

		Miles.
Main Canals ..	2,231	5,888
Branch Canals ..	3,657
River embankments		661

The length of main canals is less by 573 miles and of branch canals greater by 593 miles than that given in last year's report. The differences are due to more correct classification, while the net increase of 20 miles in the total length of main and branch canals is due to the resumption of the Karowah in Karachi District, to the taking over of the Mitnahwah in the Fuleli District, and to the addition of 2 miles to the length of the Desert Canal.

Sixteen miles of river embankments were constructed during the year, and the net increase in length of 2 miles only is accounted for by deductions made on account of eroded embankments in the Western Nara District

5. The actual financial results of the year for the works for which Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept are shown in detail in the following statement. The aggregate figures for the works for which only Revenue Accounts are kept are also given :

Canals	Total direct and indirect capital outlay to end of 1892 93	Gross Revenue collected, 1892 93.			Working Expenses			Net Actual Revenue	Deduct receipts and charges on account of old Irrigation	Net Revenue attributable to outlay of Government Capital.	Percentage of return

6. The gross revenue derived from the Major Works during the year under review was greater by Rs. 2,95,734 than in 1891-92, and the increase in net revenue attributable to the outlay of Government Capital, after allowing for deductions on account of old irrigation and for an increase in working expenses, amounted to Rs. 2,86,315.

Three of the Major Works show a large increase in net revenue, and on the fourth, the Eastern Nara Works, the percentage of net revenue on Capital outlay rose from 5·68 per cent. in 1891-92 to 5·92 per cent. in 1892-93.

On Major Works as a whole the percentage of net revenue on Capital outlay was 7·65 as compared with 4·53 during 1891-92.

The net revenue attributable to Government Capital outlay derived from the Minor Works for which Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept was slightly less than during the previous year, while the Minor Works for which only Revenue Accounts are kept showed an improvement in net actual revenue of Rs. 1,26,141.

7. The interest charges during the year on the four Major Works amounted to Rs. 3,39,822 and up to the end of the year to Rs. 64,00,801. The balance of receipts after paying off the interest charges was Rs. 3,39,766 for the year under review, and amounted to Rs. 22,32,089 to the end of the year.

8. The following statement compares the assessments, the irrigated acreage, and the rate per acre of the year under review with the corresponding figures of the previous year:

The area assessed on the Major and Minor Works for which Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept showed an increase of 116,279 acres as compared with the previous year. The total area irrigated on all works is the largest yet recorded, and this is mainly due to the rabi crop which exceeded the average of the past five years by 218,322 acres, while the kharif crop shows a fair increase of 38,999 acres over the average.

The inundation is described as having been unfavourable for kharif crops, which require water in June and July; but the high level reached in August and maintained well into September gave an excellent supply for rabi.

The maximum reading on the Bukkur gauge reached 16′—9″ on the 18th August, and on the Kotri gauge the highest reading yet recorded, viz., 21′—4″, was reached on the 27th August.

The rainfall during the year was unusually heavy; the heaviest fall occurred in the end of July and beginning of August, and was of great assistance to the kharif crop.

Considerable damage was done by floods during the year, and to this is attributed the heavy remissions amounting to Rs. 2,50,770, to which reference is made in paragraph 16 of the Resolution by the Local Government.

9. The following table exhibits the areas cultivated under kharif and rab crops in Government jaghir and foreign territory:

	Kharif. Acres	Rabi. Acres.
Government land ...	1,633,041	534,918
Jaghir land	135,794	31,788
Foreign territory ...	54,010	9,504
Total	1,822,845	576,210
	2,399,055

The difference of 3,094 acres between the above figures and those contained in the table in paragraph 8 is due to the exclusion of Agricultural Works from the latter.

10. In paragraph 22 of his report the Superintending Engineer shows that if foreign and jaghir lands were assessed at the same rates as Government lands, the assessment would have been increased by Rs. 4,62,488. The question of obtaining an enhanced revenue from jaghir lands, which was alluded to in paragraph 11 of last year's review, is still under the consideration of the Local Government.

11. The balance of demands on Government lands remaining unrealized at the beginning of the year was Rs. 58,198, after allowing for adjustments in the Revenue Department, and the outstanding balance on these lands at the end of the year was Rs. 61,597.

12. The following statement shows the distribution of outlay on Revenue Account.

Rs. 36,382 were expended on extensions and improvements in the Begari and Eastern Nara Districts, and under this head Rs. 27,553 were expended on constructing a new mouth and an escape sluice and channel for the Desert Canals.

13. The aggregate outlay on repairs amounted to Rs. 9,80,215, which is less by Rs. 7,965 than during 1891-92.

14. The details of establishment charges are as follows :

* Details not available.

Of the Major and Minor Works for which Capital Accounts are kept, the working expenses amounted to 33·4 per cent. of the total revenue after deducting from each the amounts due to old irrigation. The cost of Revenue management was 12·9 per cent. and of Maintenance, after deducting the maintenance charges due to old irrigation, to 20·5 per cent. of the total revenue.

15. The total expenditure on repairs includes a sum of Rs. 1,72,072 on account of establishment charged to works as against Rs 1,87,201 in the previous year Of this sum Rs. 89,311 were for supervising establishment and Rs. 82,761 for establishment engaged to watch canal banks and river embankments during the inundation.

16. The estimated value of the produce derived from irrigated land amounted to 451 lakhs of rupees. The following is a statement of the areas of the principal crops ·

Kharif crops

	Acres.
Rice	630,509
Jowar	459,253
Bajra	480,083
Rabi crops ·
Wheat	314,123

All crops, with the exception of rice, show an increase over the figures for the preceding year.

17. The area irrigated by flow amounted to 956,613 acres and by lift to 310,768 acres. The double-cropped area was 123,421 acres.

The area irrigated during the kharif per cubic foot per second of canal head discharge varied from 29 to 50 acres.

18. As mentioned in paragraph 8 of this review, the inundation of 1892 was unfavourable for kharif and favourable for rabi crops. It is noted by the Superintending Engineer that the Indus took nearly three times as long in 1892 to discharge a flood of nearly the same volume as in 1887, and with an increase in level of 21 inches; but there is difficulty in forming any definite conclusion as to the cause of the phenomenon, though it is stated in paragraph 1 of the Resolution by the Local Government that the exceptional rainfall, which was about three times as heavy as that recorded in 1887-88, may afford a partial explanation.

19. The report was received by the Government of India on May 3rd, or about the same date as last year, which is considerably later than the date, 15th November, prescribed for its submission. It has as usual been well prepared, and the results exhibited (a net revenue of 11·71 per cent. on the total Capital outlay to end of the previous year,—vide paragraph 33 of Local Government Resolution), especially in view of the character of the inundation, appear to the Governor General in Council highly satisfactory, and such as to indicate that good use has been made of the funds allotted to Sind irrigation. The Government of India concur in the opinion expressed in paragraph 40 of the Resolution by the Local Government as regards the administration of his charge by the Superintending Engineer and the praise awarded by him to the officers mentioned.

No. 256.—The following is published for general information:

No. 125-I., dated 12th June, 1894.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department.

Review of the Revenue Report of Irrigation Works in Baluchistan for the year 1892-93.

Read—

Revenue Report of Irrigation Works in Baluchistan for the year 1892-93 forwarded with letter No. 2966, dated 2nd May 1894, from the Secretary to the Agent to the Governor General and Chief Commissioner, British Baluchistan, Public Works Department.

OBSERVATIONS.—There are two Minor Works in Baluchistan of which both Capital and Revenue Accounts are kept, viz., the Shebo Canal and the Khushdil Khan Reservoir.

2. The Capital outlay on the two works during and up to the end of 1892-93 was as follows:

* Includes indirect charges for 1891-92.

The outlay on the Shebo Canal during 1892-93 amounted to Rs. 2,186, including indirect charges incurred during the previous year, of which Rs. 1,571 was on Works and Rs. 361 on Establishment. No expenditure is shown as having been incurred on Tools and Plant during the year.

On the Khushdil Khan Reservoir there was no direct Capital outlay during the year, but an item of Rs. 77 incurred under indirect charges has been included in the Capital Account for the year under review.

3. The following statement shows the actual financial results of the year under review:

(a) Includes indirect charges for 1891-92.

After two successive years of loss on working, both systems worked at a profit during the year under review.

The working of the Shebo Canal resulted in a net profit of Rs. 9,181, or 1·40 per cent. on the Capital outlay. The revenue realized from the Shebo Canal as shown in the margin of the report is exclusive of Rs. 73 under Miscellaneous Receipts, and the total revenue is therefore Rs. 21,630 instead of Rs. 21,557.

The net return from the Khushdil Khan Reservoir amounted to Rs. 12,986, or 1·45 per cent. on the Capital expended.

The Irrigation Revenue on both canals is collected in kind, and the returns derived are affected by the yields of the various crops. There were no arrears of revenue due from the villagers at the end of the year 1892-93, nor any remissions except in the case of Shadezai people, who pay one-sixth of the share of produce as Government revenue instead of one-fourth as the other villagers do.

The Government of India have recently sanctioned the payment of Rs. 12,400 as compensation to the Shadezai Maliks in consideration of which they would pay the same revenue as other irrigators. Until this arrangement comes into force, the area watered during the year by the Shadezai villagers should be reported.

On the Shebo Canal the yield per acre during the year was—wheat 3·35 maunds and barley 4·85 maunds against the previous year's yield of 4·32 and 8·25 maunds respectively. The revenue realized from cultivated lands, exclusive of those under the Forest Department, was Rs. 3·03 per acre, and Rs. 7,693 from the lands under the Forest Department. The rate charged to the Forest Department was Rs. 5 per acre for 1,433 acres, which were watered throughout the year, and Rs. 3 per acre for 176 acres, which were partially watered, against the rate of Rs. 1·65 per acre shown in last year's report as charged to that Department. It is stated that the revenue realized per acre of wheat amounted to Rs. 2·21 and of barley to Rs. 1·9 against Rs. 3·17 and Rs. 4·65 realized during 1891-92.

The yield per acre is not only extraordinarily small, but appears to be decreasing; a careful investigation into the facts and causes of such decrease would seem to be necessary and desirable.

On the Khushdil Khan Reservoir, the yield per acre was 3·10 maunds of wheat and 6·02 maunds of barley against the preceding year's yield of 0·96 maund and 4·24 maunds respectively. The revenue realized was—wheat Rs. 2·38 per acre and barley Rs. 3·09 per acre against Re. 0·68 and Rs. 1·96.

4. The area irrigated by the Shebo Canal during the year amounted to 4,140·61 acres, including 41·5 acres of irrigation by the Forest Department. The Khushdil Khan Reservoir irrigated 6,327 acres in addition to 17½ acres irrigated under kharif crops. All irrigation is by flow.

5. The following table shows the details of the working expenses exhibited in the statement in paragraph 3:

	Repairs.	Establishment.	Tools and Plant.	Total.	Indirect charges	Total working expenses	Area irrigated	Rate per acre.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs	Rs.	Rs.	Rs	Acres	Rs.
Shebo Canal . .	8,210	2,921	170	11,301	1,148	12,449	4,141	3·0

TOTAL ...	11,609	3,702	208	15,519	1,842	17,361	10,485	1·6
Figures for 1891-92.	21,827	9,456	520	31,803	..	31,803	7,732	4·1

There was a considerable reduction in the charges for Revenue Establishment, and the reduction generally in the working expenses is satisfactory.

The outlay on repairs on the Shebo Canal and Khushdil Khan Reservoir amounts to Rs. 8,210 and Rs. 3,399 respectively.

6. The rainfall at Quetta and Shirinao respectively during 1892-93 was 18·37 and 16·09 inches as compared with 6·09 and 4·71 inches in the previous year. The rainfall at Khushdil Khan during the year was 13·29 inches and at Pishin 18·11 inches. A statement showing the monthly distribution of the rainfall would be of interest, and should in future be supplied.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of this Review be forwarded to the Agent to the Governor General and Chief Commissioner, British Baluchistan, Public Works Department, for information and guidance.

Also that a copy of the Review and of the Report be forwarded to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Punjab in the Public Works Department for information.

Weather Review of India for the Week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, June 9th, 1894.

General Summary.—There have been no large or important changes in the pressure distribution during the past week. Its main feature was a trough of low pressure extending from the Punjab to Chota Nagpur, in which pressure was in largest defect in the Punjab extremity. This has been persistent throughout the week, the pressure changes from day to day making no material alteration in it. Winds have been fairly normal both in direction and intensity; but on the 9th they fell off unusually rapidly at the head of the Bay, indicating the possibility of the formation of a disturbance of some kind in the Bay area. Humidity increased in the Peninsula, and towards the close of the week in the Central and North-Western Provinces and Central India.

Rain continued in Burma and was more general in Bengal. It was, however, not so large in amount or so general in Burma as it had been for some time past. Temperature decreased considerably in West Bengal and Bihar, but increased steadily in North-West India, and averaged 6° in excess of the normal in the Punjab and North-Western Provinces. Jacobabad registered 121·0°, the highest temperature reached this year, during the twenty-four hours ending at 8 A.M. on the 5th June; but, as the monsoon sea winds extended their influence further inland, the hottest area was after this transferred to the Punjab, where the highest maximum temperatures were recorded at the close of the week.

The main feature of interest, however, has been the setting in of the monsoon on the Malabar Coast. A feeble advance of monsoon winds occurred on the 3rd, giving showery weather to stations on the West Coast. Rain continued on the 4th and 5th, but it was not till the 6th that the monsoon fairly set in, with a fall of 6·54 inches at Calicut and 4·21 inches at Cochin. The monsoon current progressed slowly during the next twenty-four hours, and did not reach Ratnagiri till the day after, where it gave 6·37 inches of rain. Squally weather prevailed off the coast, and the area of disturbance moving in front of the monsoon current north-westwards across the north of the Arabian Sea diminished its flow into the Bombay Coast districts, where the rainfall fell off considerably in amount on the 9th. The heaviest showers on this day were 3·2 inches at Karwar and 3·1 inches at Goa.

Daily Summary.—Sunday.—The pressure changes were small, except in the Coromandel Coast districts, where pressure had increased briskly. Pressure was in excess in North Bombay and in considerable defect over nearly the whole of Northern India. Winds were less westerly than usual at the head of the Bay, and had increased in strength. They were light and unsteady in the Gangetic plain. Light rain had fallen in the West Coast districts, and light to moderate rain in Burma, Assam, and some parts of Bengal. Silchar received 2·8 inches, Moulmein 2·4 inches, Tavoy 2·09 inches, and Lashio 1·21 inches.

Monday.—Pressure had changed very irregularly, increasing slightly to briskly in Burma, North-Eastern India, and in parts of the Deccan, and falling slightly in South Madras and the West Punjab. Pressure was in considerable defect only in the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces. Easterly winds prevailed in the submontane districts of the North-Western Provinces, and further south were generally from the west. Temperature had increased in all provinces except Madras. Falls of rain exceeding one inch were registered at Moulmein, Chittagong, Raichur, and Nellore.

Tuseday.—Irregular changes of pressure continued, more especially in the Deccan and North-Western Provinces; but they were small in amount, and did not make any important alteration in the pressure distribution. Temperature had again increased in North-Western and Central India, and a maximum temperature of 121° was registered during the preceding twenty-four hours at Jacobabad. The air was generally damper in the Peninsula, and cloud was extending northwards and eastwards into Rajputana and Central India. Rain was more general in Southern India, and showers were received at the majority of stations in Burma, Bengal, and Assam. Akyab received 4·66 inches, Cochin 2·25 inches, and several other stations amounts exceeding one inch.

Wednesday.—Pressure had given way at most stations, but the changes were again irregular, differing considerably at neighbouring stations. Rain had fallen generally and in large amounts in Malabar, showing that the monsoon had commenced in that area. Calicut received 6·54 inches, Cochin 4·21 inches, and Trichinopoly 2 89 inches. Rain also fell in Burma, Bengal, and Assam, Akyab reporting 3·95 inches, Jalpaiguri 2·57 inches, and Sibsagar 2·16 inches.

Thursday.—Pressure had risen briskly in the Central Provinces and the South-West Punjab and had fallen briskly in North and Central Bengal, and slightly in the Konkan. A feeble disturbance and depression such as usually accompanies the advance of the monsoon current was advancing northwards off the West Coast. Winds were cyclonic in direction at Karwar and Ratnagiri. Winds were strong at Calicut and Mysore, but were generally weaker on the Malabar Coast, and were not as strong as they usually are on the break of the monsoon. Moderate to heavy rain had fallen in Malabar, Bengal, and Assam. Calicut reported 7·5 inches, Silchar 3·05 inches, Dhubri 2·86 inches, Mymensingh 2·3 inches, and Mangalore 1·98 inches.

Friday.—Pressure had changed by smaller amounts on the West Coast than it usually does on the advance of the monsoon in the Arabian sea, and continued to change very irregularly elsewhere. Pressure was in slight excess in Burma and North-Eastern India, in moderate defect in the Punjab, and normal in Southern India. Winds were increasing on the Konkan and Kathiawar Coast, and their directions indicated the existence of squally weather and disturbed conditions off the Konkan Coast. Temperature had increased rapidly in the North-Western Provinces, and was 5° in excess there and in the Punjab. It had fallen rapidly in Bengal. Monsoon rainfall had extended northwards as far as Ratnagiri, which had received 6·37 inches. Calicut, Mangalore, Karwar, Mormugao, and Goa had each received 3 inches. Heavy rain had fallen in Bengal and Assam, where Mymensingh reported a fall of 5·25 inches and Silchar 2·2 inches.

Saturday.—The changes of pressure on the West Coast indicated that the area of disturbed squally weather was passing to the north-westwards across the north of the Arabian Sea, which diminished the monsoon rainfall on the West Coast, only Karwar and Goa reporting falls slightly exceeding 3 inches. Pressure had increased all over India, and was largely in excess in West Bengal, Chota Nagpur, and the eastern districts of the Central Provinces, normal in Upper India, and in slight to moderate excess in the west and south of the Peninsula. Winds had fallen off in strength unusually rapidly at the head of the Bay. Temperature had again increased in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, where it was 6° in excess of the normal. Khushab registered the highest maximum temperature of the preceding twenty-four hours, viz., 117·1°. Rain was more general in Burma and Bengal, but the falls were light to moderate in amount. Rangoon received 2·38 inches, Bogra 2·33 inches, and Dinajpur 2·24 inches.

Temperature.—The following table gives the variations of the mean temperature from the normal on each day of the week for the different provinces of India :

The extension of rain in Bengal and the setting in of the monsoon on the West Coast reduced temperature considerably in Bengal, Bombay, and Madras, and the mean temperature of the week in those provinces and in Burma varied but little from the normal. Temperature was in moderate to considerable excess in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, and on the last day of the week averaged 6° in excess of the normal in that area. As the monsoon winds extended inland, temperature in the Central Provinces, Berar, Central India, Sind, and Rajputana decreased considerably, but the temperature of the last day of the week was markedly higher in all these provinces, probably due to the decline in the strength of the monsoon current on that day. The highest temperature recorded this year was at Jacobabad on the 5th, when the maximum temperature of the previous twenty-four hours rose to 121°. Very high day temperatures were recorded at many of the stations in the North-Western Provinces, Agra again registering 115° on the 9th, which was 8° higher than the normal temperature for the day.

The mean temperature of the whole of India was slightly to moderately in excess on every day of the week, the greatest excess being shown on the 4th and 5th. For the whole week it was 1·6° in excess of the normal.

Rainfall.—As will be seen from the table at the close, a new rainfall period, that of the south-west monsoon, commences this week. The variations from the normal of both the week and rainfall periods therefore correspond, and will be considered together.

The monsoon current which set in during the week on the West Coast has given heavy showers to Malabar, the Konkan, and the Bombay Deccan, but the average fall of the district in these areas during the week was not so large as the average fall in Tenasserim and Assam (Surma). The largest amounts received during the week at individual rain-gauge stations were reported from Tenasserim and Lower Burma, Assam (Surma), and Malabar. They are as follow:

Assam (Surma).—Cherra 24·70 inches, and Sylhet 19·77 inches.

Tenasserim and Lower Burma.—Pyapon 15·68 inches, and Thaton 13·08 inches.

The monsoon set in on the West Coast on the 6th June with a fall of 6·54 inches at Calicut, 4·21 inches at Cochin, and 2·89 inches at Trichinopoly. During the next twenty-four hours the only heavy fall reported was 7·5 inches at Calicut. By the morning of the 8th the monsoon had advanced northwards as far as Ratnagiri, where the rainfall amounted to 6·37 inches. Five other stations received over 3 inches. The monsoon current, which had been somewhat deficient in strength from the commencement, now fell off considerably, and the rainfall of the next day was comparatively small in amount.

Heavy rain fell in Tenasserim and at Akyab, but in Burma generally the rainfall of the week was smaller in amount and not so general in character. Rain extended in Bengal to Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and Orissa, and heavy rain fell in Cachar. Light showers fell in the North-Western Provinces, but, except in the submontane districts, where light rain was more general, the showers were chiefly local. No rain fell during the week in the whole of the Punjab (with the exception of a few very light showers in Gurgaon), in Sind, and West Rajputana.

Rainfall was in excess of the normal only in Tenasserim, Cachar, Northern Bengal, Eastern and Central Bengal, Chota Nagpur, North Bihar, the submontane districts of the North-Western Provinces, the Bombay Deccan, Gujarat, Madras East Coast (North), and Central Madras. In the great majority of divisions it was hence in defect, the greatest absolute defect being in Arakan, where only 4·95 inches were received instead of the normal amount of 12·30 inches.

Madras.—For week ending 9th June.—Rainfall heavy on the West Coast, scattered showers in the Southern districts, and fair showers elsewhere. Ploughing and sowing proceeding in parts. Standing crops fair. Harvests still continue with fair outturn. Pasturage generally scarce, but fodder sufficient. Condition of cattle generally good. Prices continue at a high level with a slight rise in several districts.

Bombay.—For week ending 13th June.—Rain throughout the Presidency; more rain required in one district. Desert canal in Sind very low, causing anxiety to cultivators. Standing crops damaged by drought in part of one district; otherwise good. Preparation of lands for next season progressing in parts of seventeen and sowing in parts of thirteen districts. Agricultural stock poor in parts of three districts. Fodder insufficient in parts of two and water in parts of one district. Prices steady, except in parts of two districts. Numbers on relief works: Baroda, 935.

Bengal.—For week ending 9th June.—There was general rain during the week, except in Behar, where rain was confined to the districts north of the Ganges. Agricultural prospects are improved and cultivation is in progress, but more rain is required in South Behar, Orissa, and parts of Chota Nagpur. Prospects of early rice, jute, sugarcane, and other standing crops are favourable. Cattle are generally in good condition, and the supply of fodder and water is generally plentiful. Prices continue high in the Eastern districts; elsewhere they are normal. Distress continues to be felt in parts of the Brahmanbaria subdivision of the Tipperah district.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 13th June.—Rain has fallen in all but four of the reporting districts. Irrigation of sugarcane and other crops continues. Extra crops doing well. Fields are being prepared for the summer crop sowings. Fodder and supplies sufficient. Prices generally low.

Punjab.—For week ending 13th June.—Rain has fallen in the Hissar district only. Harvesting and threshing of spring crops nearly over. Sowings of autumn crops in progress. Sugarcane and cotton crops are thriving in Sialkot. Condition of standing autumn crops average; extra spring crops are in good condition. Condition of cattle is generally reported good, and fodder is sufficient throughout the province. Prices rising in two districts and normal in four others; low elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 13th June.—Rain fell throughout the provinces towards the end of the week, Khandwa and Saugor registering over 5 inches. Good falls in Damoh and the Satpura and Nagpur districts; lighter in the Nerbudda valley and Chhattisgarh. In Saugor the number on relief works, including municipal works, has doubled, standing now at 7,107, of whom, however, only 1,350 are men. In Damoh, the number has fallen to 1,700. No gratuitous relief. Saugor imported 51,400 maunds of grain and Damoh 14,200 maunds, of which 2,200 came by road from Saugor. Wheat has fallen again to 14 seers per rupee at Saugor, but has risen in Damoh to 11½ seers. Gram is at 18 seers in Saugor and at 16 seers in Damoh, and rice at 10 and 11½ seers respectively. Prices remain stationary in the adjacent districts. Wheat selling at 15 seers in Jabalpur, at 13 seers in Narsinghpur, and at 16 seers in Hoshangabad, and gram at 24, 24, and 22 seers respectively. Export of oilseeds from Southern districts is contracting. Prospects for the autumn crop generally favourable.

Burma.—For week ending 9th June.—Rainfall sufficient and general. In Lower Burma ploughing for main paddy crop progressing in the lower delta and the Tenasserim division. In Upper Burma reaping of dry-weather paddy approaching completion, and ploughing and sowing of early wet-weather paddy and sesamum are general. Agricultural prospects favourable. Fodder and water-supply abundant. Prices show slight upward tendency, but are below normal.

Assam.—For week ending 12th June.—Weather seasonable. Rain has done slight injury to crops in Kamrup. Sowing of late rice seedlings and ploughing for late rice continue. Tea backward in Cachar. Condition of cattle good, except in parts of Kamrup. Fodder and water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 13th June.—MYSORE: Good rain in parts. Standing crops in good condition. Rice harvested in some districts. Prices fallen in two districts.

COORG: Rainfall good. Ploughing for rice continues. Sowing of ragi (Eleusine coracana) completed. Prospects of coffee and cardamom continue fair. Fodder and water for cattle ample. Prices continue normal.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 13th June.—BERAR: Rainfall good. Weather very warm and often cloudy. Ploughing for autumn sowings in progress. Water-supply inadequate in Melghat taluka, and scarcity of fodder still prevails in the Akola and Ellichpur districts. Prices fluctuating in parts of the Akola and Wun districts only.

HYDERABAD: Rainfall moderate. Reaping of hot-weather crops finished. Lands are being prepared for the sowing of autumn crops. Prices steady.

Central India.—For week ending 13th June.—Rain fell throughout Central India, except in Bundelkhand and some parts of Gwalior. Autumn operations have been started. Latest reports from the affected districts in Gwalior and Bhopal show that at present no acute distress prevails. Relief works have been commenced in Gwalior, and the Bhopal and other Durbars in the Bhopal Agency are doing what is necessary to reduce the consequences of the failure of the wheat crops. Cattle are in indifferent condition in parts of Gwalior. Pasturage fairly good and sufficient in all parts. Prices of food-grains rising above normal in parts of Gwalior and Bhopal, fluctuating in parts of Bhopawar, and normal in other Agencies.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume ; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year, but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Weather Review of India for the Week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, June 16th, 1894.

General Summary.—The advance of the monsoon current has given rain to the greater part of India during the week, but the amounts received in most districts have not been large. The heaviest showers were received in the West Coast districts, Burma, Bengal, and the Central Provinces. Very little rain has fallen in the Punjab, and the highest temperatures of the week have in consequence been registered there and at Jacobabad in Sind, where also practically no rain has been received. The rainfall in the North-Western Provinces has been chiefly local in character, but it caused a large reduction of temperature, which has been from 3° to 6° in defect during the greater part of the week.

A depression commenced forming in South-Eastern Bengal on the 12th and had intensified by the 13th, and commenced moving westwards during the day. By the morning of the 14th its centre lay to the north of Jessore. It advanced about 200 miles westwards during the next twenty-four hours, and was near Chaibassa by 8 A.M. on the 15th. By Saturday morning it had moved as far as Sutna, its centre being a little to the south of that station. In its progress across the country it gave moderate rain to the districts over which it passed, but the falls were not as heavy as might have been anticipated. On Wednesday pressure gave way rapidly in Gujarat, remained stationary or rose slightly during the next two days, and fell briskly again on Saturday, when pressure was a sixth of an inch in defect at Surat and Bombay. The abnormal conditions thus established appeared to indicate the formation of a depression in that area, such as occasionally is formed on the advance of strong monsoon winds across the Bombay Coast, and hence the probability of more or less heavy rain in Gujarat, Mahi Kantha, and the Panch Mahals. But up to the end of the week no important change had taken place either in the strength of the winds or the character of the rainfall.

Winds have been fairly normal both in direction and intensity over the greater part of India, and temperature has been in defect in most provinces. The mean temperature of the week for the whole of India showed a large fall as compared with that of the previous week, being 1·8° in defect of the normal, while last week it was 1·6° in excess.

Daily Summary.—Sunday.—Pressure had decreased in the Peninsula and Bengal by small amounts, and had increased in the Gangetic plain and Central India. It was in considerable excess in the North-Western Provinces North-Eastern India, Orissa, and the eastern districts of the Central Provinces. Winds were still abnormal in direction at Bombay and Veraval due to the disturbed area passing across the north of the Arabian Sea. Temperature had decreased over the whole of North-Western and Central India, and humidity had increased largely in the North-Western Provinces, the South Punjab, Rajputana, and Central India. Rain had fallen on the coast and at several of the stations in the interior. Ratnagiri received 3·99 inches, Mormugao 3·73 inches, Goa 3 inches, Karwar 2·61 inches, Moulmein 2·15 inches, and several other stations amounts exceeding one inch.

Monday.—Pressure changes were irregular, and the distribution of pressure remained practically unaltered. Moderate monsoon winds prevailed on the West Coast, and were fairly normal in direction at Bombay and Veraval, the disturbance in the Arabian Sea having ceased to exert any influence on them. Temperature continued to decrease rapidly in North-Western India, and was 4° in defect in the North-Western and Central Provinces, where moderate to heavy rain had fallen during the previous twenty-four hours. Rain had fallen generally over the greater part of India. The largest amounts were recorded in the Konkan, Central Provinces, Circars, Orissa, the South-East Punjab, and the adjacent districts of the North-Western Provinces. Ratnagiri received 5·39 inches, Saugor and Bombay amounts exceeding 4 inches, and Mangalore, Mormugao, Khandwa, Chanda, Chakrata, and Delhi amounts exceeding 3 inches. Several other stations reported falls between 1 and 3 inches.

Tuesday.—Pressure had fallen over nearly the whole of India, the fall being brisk to rapid in the North-Western Provinces, Bengal, and Upper Burma, and a belt of low pressure stretched from Sind to West and South Bengal. Pressure was in considerable excess in the Punjab and was in slight defect in South-East Bengal, where a shallow depression was shown with a feeble but well marked cyclonic circulation of winds. Temperature had decreased everywhere, except in Bengal, and was in defect over nearly the whole of India. Showers of rain were reported from all provinces except the Punjab plains, Sind, Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and the eastern districts of the Central Provinces. In Bengal and the North-Western Provinces showers were local rather than general. Tavoy received 4·08 inches, Karwar 3·93 inches, Mormugao 3·93 inches, Goa 3·70 inches, and several other falls were reported between 1 and 3 inches in amount.

Wednesday.—Pressure had fallen rapidly in Bengal, Cachar, and Arakan, intensifying the depression in South-East Bengal, where pressure was nearly a quarter of an inch below the normal. Pressure was in more or less defect over nearly the whole of India owing to an accompanying rapid fall in North-Western India, where high pressure conditions had given way. Pressure was more than one-sixth of an inch in defect in Gujarat, and winds had a cyclonic tendency in that area. Temperature had increased rapidly in the Punjab and North-Western Provinces, but was still in defect over nearly the whole country. Heavy rain had fallen at Akyab (4·69 inches) and Chittagong (3·13 inches), and several falls of over 2 inches were reported from Burma and the West Coast districts.

Thursday.—The Bengal depression had drifted westwards, and its centre was a little to the north of Jessore. Pressure had fallen briskly in the South-West Punjab and Upper Sind, and a shallow depression covered that area. Steep gradients prevailed, especially over the Bay of Bengal. The threatened depression in Gujarat had not developed any further, but the winds continued to show a cyclonic tendency. Temperature was in slight excess in the Punjab and in general defect elsewhere. Chittagong continued to receive heavy rain (4·0 inches), and Barisal reported a fall of 4·43 inches. Light to moderate rain fell generally in Burma, Bengal, Assam, the West Coast districts, and Central India. Light local showers were also received in the North-Western and Central Provinces. Silchar, Rajkot, and Veraval reported falls between 2 and 3 inches.

Friday.—Pressure had risen briskly to rapidly in North-Western India, and was normal or in slight excess in that area. The Bengal depression had moved about 200 miles westward with its centre near Chaibassa. Temperature continued in slight excess in the Punjab, and was either normal or in defect elsewhere. Rain fell generally in Burma, Bengal, the West Coast districts, the Central Provinces, and Central India, but the falls were not as large as they had been for some days past. The heaviest showers were 2·96 inches at Rajkot and 2·25 inches at Akyab.

Saturday.—The depression had advanced as far as Baghelkhand and the adjacent districts of the North-Western and Central Provinces, and its centre was a little to the south of Sutna. It had apparently partially filled up during the previous twenty-four hours. Pressure had again fallen briskly in Gujarat and the Konkan and was largely in defect in North Bombay, and winds had shifted at Surat and Ahmedabad, indicating a renewed cyclonic tendency in Gujarat. Winds were very light in Lower Burma, several of the coast stations reporting calms at 8 A.M. Temperature changes were small, except in Bengal, where temperature had risen slightly, and in the Central Provinces, where it had fallen briskly. Rain was heavier in Burma and the Central Provinces. Falls exceeding 2 inches were reported from Tavoy (5·1 inches), Rajkot (4·57 inches), Saugor (4·36 inches), Akyab (2·45 inches), and Raipur (2·21 inches).

Temperature.—The Punjab received rain on the 11th, which caused a rapid decrease of temperature on that day and the day following; but, as practically no rain fell in that province during the rest of the week, temperature rose again, and was in slight excess of the normal on the last three days of the week. Temperature was also in excess on most days of the week in Sind, but in East Rajputana, where an unusually large amount of rain had fallen, temperature was reduced to largely below the normal. On the 12th the deficiency in this area for the previous twenty-four hours amounted to 7·7°. Temperature has been most largely in defect throughout the week in Central India and the North-Western and Central Provinces. The variations from the normal have been smallest in Burma, Bengal, Assam, and Madras. The mean temperature for the week was normal in Burma, the Punjab, and Madras. It was in slight defect in Bengal and Assam, Bombay, Sind, and Rajputana, and was most in defect in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Central Provinces and Berar, and Central India and Gujarat.

The mean temperature for the whole of India was normal on the 10th, decreased rapidly till the 12th, when it was 4° below the normal, and continued in defect to the end of the week. For the whole week it was 1·8° in defect.

The following table gives the variations of the mean temperature from the normal on each day of the week for the different provinces of India :

Rainfall.—The table at the close shows that every division of the country received rain during the past week. The largest average falls for the district were recorded in Tenasserim with an average fall of 15·73 inches, Arakan 13·69 inches, and the Konkan 12·79 inches. The rainfall of the week was generally in defect in Bengal, Oudh, Malabar, and Madras. The largest absolute excess was in the Konkan and Tenasserim, and the largest absolute defect in Cachar.

For the period ending 16th June the rainfall was in defect in Bengal, Central Burma and Arakan, Oudh, the submontane and north-western districts of the Punjab, Berar, Khandesh, Malabar, Mysore, Coorg, and Madras. The largest excess expressed as a percentage of the normal rainfall of the period was in Kathiawar and Gujarat, where moderately heavy rain fell during the week, Karva registering a fall of over 4 inches on the 11th and Pardi (also in Gujarat) receiving a total of over 18 inches during the week.

Several stations in the Konkan, Bombay Deccan, Tenasserim, and Akyab have received large amounts of rain during the week. The largest amounts are the following: Rajapur (Ratnagiri) 23·63 inches, Colaba (Alibag) 20·45 inches, Thaton (Tenasserim) 18·92 inches, Bavda (Kolhapur) 18·37 inches, Rathedaung (Akyab) 18·22 inches, and Pardi (Gujarat) 18·21 inches.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 16th June.—Rainfall good in Circars and seasonable on the West Coast; light showers in most other districts. Cultivation and sowing in progress generally. Most of the standing crops are good, but need rain in parts. Irrigation water still scanty. Pasturage scarce, but fodder sufficient. Prices remain at high level, and are rather dearer in some of the Southern districts.

Bombay.—For week ending 20th June.—Rain throughout the Presidency; more required in two districts. Preparation of lands for next season progressing in parts of ten districts and stopped in one owing to continual rain. Sowing general, but retarded in parts of four districts owing to deficiency or excess of moisture. Agricultural stock poor and fodder insufficient in parts of two districts. Prices steady, except in parts of two districts. Numbers on relief works: Baroda, 1,127.

Bengal.—For week ending 16th June.—The monsoon rains have commenced over the province, and present agricultural prospects are favourable. Cultivation is now general and well forward. Sowings of early rice and jute are nearly complete. The sowing of other autumn crops and of winter rice is in progress. Sugarcane and indigo have benefited by the rain in Bihar. The millets are being harvested with good outturn. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. The price of common rice is generally normal, except in the Eastern districts, where it is still high. In Tipperah distress continues to be reported from the Bramanbaria sub-division, and also to some extent from the Sadr sub-division.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 20th June.—Rain has been general during the week. Preparations for the autumn crops are in active progress. In two districts sowings have begun. Supplies are ample. Prices fairly steady.

Punjab.—For week ending 20th June.—Rain fell over the whole province. Harvesting of spring crops nearly over. Ploughings and sowings of autumn crops commenced. Irrigation of sugarcane and cotton in progress. Extra spring crops in good condition. Prospects of autumn crops good. Slight hail fell in parts of Dera Ismail Khan, but no damage has been caused. Cattle in good condition, and fodder sufficient throughout the province. Prices rising in Delhi, continue high in Umballa and Rawalpindi, normal in four other districts, and low elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 20th June.—Rain has been general; light in the Nagpur country, and heavier in the Nerbudda valley and Chhattisgarh.

Saugor has again registered as much as 5 inches. In Saugor the numbers on relief works have risen to 7,700, of which 1,566 are men. In Damoh they have fallen and are now only 1,333. No gratuitous relief. Both districts continue to import largely, Saugor receiving 26,400 maunds at three out of the five stations in the district, and Damoh receiving by road 17,200 maunds. Cart freights to Damoh have nearly trebled. Prices remain stationary at Saugor, where wheat sells at 14 seers and gram at 18. In Damoh they have risen, and are respectively 10⅝ and 13¾ seers. In the adjacent districts they are stationary, wheat selling at 15 seers in Jabalpur, at 13½ seers in Narsinghpur, and at 16 seers in Hoshangabad, and gram at 24, 24 and 22½ seers respectively. Prospects for the autumn harvest continue to be generally favourable.

Burma.—For week ending 16th June.—Rainfall general, except in two districts. In Lower Burma ploughing for the main paddy crop is general, but is delayed in one district by cattle-disease. In Upper Burma reaping of dry-weather paddy is almost completed. Transplanting and sowing of early wet-weather paddy progressing, and ploughing for main wet-weather paddy and other crops commenced. Standing crops in good condition, but some damage from floods is reported in one district. Fodder and water-supply sufficient. Prices low with rising tendency.

[In the following Notification " Notes " means " Promissory Notes of the Government of India," and includes " Stock-Certificates " issued in lieu thereof:]

1. Notice is hereby given that all the Notes of the Four per cent. Loan of 1842-43 will be discharged at the General Treasury of Fort William (Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta) on November 1st, 1894, on which date the interest on such Notes will cease.

2. Proprietors of Notes hereby advertised for discharge have the option, which must be exercised before noon of Saturday, July 28th, 1894, of tendering their Notes for reduction of interest from 4 per cent to 3½ per cent., such reduction to have effect from August 1st, 1895.

3. The reduced loan thus constituted will be known as the 3½ per cent. Loan of 1842-43, and no part of it will be paid off or discharged before August 1st, 1904, nor until the expiration of three months after notice of payment to be given by the Governor General of India in Council in the Government Gazette.

4. Notes may be tendered for reduction of interest at the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, or at any other Bank (including the Bank of England) or Treasury, to which they are for the time being enfaced for payment of interest. Notes so tendered must bear the following endorsement duly signed:

"This Note (or Stock-Certificate) is tendered for reduction of interest in terms of Notification of June 30th, 1894."

5. On Notes so tendered (in addition to any interest already due and payable on them) interest will, as soon as possible after the Notes are tendered, be paid in anticipation, namely:

(1) Two Rupees per Rs. 100 falling due on August 1st, 1894;

(2) Eight annas per Rs. 100, being the difference of interest accruing up to July 31st, 1895.

6. Every Note so tendered will be enfaced in the following terms before it is returned to the proprietor:

"The interest payable on this Note is reduced to 3½ per cent., and the principal amount will not be discharged before August 1st, 1904."

7. All future payments of interest on any Note so enfaced will be made on the usual half yearly dates as if the Note bore interest at 3½ per cent. instead of 4 per cent.

8. When a Note so enfaced comes in ordinary course under renewal, it will be renewed in its original form, save that—

(1) For "four per cent." will be substituted "three-and-a-half per cent."

(2) A clause will be added at the end—"The Governor General in Council hereby engages that this Note shall not be discharged before August 1st, 1904."

9. If by reason of the duly certified absence from India of the proprietor or of one of the proprietors of a Note included in the terms of this notification a legal signature to the endorsement mentioned in clause 4 cannot be given by noon of Saturday, July 28th, 1894, then in such case the tender will be accepted if the Note be left in the custody of the Public Debt Office, Bank, or Treasury (as the case may be), and the tender be legally signed before noon of Saturday, August 18th, 1894.

10. In addition to the above payment of interest, a further payment of two annas per Rs. 100 will be made as brokerage or commission to the receipt of the person, whether proprietor or agent, who tenders the Note for reduction of interest.

[Revised Advertisement.]

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Volume VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is R45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made) : packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume ; for England, 2 rupees 6 annas per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, R6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, etc. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages, Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and half of G; Volume IV, latter half of G to middle of L, and Volume V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year, but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as foresaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days, or, if the vessel has been placed in quarantine for fifteen days, for a period of fifteen days. If a case of plague occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.

VII.—Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as the Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.

VIII.—It will be the duty of the Port Officer to facilitate the conveyance to all vessels in quarantine of such supplies of provisions, stores, and other articles as may be required by those on board. GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Weather Review of India for the Week ending at 8 a.m. on Saturday, June 23rd, 1894.

General Summary.—The depression which at the close of last week had advanced as far as Sutna continued to move in a westerly direction, and by Sunday morning its centre was near Neemuch, where pressure was a sixth of an inch in defect. It apparently filled up during the next twenty-four hours after giving light to moderate rain to the western districts of the Central Provinces. The heaviest fall, however, was only 2·56 inches at Neemuch. The low pressure area in Gujarat, referred to in last week's summary, filled up the same day. What would appear to have been an entirely independent depression appeared covering Rajputana simultaneously with the disappearance of the depression from the Bay. By Tuesday morning this depression had advanced to the North and East Punjab, and a central depression area, in which pressure was nearly two-tenths of an inch in defect, lay along the foot of the hills between Sialkot, Lahore, and Ludhiana. Heavy rain fell in the area of the disturbance, Lahore reporting a total of 5·32 inches on the 19th and 20th, Chakrata 6·77 inches, Mussooree 4·89 inches, and Simla 4·20 inches. But the depression filled up during the next twenty-four hours, and during the rest of the week there was practically no rain in the Punjab plains and only local showers in the hills. Indications of possibly disturbed weather in the Bay showed themselves on the 17th and 18th, which on the 19th developed into a very shallow depression in Orissa and the eastern districts of the Central Provinces. The depression continued to develop slowly, and on the 21st had commenced to move in a west-north-west direction. It passed through Orissa, and had advanced as far as Chota Nagpur by the close of the week. As in the case of the similar depression last week, the rainfall it gave rise to was small in amount, and the winds, though cyclonic in direction, were very feeble in intensity.

The rainfall of the week was mainly determined by the depressions above mentioned. The Bombay monsoon current showed a decided falling off on the West Coast, which was most noticeable in the Konkan; and the Central Provinces and Malabar were the only provinces to which it gave moderately heavy rain during the week. In North-Eastern India there was very little rain at the commencement of the week, but on the development of the cyclonic storm in the north-west angle of the Bay rainfall increased, and by Saturday morning fairly general rain was falling in Burma, Bengal, Assam, and Chota Nagpur.

Temperature was in defect in most provinces, and the mean temperature for the whole of India for the week was 1·9° below the normal.

Daily Summary.—Sunday.—Pressure had fallen briskly in the western districts of the Central Provinces, to which the depression of last week had advanced. Pressure continued in considerable defect in Gujarat and North Bombay. Winds were cyclonic in direction in the depression area and showed a cyclonic tendency in Gujarat, but elsewhere were fairly normal in direction and intensity. Rain amounting to more than two inches was reported from Ratnagiri (6·52 inches), Mercara (2·33 inches), Belgaum (2·13 inches), and Neemuch (2·56 inches).

Monday.—Pressure had fallen by large amounts in the Punjab and North Rajputana, and a shallow depression was shown covering Rajputana. Pressure had increased briskly in Gujarat and slightly in Central India, and the Bay of Bengal depression had apparently filled up. Winds were much lighter on the Bombay Coast and had shifted in direction, indicating that the Bombay monsoon current had fallen off in strength. Rain had fallen generally over the greater part of India, but the falls were chiefly small in amount. Jalpaiguri received 4·7 inches, Moulmein 2·48 inches, Akyab 2·21 inches, and Ahmedabad 2·75 inches.

Tuesday.—Pressure had given way rapidly in the North and East Punjab, and a depression, with pressure nearly two-tenths of an inch in defect, lay along the foot of the hills between Sialkot, Lahore, and Ludhiana, giving heavy rain at Lahore, Sialkot, and the contiguous hill stations. Pressure had also given way briskly in Orissa and Ganjam, and a very shallow depression was shown in Orissa and the eastern districts of the Central Provinces. Strong winds were blowing at the Upper India hill stations and on the Kathiawar and Cutch Coasts. The heaviest reported falls of rain were—at Lahore 4·94 inches, Tavoy 4·46 inches, Bickaneer 4·36 inches, Sialkot 2·8 inches, Chakrata 2·23 inches, Hazaribagh 2·29 inches, Mercara 2·15 inches, Roorkee 2·02 inches, and Ludhiana 2·01 inches.

Wednesday.—A very rapid increase of pressure had taken place in Upper India, and the Punjab depression had completely filled up. Pressure continued to decrease in Orissa and had also fallen in South-West Bengal, and the depression of the day before was shown covering the north-west angle of the Bay and Orissa. Winds continued feeble on the Konkan Coast. Heavy rain fell in Malabar, but only light showers in the Konkan and the Central Provinces. Heavy rain was again reported from the depression area in Upper India, Chakrata receiving 4·54 inches, Mussooree 3·52 inches, Simla 2·62 inches, and Dehra Dun 2·35 inches. The most noteworthy falls in other parts of India were Moulmein 6·88 inches, Calicut 4·78 inches, Silchar 4·57 inches, Mangalore 3·56 inches, Diamond Island 3·25 inches, and amounts exceeding two inches at Mercara, Balasore, and Tavoy.

Thursday.—The depression in the north of the Bay had developed slightly, and its centre was probably between Saugor Island and False Point. Moderate to heavy rain was received in Bengal, Burma, the Central Provinces, East Deccan, North Madras, and Malabar; but practically no rain fell over the whole of North-Western and Central India and North Bombay. Moulmein received 3·25 inches, and Rangoon, Diamond Island, Silchar, Sibsagar, Rajahmundry, Cocanada, Saugor, Hoshangabad, and Pachmarhi amounts exceeding two inches.

Friday.—Pressure had changed almost everywhere by only small amounts. The depression in North-Eastern India had advanced across the coast into Orissa, but it lacked concentration, its central depression area being characterized by great uniformity of pressure. Rain had fallen in only small amounts at most stations, the principal falls being Sibsagar 4·02 inches and Pachmarhi 2·04 inches. No other stations had received as much as two inches.

Saturday.—The depression had advanced as far as Chota Nagpur, but was not of much importance, as it continued to be of a diffused and feeble character. Pressure had increased briskly in the North and East Punjab and also in South Bengal, but elsewhere its changes were small and unimportant. The Bombay monsoon current was again feeble, and gave fairly general rain only in the Central Provinces. General rain had fallen in Burma, Bengal, Chota Nagpur, Bihar, the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, and the Upper India hill districts. Moulmein received 4·05 inches, Kindat 3·75 inches, Lucknow 3·37 inches, Mussooree 3·02 inches, Nagpur 2·85 inches, Murree 2·45 inches, and Dehra Dun 2·3 inches.

Temperature has been steadily in defect throughont the week in the North-Western Provinces, Central Provinces, Central India, Sind, and Rajputana. Temperature has risen during the week to nearly normal in Burma, Bengal, Assam, and Bombay, and was less in defect in Central India than it was last week. The heavy rain received in the Punjab at the commencement of the week reduced the temperature of that province to largely below the normal, the deficiency on the 19th and 20th amounting to more than 7° and 8°; but with the cessation of rain temperature rose rapidly, and on the 22nd was. 1° in excess. The mean temperature of the week was normal in Burma, Bengal, Assam, Bombay, and Madras, and in moderate to considerable defect in the North-Western Provinces, Punjab, Central Provinces, Central India, Sind, and Rajputana. The defect was largest in the Central Provinces and Berar, where rain fell on every day of the week, the temperature being lowest at the close of the week, when the rainfall was heaviest.

For the whole of India the mean temperature was more or less in defect every day, the deficiency for the whole week amounting to 1·9°.

Rainfall.—The depression at the foot of the Punjab hills at the commencement of the week gave heavy rain to the Punjab, especially in the submontane and hill districts. The North-Western Provinces also had more rain than usual, but, unlike the Punjab, the rainfall was distributed throughout the week, there being only one day on which practically no rain fell. Heavy rain fell locally in the Konkan, Bombay, Deccan, and Malabar, but taken generally the rainfall on the West Coast fell off in amount considerably during the week. The Bombay monsoon current, however, continued to give good general rain to the Central Provinces and Berar, rain having fallen at every rain-gauge station in this area; but none of them reported any very heavy falls. In Bengal the rainfall of the week was generally in defect, except in the Brahmaputra Valley and Orissa, where a slight excess of the normal was received. The largest average fall of the week was again reported from Tenasserim, which received an average of 17·47 inches at its two stations of Moulmein and Thaton. The rainfall of the week was generally in excess of the normal in Tenasserim and Lower Burma, the North-Western Provinces, the Punjab, Rajputana, and the Central Provinces and Berar.

The variations from the normal of the rainfall of the period 3rd to 23rd June differ in no material respects from those of the week. An excess has been received in the provinces of the Punjab, North-Western and Central Provinces, and Berar, and also in the divisions of Tenasserim, Lower Burma, Orissa, Chota Nagpur, Coorg, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, Gujarat, Kathiawar, Rajputana, and the Madras East Coast (North). In all other divisions the rainfall is more or less in defect. The defect is absolutely greatest in Arakan, and most striking when considered as a percentage of the normal in South Madras.

The largest amounts of rain received during the week were the following:

West Coast districts.—Bavda (Kolhapur) 20·99 inches, Tellicherry (Calicut) 13·95 inches, Rajapur (Ratnagiri) 13·77 inches, and Karkal (South Kanara) 13·04 inches.

Punjab.—Dharamsala 19·41 inches, Dasuya (Hoshiarpur) 15·66 inches, Pathankote (Gurdaspur) 15·25 inches, Jullundur 14·05 inches, and Zira (Ferozepore) 13·42 inches.

Tenasserim.—Moulmein 18·17 inches, and Thaton 16·77 inches.

Snowfall.—An interesting report from a chauki on the Niti Pass leading into Thibet was received during the week from the Deputy Commissioner of the Garhwal district. The snowfall of the past winter is stated to have been abnormally heavy in the vicinity of the pass and also in Thibet, where it has been the cause of heavy loss in live stock. The accumulation of snow on the pass at the beginning of June was estimated at from 15 to 18 feet, and it was only with great difficulty that the pass was crossed lately by a few Thibetans, who say that they have never seen such snow.

Weekly Report on the state of the Season and Prospects of the Crops.

Madras.—For week ending 23rd June.—Rainfall good on the West Coast, Nilgiris, and Circars, except Kistna; elsewhere, excepting the Southern districts and Trichinopoly and Coimbatore, light to moderate showers. Rain wanted in many districts, especially the Southern. Cultivation and sowing generally proceeding favourably. Standing crops good, but need rain in parts. Pasture improving and fodder abundant. Cattle in good condition. Prices continue at a very high level, and are rather dearer in many districts, chiefly in the southern half of the Presidency and in Ganjam.

Bombay.—For week ending 27th June.—Rain throughout the Presidency Proper; more required in four districts. Preparations for next season progressing in parts of fourteen districts. Sowing continues in parts of eighteen districts, but retarded in two owing to want of rain. Transplanting commenced in parts of two districts. Agricultural stock poor and fodder insufficient in parts of two districts. Prices steady, except in parts of one district. Numbers on relief works: Baroda, 243.

Bengal.—For week ending 23rd June.—Rain fell generally, but the amount received is below normal, except in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. At the close of the week monsoon conditions were more strongly developed. Prospects of all standing crops, including early rice and jute, continue favourable. The harvesting of early rice and jute has begun in parts of North and East Bengal. Cattle are generally in good condition, and fodder and water are plentiful. The price of common rice is high in the Eastern districts; elsewhere normal. In Tipperah slight distress continues to be reported from parts of the Brahmanbaria sub-division and from thana Muradnagar in the Sadr sub-division. In this area the rainfall has been satisfactory, and a bumper early rice and jute crop is expected.

North-Western Provinces and Oudh.—For week ending 27th June.—The rainfall has been general and somewhat heavy in many districts. Agricultural operations have begun everywhere. Sugarcane is flourishing. Supplies are ample. Prices generally steady.

Punjab.—For week ending 27th June.—Rain has fallen in all but three districts. Spring crops are being gleaned. Ploughings and sowings of autumn crops commenced. Standing crops are in good condition, and prospects are said to be good to average. Recent rains are beneficial. Crops on the banks of the Ravi river are greatly damaged by the recent heavy floods. The Indus in Dera Ismail Khan is also in flood. An insect called muchhal (a cricket of the genus gryllodes) is causing much damage in parts of Dera Ismail Khan. Cattle are generally in good condition, and fodder is sufficient throughout the province. Prices high in three districts, and rising in two others; low in five districts, normal in one, and falling in two others.

Central Provinces.—For week ending 27th June.—The rainfall has been heavy throughout the provinces. Saugor has registered as much as 12 inches and Damoh 5 inches. In Saugor the number on relief works for three tahsils is 5,598, of which 1,384 are men; figures for Saugor tahsil not received. In Damoh the number has fallen, and stands at 1,323 persons. No gratuitous relief. Saugor imported 39,236 and Damoh 14,952 maunds of grain. Prices remain almost stationary at Saugor, and are now—wheat $13\frac{3}{4}$, gram $18\frac{1}{2}$, and rice 10 seers, and in Damoh wheat sells at $10\frac{5}{8}$ seers, gram at $13\frac{9}{16}$, and rice at $10\frac{1}{16}$. In the adjacent districts they are stationary, wheat selling at 15 seers in Jabalpur, at 13½ seers in Narsinghpur, and at 16 seers in Hoshangabad; gram at 23, 24 and 20½ seers respectively, and rice at 9 seers in Narsinghpur. Sowing and transplanting of rice in progress in Chhattisgarh.

Burma.—For week ending 23rd June.—Rainfall general, and, except in one district, sufficient for the present. Ploughing for the main paddy crop has become general throughout the province, and nurseries for the same crop are under preparation in several districts. Cotton, maize, and sesamum are being sown. Standing crops are promising, but damage has been done by floods in one district. Fodder and water-supply sufficient. Prices below normal, but with rising tendency.

Assam.—For week ending 26th June.—Weather seasonable. Sowing of late rice seedlings and ploughing for late rice continue. Prospects of tea good in Sylhet; backward in Nowgong and Sibsagar. Blight is reported from Cachar. Condition of cattle fair and fodder abundant, except in parts of Sylhet. Water sufficient.

Mysore and Coorg.—For week ending 27th June.—MYSORE: Slight rain in parts. Standing crops in good condition. Harvesting of rice continues. Prices fallen in one district.

COORG: Rainfall good. Sowing of rice continues. Prospects of ragi (Eleusine coracana), coffee, and cardamom fair. Fodder and water for cattle abundant. Prices continue normal.

Berar and Hyderabad.—For week ending 27th June.—BERAR: Rainfall good. Weather hot and cloudy. Land being prepared for next rain crop. Cotton sowing in progress throughout the province. Insufficiency of fodder still continues in the Akola and Ellichpur talukas. Water-supply adequate. Prices risen in Buldana and Wun.

HYDERABAD: Rainfall moderate during the week. Lands are being prepared for the sowing of autumn crops. Prices continue normal.

Central India.—For week ending 27th June.—Rain fell throughout Central India during the week; the fall was sufficient. In parts of Gwalior and the Neemuch district sowing has commenced, and is in progress elsewhere. Agricultural stock in indifferent condition in Gwalior, Bhopal, and parts of Goona; in fairly good condition in other Agencies. Pasturage good and sufficient generally. Prices rising above normal in Bhopal and parts of Gwalior and Bhopawar; continue at normal in other Agencies.

Rajputana.—For week ending 27th June.—Good rainfall in Marwar, Kherwara, Pertabgarh, Meywar, Kotah, Harowti, Ajmere, Kishengarh, and Kerauli; slight rain elsewhere. Agricultural operations going on. Agricultural stock generally good and pasturage or fodder sufficient. Prices risen in two States, fluctuating in two, falling in two, and steady elsewhere.

Kashmir.—KASHMIR VALLEY.—For week ending 26th June.—Steady rain for two days in the week. Barley and wheat standing crops especially have suffered by floods in villages along the river, which is now going down. Prices continue normal.

JAMMU PROVINCE.—For week ending 27th June.—Slight rain. Weather cloudy. Ploughing for autumn crops in progress. Standing crops in fair condition. Fodder sufficient. Prices rising.

Nepal.—For week ending 23rd June.—Heavy showers throughout the week. Prospects good.
